GUNS SPIT IN MANCHURIA

Firing Reported on Both Sides

Soviets Said to Have Bombed Town at Terminus of Chinese Railway

Ranking Told Russians Have Given Way in Stand, Thus Aiding Peace Hopes

TOKIO, Sept. 8. (Monday) (AP) Japan News Agency dispatches from Hsinking, Manchuria, today said Pogranichnaya, at the eastern terminus of the Chinese Eastern Railway, was bombed from the air and raided by Russian soviet infantry Sunday afternoon. Much of the city was burned. Residents took refuge in cellars.

By the Associated Press

Contradictory developments came today in the troubled Manchurian crisis between China and soviet Russia.

Both sides reported unwarranted actions along the border by the other. An official Tass News Agency dispatch from Vladivostok asserted that Chinese artillery and rifles opened fire on soviet troops across the border.

Chinese sources were quoted by Tokio as describing twenty hours of fighting near Dalainor, in Western Manchuria, "with considerable loss on both sides" before the Chinese ousted an invasion by 1000 Russians. It also charged that an unarmed attempt at an invasion by the Russians was made on the Manchuli border Friday morning.

In opposition to these threats of actual or open warfare the Chinese Minister to Germany telegraphed Nanking that the soviet government has withdrawn its invitation that a new Russian general manager and assistant manager of the Chinese Eastern Railway be immediately be installed as a preliminary to peace negotiations.

It was the demand, avowedly, that has held up opening negotiations for more than a month. The former Russian manager and assistant were removed by the Chinese early in July on charges of carrying on Communistic propaganda and misusing funds of the road. The Chinese demand to which the soviet agreed in accepting new Russian officials until the whole matter has been gone into.

WAR BETWEEN REDS AND WHITES FLARE UP

BY FRED HOGUE
"Times" Staff Correspondent

HARBIN, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Hostilities fighting is taking place in scattered villages along the Manchurian-Siberian border; but it is not mass war. It is generally only between Whites and Reds at present.

Nanking cannot control its White subjects and Moscow cannot control its Siberian contingents. These minor raids are likely to continue.

Upside Down Air Record Smashed

BREMEN, Sept. 8. (AP)—A young German aviator named Achgelis, who passed the pilot's examination only in July, today flew upside down for thirty-seven minutes without interruption, which is believed to be a world record. It is not an official one, however, because the necessary notice was not given to air officials.

Achgelis plans a second attempt shortly.

Will Rogers Remarks:

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 8. [To the Editor of The Times:]—The plane accident was terribly unfortunate and it no doubt will have a tendency with some of the more skeptical ones to say that aviation is unsafe. Their death will receive tremendous publicity all over the country, but on Monday morning when you read this, if you had the entire statistics of everybody all over our country who was killed today (Sunday) by autos, well, it will be lucky if it's under twenty-five. Yet some of their deaths will never be published beyond their own country newspapers. Yet every one of them is just as dead as those on the plane. Travel by air is here to stay and all the doubt in the world can't stop it. Accidents by plane will soon be taken the same as we take the news that a train at a grade crossing has killed a truckload of people, just a matter of fact.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

SECRET OF MILLIKAN RAY FOUND

Wave Length Discovered by Regener to Be Shortest of Any Now Classified

LAKE CONSTANCE, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—A valuable supplement to Prof. Robert A. Millikan's discoveries in the ultra X-ray has resulted from a series of experiments by Prof. Wilhelm Regener of Stuttgart, who in applying the Millikan ray in a depth of water was able from this study to find the manner in which these rays spread, thereby establishing the wave length of the Millikan ray.

The sensational fact was revealed that the wave length is shorter than any other known ray.

Prof. Regener's experiments complement those carried out on the Jungfrau Glacier in Switzerland by the German physicist, Prof. Kohlhoerster, when he discovered that the Millikan ray could penetrate a block of stone two yards thick. Prof. Regener found that the electroscope revealed an effective penetration of the Millikan ray as far down as 225 meters below the lake's surface. Allowing for the comparative density between rock and water this shows that these rays have even greater force than Prof. Kohlhoerster's experiment revealed.

NEW TARIFF PLEA MADE

Farm Units Join Demands

Twelve Large Organizations Call for Higher Duties on Score of Items

Growers Cite Heavy Losses Due to Flood of Foreign Food Crops

BY LAWRENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—In a last-minute attempt to stiffen the backbones of Senators from agricultural States, twelve of the largest farm organizations in the country joined today in a sweeping demand for higher duties on farm products than those carried in the Hawley-Smoot bill.

Debate on the bill is scheduled to get under way shortly after noon tomorrow and these farm organizations, which have not had much to say since the report of the Senate Finance Committee was made public, have timed their blast so that it will be fresh in the minds of every Senator at the outset of the fight.

INCREASES SOUGHT

In brief, they ask for substantial increase in the rates proposed on twenty-seven farm commodities including sugar and tobacco, and some of the major interest to California. The purport of the statement is that the campaign being waged by Senator Borah and other Republican insurgents to limit tariff revision to agriculture is entirely justified. They also demand, and President Hoover will thank them for it, that the bill be passed in the special session.

The twelve farm organizations, headed by the National Grange and the American Farm Bureau Federation, ask, among other things, further tariff increases on vegetable oils, oil-bearing seeds, live cattle, frozen and dried eggs, cherries of all description, beans, peas, fresh tomatoes, celery, cattle, hides and raw wool. They also demand that long staple cotton, now on the free list, be made dutiable at 7 cents a pound, that the seasonal feature of the tariff on eggplant and cucumbers be removed, and that sugar be given not less than the 2.40 rate adopted by the House.

Other organizations joining in the demands are: National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, National Dairy Union, American National Live Stock Association, National Wool Marketing Council, Southern Tariff Association, Advisory Board Growers' Tariff League, Vegetable Growers' Association of America, Kansas State Live Stock Association, Central Co-operative Association and the National Live Stock Producers' Association.

The statement by the agricultural groups urged elimination of the preferential tariff position accorded the Philippines, asserting it places an unfair burden upon the farmers of the mainland. As for live stock they said the industry in the United States is entitled to a greater measure of protection because of large importations from Mexico. Sugar producers must be given increased duties, they declared, or lose enormous sums, with the smaller operators being forced out of business.

GROWERS' CAUSE PLEADED

Bespeaking more consideration, generally, for the fruit and vegetable industry, the statement said:

"During the last few years, our growers of fruits and vegetables have had to face unusually keen competition from imported products. These importations often arrive at the very time the domestic markets are glutted by peak receipts of domestic products, with the result that prices are demoralized and producers often suffer great losses. The perishable nature of the products entitles their producers to especial consideration in the form of tariff protection."

Louis P. Miller, representing the Vegetable Growers' Association of America, was one of those signing the statement.

The farm tariff program made no mention whatever of other rates in the tariff bill.

Picturing a period of distress for agriculture over the last eight years, during which taxes have increased for the farmer while his purchasing power has fallen from 15 to 25 per cent below prewar levels, the farmer organization said:

"A condition of this kind is difficult to rectify by means of reducing production because the interest of the individual farmer requires that he make his land yield all that his acreage will permit. In consequence we have the spectacle of some crops being produced beyond the national need with farmers unable to bring about a condition of balanced production because of more than $600,000,000 worth of agricultural products being imported into this country and offered at prices which make it difficult for domestic agriculture to compete with the foreign products.

The third arrow points to the left wing of the huge craft, which is lying approximate 300 feet from the main portion of the wreck.

NEW METAL RESISTS HEAT

Westinghouse Company Announces Alloy Which, Red Hot, Exceeds Strength of Steel

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (AP)—Discovery of a metal that, while red hot, is stronger than steel, was announced today by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Its field of usefulness is for another step in confining the powers of raging heat and making them run machines. The announcement says the new alloy can be used in the moving parts of internal combustion engines and in other extremely hot places. Its strength when red hot—that is, at about 1100 deg. Fahrenheit—is 60,000 pounds per square inch for pressure.

Konel is the alloy's name. It is made of cobalt, nickel and ferrotitanium. The name is a combination of cobalt and nickel.

Development of konel is another story of science unexpectedly discovering the key to one of nature's secrets. It was made originally to fill the need of radio for a cheaper substitute for $180-an-ounce platinum for filaments. In that field it was such a success that the announcement says it has saved about $250,000 monthly in the manufacture of radio tubes.

The great strength in the presence of heat that weaken most other metals was discovered when konel proved more difficult to forge than high-speed steel. The creator of the alloy is a minister's son, Dr. E. F. Lowry, formerly of Delaware, O.

NATIONAL CONGRESS ON METALS TO MEET

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8. (AP)—Some well-defined triumphs during the past year by scientists over important problems of strength, hardness and durability of metals are to be brought to the attention of the nation tomorrow when five organizations convene here for the National Metal Congress and Exposition.

The exposition will include 80,000 square feet of public auditorium floor space filled with such things as power presses exerting a force of 220 tons, shears that snip off five-inch steel bars and gas furnaces heating steel for treatment at temperatures as high as 3000 deg. Fahrenheit. Special eight-inch mains will supply gas for the apparatus on display.

Approximately 50,000 persons are expected here for the meetings and exposition.

Ship Sends SOS, Then Vanishes

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Sept. 8. (AP)—A Danish coal steamer named Dan is believed to have sunk with the loss of all hands in the Baltic today.

An SOS call was picked up here, which reported the steamer about eighty miles out. Airplanes and torpedo boats dashed to the rescue, but found no trace of the steamer. The theory was advanced that the ship struck a floating mine, relic of World War days.

The 3500-ton craft carried a crew of twenty-five.

Interurban-Truck Wreck Takes Five Lives and So Does Highway Smash

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Five persons were killed and two seriously injured tonight in the crash of an interurban car into a truck near Angola. The dead are:

Jack Brown, 50 years of age, driver of the truck.

FIVE LOSE LIVES IN TRUCK-BUS CRASH

BENTON HARBOR (Mich.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Five persons were killed and fifteen injured in a collision between a motor bus and a truck and trailer five miles east of here at 3:15 a.m. today.

Only three of the dead were identified. They are Mrs. Jose Quinones of North Branch, Mich., and her infant daughter and William Stewart, 25 years of age, of Saginaw, Mich.

The bus driver, John Shane, 25, Oswosso, Mich., is held on a charge of negligent homicide. Only five of the twenty-five in the bus, operated by the Indian Trails Line, escaped injury.

Locomotive Runs Rail Race With Death and Wins

SPRING VALLEY (N. Y.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Engineer John Weir of the Erie Railroad today raced his locomotive after a runaway caboose containing two men, and with automatic coupling caught the flying car. The caboose started down grade on the same track on which Weir's engine was standing.

Weir put on all steam, fearing the caboose would crash into a passenger train coming into the station. The coupling effected at high speed, the engineer backed his engine and retrieved the caboose on to a siding in time for the passenger train to pass on schedule.

Thousands Homeless on Luzon; Relief From Water Shortage Effected

MANILA, Sept. 9. (Monday) (AP) Deaths caused by the typhoon which swept Southern Luzon Island had increased to more than 200 today, with thousands of persons homeless in the stricken areas.

Reports of additional casualties were received from the devastated regions near the town of Infanta, on the western coast of Tayabas Province.

The United States destroyer Edsall was en route to the east coast of Luzon for relief work, while army planes surveyed the stricken districts.

Thousands of persons were reported to be homeless and hungry.

Officer Kills Fake Robber in Show Trick

SHAWNEE (Okla.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Ahrind Ruhberg, 32 years of age, was shot here last night while playing the part of a robber in a simulated hold-up, staged as a theatrical press-agent stunt, and is dying at a hospital here tonight.

W. N. Jones, a policeman, fired the fatal shot, not knowing that the robbery was not real.

Ruhberg, a theater employee, concocted the histrionic effects after another theater had started a make-believe fire to attract patrons.

BODIES FOUND CHARRED IN AIR LINER WRECKAGE

Rescuers Carry Them to Grant Trees Sheared Off by Ship's Fall Prior to Explosion

GRANT (N. M.) Sept. 8. (AP)—The last search for the Transcontinental Air Transport plane, City of San Francisco, ended today as a party of forest rangers, an ambulance crew and newspaper men lifted a burnt and crumpled fuselage from the chasm bodies of the five passengers and a crew of three on the side of Mt. Taylor, near its summit, and twenty-seven miles northeast of here.

Tonight a heavy-hearted and weary procession tolled its way with the burden of human wreckage to Grant.

After a tedious trek through ravines and through thick underbrush during which the bodies of the victims were carried on stretchers for seven miles by men in the rescue party, the bodies were brought here in ambulances.

The bodies were unrecognizable with the exception of that of the woman passenger, which had been burned less severely than others.

The impact of the plane, which disappeared last Tuesday and was located first yesterday from the air by Pilot George K. Rice of the Western Air Express passenger plane, plowed a swath 300 feet long through the heavily wooded mountain side. It had thrown the bodies forward until all were crowded toward the front of the cabin. One lay virtually crushed under the crushed and almost totally destroyed center motor of the trimotored ship, the latest model passenger liner.

TREES SHEARED OFF

An area more than 300 feet square about the wreckage literally was covered with debris.

The plane, following its regular route from Albuquerque, N. M., to Los Angeles on its last flight, had crashed into a pine tree sixty-seven feet above the ground. The left motor struck the tree and the propeller slashed deeply its trunk and felled the upper part. At the right a few paces farther on, a second stub stood, a little larger in diameter, against which another motor received the blow which ended its usefulness. Less than a dozen feet away in a boulder-strewn swale this motor lay, not an unbroken part left.

For approximately 100 feet farther the air liner had plunged, carrying with it destruction to trees, some of which were broken off while others literally were uprooted. Boulders which had lain close to the roots of the trees had been loosened for a score of feet.

As the big airship tore its way through the heavy growth of spruce and pine, it shed its tail and then its wings, one by one.

There was not a piece of the all-metal plane, with the exception of upholstering, doors and windows left intact after the crash through the trees. The largest piece of metal left was half the left wing, which itself had holes punched through it and the underside sheared away.

GASOLINE EXPLODED

As the ship dashed to the ground it buried its nose and part of the landing-gear two feet in the rocky soil. Gasoline from its tanks, ignited by the snapping-off of wires, became ignited. An explosion followed, throwing burning gasoline over the passengers and crew, experts with the party said.

On the arm of one of the pilots there was strapped a wrist watch that had stopped at 11:01. The pilots were required to carry Pacific Coast time on flights between Albuquerque and Los Angeles, which placed the time of the crash at one minute after noon, mountain time. Valencia county authorities said this would indicate the plane never passed over Grant on the morning of its fatal ride on the winds, but had gone directly from Albuquerque to the point of the crash.

Aviators who were in the party of searchers declared it appeared Pilot Stowe was blinded by the storm of rain and windstorm which beat Mt. Taylor from the southwest, and while keeping his bearings, did not realize he was flying so near the mountain, and the wind drift carried him into the peak.

There was no indication the plane was struck by lightning.

Officials of the T.A.T., who accompanied the party, wanted to remove the bodies immediately, but United States Forester J. M. Miller, who had been commissioned by V...

FEDERAL AIR CHIEF HERE

Maj. Young to Hold Inquiry

Official Asserts Belief That Lightning Caused T.A.T. Crash Premature

Service on Plane Line Will be Renewed Following Investigation

With the arrival of Maj. Clarence M. Young, commissioner of aviation of the United States Department of Commerce, from Winslow, Ariz., yesterday afternoon, the Federal inquiry into the mountainside crash of the Transcontinental Air Transport plane City of San Francisco temporarily centered in Los Angeles. Maj. Young is the head of the bureau under which Capt. J. A. Parkin, local representative of the Commerce Department, is now conducting the investigation of the wreck at the scene of the accident.

Maj. Young came to Los Angeles in a plane piloted by Vice-President Tomlinson of the Maddux Air Lines and said that he had flown over the mountain slope where the City of San Francisco was wrecked. His comments on the tragedy were brief. "It was a bad wreck," he said, and told of seeing bits of metal and twisted parts scattered through the trees and rocks on the side of Mt. Taylor.

CAUSE DISCUSSED

The explanation that the ill-fated plane had been struck by lightning, in the opinion of Maj. Young, is a premature one.

"None of us will know what caused the crash until the wreckage has been examined." He said he thought all-metal planes were no more subject to the attacks of lightning than any other plane and added: "As far as I know there has never been an authenticated case where a plane has been struck by lightning."

Maj. Young said that the exact circumstances of the crash were as much a mystery now as they were when the search for the plane focused the attention of the nation and the activities of 100 aviators on the bad lands of Arizona and New Mexico.

When the Commerce Department aviation head was questioned on the reports current during the search for the T.A.T. plane that it had proceeded on its way in the face of adverse weather reports, Maj. Young said the facts were known only to the officials of the company and an attempt would be made to bring out the truth in the Federal investigation, which, he said, would follow the lines taken after any fatal air accident.

SERVICE AWAITS INQUIRY

No word was received at the local offices pertaining to the activities at the scene of the crash on Mt. Taylor. Only the regular teletype news concerning the arrival and departure of ships in the eastern division were recorded.

Service on the western division is scheduled to start immediately after the inquiry into the crash of the air liner with its eight occupants is completed. Whether the officials of T.A.T. will be summoned to Los Angeles for the government's inquiry was not indicated. Maj. Young, who is in charge of the

Straight Line of Broken Trees Shows T.A.T. Plane Was Following Course West, Says Searcher

GRANT (N. M.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—That Pilot Stowe's vision was obscured by clouds and that the stormy weather conditions made it impossible for the ill-fated City of San Francisco to gain enough altitude to pass over Mount Taylor form the theory of the liner's crash here Tuesday, as offered today by H. C. Hall, Superintendent of Schools here, who was one of the first searchers to reach the scene of the wreck the morning and return to civilization.

Hall, who was accompanied on the search by J. D. Rice, also of Grant, gave an eyewitness account of the finding of the plane.

"The body of Mrs. Corina Raymond was least mutilated. It lay a few feet from the others to the right of the crash and the airplane safety belt was still about her. She could be identified by the shape of her hand and by the charred parts of an overnight bag which lay by her side. A half-burned tooth brush, a tube of tooth paste and a small comb with three or four prongs were still intact. There also was what I took to be what was left of a soap container, which might have been included in [her] a bag.

"The other thing I saw [was] said Hall, "was a soft black [shoe] evidently the dancing shoe of [the] man. It still held a shoe-tree [in] if it had been buried from the traveling bag of one of the passengers. It was the left shoe.

"The plane literally was torn to pieces. Every piston had been torn from one of the motors. Although had been hurled about 100 [feet] from the point where we found the mass of wreckage. The steel cabin had been melted down by the intense heat generated by the explo[sion]

HARROWING SCENE

An audible sigh ran through the knot of men gathered in the pine forest. A hundred persons stood there with bowed, bare heads, silent. Some of those standing about had tears in their eyes. Many had known McGaffey, a passenger and victim, who had done business long with the natives of this district.

The first man to reach the wreckage was Mims, who arrived at 7:30 a.m. He and other rangers pushed on ahead of the main encampment of the search party last night at Surveyors' Camp, about seven miles from the spot where the plane fell, and stopped within a mile of the debris. This morning a T.A.T. plane zoomed over the mountain and quickly led the rangers and the rest to the spot. The main body of searchers arrived before 8:30 a.m.

Litters were carried to the scene by the ambulance attendants, who prepared to carry out the bodies as soon as officials would release them. It was 12:50 p.m. when the first man reached a telephone to flash the news of the discovery to the world.

CORONER'S VERDICT

Coroner's jury tonight returned a verdict that the eight victims "died as the result of an airplane accident."

The verdict was returned shortly after 10 o'clock tonight after an inquest conducted in this village almost in the shadow of Mt. Taylor, where the Transcontinental Air Transport liner crashed and burned. Members of the Coroner's jury were sworn in by a deputy constable at the scene of the wreck this morning.

The jury viewed the bodies and the wreckage before the charred remains were removed from the cabin of the plane. The jury then reassembled at Grant tonight for a formal inquest, conducted by Dist.-Atty. Fred Nichols, to draw the verdict.

The inquest verdict, Dist.-Atty Nichols said, probably will conclude the investigation, in so far as the State of New Mexico is concerned. There remains, however, the report of R. I. Hasen, Department of Commerce investigator.

CLEWS OF DREAMS SENT DURING SEARCH

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Telegrams offering suggestions from persons in every walk of life all over the United States while the search for the City of San Francisco was in progress showed the universal interest in the quest for the missing passenger plane, T.A.T. officials here said tonight.

The ideas expressed in the telegrams were varied, some of them even ludicrous, but all showed deep interest and anxiety for the plight of the eight persons aboard the ship. In many telegrams stories of dreams were offered as clews to the whereabouts of the ship. A man in a hotel at Winslow, Ariz., reported he had dreamed he saw the plane down in Sunset Pass, fifty-five miles southwest of Winslow and offered to lead a search party there on the strength of his vision.

In a collect telegram to John P. Herlihy, chief engineer for the T.A.T., a woman declared she had dreamed the plane was floating in a river and urged the search be directed along the courses of all streams in the district.

PLANES RETURNING

Return of several scores of Los Angeles aviators who took part in the search from the sky for the lost transport, is eagerly awaited by the attendants and officials of the local airports from which they took off Wednesday. Telephone and telegraphic reports from Winslow, Albuquerque, Cubero and Grant from various pilots were received by relatives and airport officials during the day.

Only meager descriptions were given by the communicants who asserted they intended to rest overnight and take off for Los Angeles early today. Few of them indicated they intended to remain in the section until the result of the Coroner's inquiry was made.

One Accident Alone Occurs During Hunt

GRANT (N. M.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Only one minor plane accident was reported during the extensive airplane search for the missing City of San Francisco in spite of the fact that pilots in every type of ship flew hundreds of miles over dangerous, unfamiliar and storm-ridden territory.

The single accident occurred when John P. Herlihy, T.A.T. official, landed his small plane on an uncharted field near Grant, a wheel of the ship being damaged when a tire blew out on striking a sharp rock.

When the search centered around Winslow, Ariz., fifty-five planes were engaged in the hunt at one time. There was a continual roar of motors as pilots came in from fruitless journeys over the wilderness of the Southwest or took off to run down new rumors and reports.

There were eleven trimotored ships engaged in the hunt.

Others were army and navy pursuit planes, marine bombers, mail planes, racing ships, passenger transports and private planes.

Col. Lindbergh and Wife Make Oklahoma Town

WAYNOKA (Okla.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife arrived here at 5:55 p.m., and will remain here tonight, it was reported at the airport of the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., for which he is technical adviser.

Lindbergh, who was en route from Albuquerque, N. M., had intended to stop at Clovis, N. M., at 2:30 p.m., but instead, continued to this field, flying through rainy weather in Oklahoma. He took off from Winslow, Ariz., this morning.

T.A.T. officials were not informed as to his destination.

Shipwreck Loss Placed at 150

HELSINGFORS (Finland) Sept. 8. (AP)—Loss of life resulting when the steamer Kuru capsized off Tammerfors yesterday now is estimated at 150, including many children coming home from school for the week-end.

Relief Plane Forced Back by Heavy Fog

AMARILLO (Tex.) Sept. 8. (AP)—A relief plane which left Tucumcari, N. M., today, en route to Amarillo, with some of the passengers of the Western Air Express ship, which discovered the missing City of San Francisco, and later itself was forced down by broken ailerons, was forced to turn back because of a heavy fog lying low over the Panhandle region.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 8. (AP)—Three of the passengers on the Western Air Express plane which yesterday discovered the wreckage of the Transcontinental Air Transport liner City of San Francisco, arrived here at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon on the Rock Island train from Tucumcari, N. M.

They are Rex Clark, Los Angeles, part-owner of the Detroit News; Lester Luhnow, Los Angeles, and Harry Coleman, Elizabethtown, N. J.

STORM BLAMED BY EYEWITNESS

Pilot's Vision Obscured by Clouds, Searcher Thinks

Body of Woman Found to Be Least Mutilated

sion and fire from the last crash and there was only a charred frame to show what it had once been. With the exception of Mrs. Raymond, I do not believe it ever will be possible to identify the victims.

"A ring on the burned finger of one victim may be that of A. B. McGaffey of Albuquerque and his body may be identified in that manner.

"From what I could see it was plain that Pilot Stowe never got further on his trip from Albuquerque to Los Angeles than where his plane was found. It would seem to be evident that he was headed straight west.

"The plane, rushing through the storm, struck a tall pine tree with the left motor, cutting off the top branches about four fet from the top. From there to the point where the ship finally crashed and exploded against the trunk of a giant pine, the course never veered. How the plane could have stayed on even keel while cutting through the trees is a mystery to me.

"Twenty-five feet further on and about twelve feet down, the liner struck a second tree, cutting it off cleanly. The tree was two feet in diameter. I believe that the motors were all intact when it struck the first tree.

STRAIGHT LINE CUT

"The swath cut by the plane is a straight line for the entire 500 yards from the point where the first tree was struck. It is a steady procession of trees cut as neatly as with a giant knife. It starts at the top of the last pine which was torn but not split. I believe some of the larger trees were three feet in diameter but they were not close together, having a distance between them as much as fifteen feet.

"I can't imagine a more complete wreck. Small bits of the wings are strewn all over the ground. I do not think there is any doubt that Stowe never was seen in the places rumored. This is proved by the watches which were found at the wreck. There were three of them. One had stopped at 11:05. The second at 11:10. The third, evidently belonging to a passenger who had failed to change his watch from central to mountain time, was at 12:08. There is nothing to show that the T.A.T. plane had gone further west and then attempted to return to Albuquerque. It was headed due west as if Stowe was following the course as nearly as he could. The storm evidently forced him to avoid the bad area over Grant, and the clouds probably obscured his vision.

RAIN AVERTS FIRE

"The tree against which the wreckage rested was burned to the top of its branches, at least thirty-five feet above. I don't want to talk about the grewsomeness of the sight. The rangers placed a canvas over the bodies and that suited me. It looked as if the passengers might all have been buried to the front of the cabin when the crash came, but I can't be sure, for the body of Mrs. Raymond was lying behind the others and about eight feet from the twisted wreckage of the cabin. If it had not been for the rainstorm it is certain the fire from the plane would have started a forest fire which would have brought the rangers immediately. I don't think there was any chance of the plane having gone into a nose dive. The blazed trail through the pines was too steady and methodical for that, in my opinion.

"I don't think there is any doubt that the crash killed the crew and passengers before the explosion of the gasoline. The fact that the middle motor struck the last pine straight ahead must mean that the men in the pilot's nest were crushed instantly. Also I think that anyone who saw the wreckage will agree with me that it was not due to a lightning crash. It was simply the inability of the pilot to get altitude in the storm and the further loss of height and the smashing of the wing when the first tree was hit. I'm not an expert, but that's how it looks to me."

Nonstop Plane Nearly Crashes on Flight Here

WICHITA (Kan.) Sept. 8. (AP) The City of Baltimore, attempting a cross-country endurance flight, was back at the Wichita airport today after its pilots had narrowly escaped death in a tail spin an hour after taking off here for Los Angeles at 12:31 a.m. (C. S.T.) today.

The plane fell 950 feet, coming out of a spin fifty feet from the ground. The pilots dumped all gasoline except seventy-five gallons and returned here. The landing gear was damaged in landing.

George R. Hutchinson is owner and pilot. He was accompanied by Lieut. William L. Snowden and E. C. Graham.

DOOMED PLANE'S SPEED FIGURED

T.A.T. Officials Estimate It was going 97 M.P.H. at Time It Hit Mountain

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) Sept. 8. (AP)—T. A. T. officials tonight estimated the City of San Francisco was traveling ninety-seven miles an hour when she crashed on the timbered slope of Mount Taylor Tuesday morning.

The plane left here at precisely 10:20 a.m., and the time of the crash was revealed in the fact that a passenger's wrist watch had stopped at 11:01 a.m. By placing the spot of the crash sixty-five miles west of Albuquerque the T.A.T. officials estimated the approximate speed of the plane at the time of the wreck.

SHIP FLYING HER COURSE, SAYS EXPERT

Department of Commerce Investigator Will Make Report on T.A.T. Crash

GRANT (N. M.) Sept. 8. (AP)—In the opinion of R. H. Haven, Department of Commerce investigator sent from Washington to investigate the wreck of the City of San Francisco, the ship was flying on its regular course when the crash that claimed eight lives occurred. Haven, who was one of the first to reach the scene of the crash, refused to comment at length on the crash today but gave to the Associated Press the following brief statement:

"I haven't anything to say about the wreck of the City of San Francisco, other than it appeared the plane was flying on its regular course. The report of the wreck which I am making will be turned over directly to the Department of Commerce and any Federal statement will have to come from that department."

Haven said he will be the chief government witness in any formal investigation of the plane disaster but was unable to say when his report will be made available.

HIT-FLY PLANE KILLS BOATMAN

Second Accident Ascribed to New York Concern

Fisherman Cut Down by Taxiing Craft

Pilot Tells Police He Hit "Log" in Water

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (Exclusive) The second fatal seaplane accident in two days occurred today near Rockaway Beach. One man was killed and another seriously injured when the Carrie D, the motorboat in which they were fishing, was cut in two and sunk by a low-flying seaplane which sped away after the accident, the first "hit-and-fly" accident on record.

John Dee, a coppersmith of Woodhaven, L. I., owner of the boat, is in Rockaway Beach Hospital, dangerously injured and his companion, William Brown, 52 years of age, of Brooklyn, was killed.

RESCUE QUICK

The two men, who were fishing off Mills Basin and Rockaway Beach, opposite Shell Island, around 9:30 this morning when they were hit, were picked up by Jerome and E. Hahn, brothers, who were fishing from a rowboat nearby.

Dee, who is in a serious condition, could say only that he saw a green seaplane and that it struck his boat almost as soon as he sighted it.

Police today, learning that a green seven-passenger seaplane, owned by the Coastal Airways Company and piloted by Henry Ramsdell of Brooklyn had reported that while flying over Mill Basin about the time of the accident they had struck a log and damaged a pontoon, questioned Ramsdell. Capt. Enroll Boyd, operations manager for the Coastal Airways, said if the plane had hit a boat it would have turned over.

SAME CONCERN

It was a Coastal Airways Company airplane which Saturday crashed into a crowd of bathers at Coney Island, killing two children and injuring several other persons.

Asst. Dist.-Atty. Barshay will conduct an investigation into this accident tomorrow. Pilot William H. Alexander, 24, of Brooklyn was released in $300 bail today pending further examination Tuesday. He is charged with manslaughter.

ARABS DEFENDED BY GRAND MUFTI

Riots Charged to Jewish Ambitions

Stones Flung in Recurrence of Disorders

Preparations Made to Bring Rioters to Trial

JERUSALEM, Sept. 8. (AP)—The Grand Mufti, head of the Arabs in Palestine in a press interview today accused Jewish ambition and greed of provoking the recent outbreaks in order to bring pressure to bear on the British government.

He stated that if the Arab attacks had been premeditated other steps would have been taken for simultaneous attacks on all other Jewish colonies with cutting of the telephone and telegraph lines and similar steps, which had not been adopted.

The Mufti complained that even now while individual Jews are able to walk through Arab quarters without escort, during the last nine days there have been several Jewish attacks on Arabs. These, he said, paved the way for creation of further trouble.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent reported that Arabs flung stones today in a brief riot in the Yemenite quarter which was quickly subdued by the police.

Chief Justice McDonnell, Atty.-Gen. Norman Bentwick, and Government Prosecutor Kermack left today for Hebron to try persons accused of participating in the riot there.

JEWISH FACTIONS RIOT IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Trouble that has been brewing for several days between West Side Jewish Communists and Zionists culminated late tonight in rioting during which the office of the Daily Freiheit, a Jewish Communist paper, was broken into by a mob incensed by recent editorials which stated that Zionism in Palestine was the tool of British imperialism.

By midnight four had been booked in Fillmore Station, and one went to the County Hospital with a fractured skull, and five officers were attempting to disperse the throngs in front of the office of the paper, where over 100 Communist sympathisers, refusing to be routed from their meeting-place, were crowded into an unlit back room.

Juarez Voters Injured in Riot

JUAREZ (Mex.) Sept. 8. (AP)—A riot occurred today at the Juarez race track among 5000 voters, who ultimately renominated Federal Congressman Antonio Carono for the fourth time.

The melee, in which bottles, sticks and stones were hurled, began when the voters were ordered into the track through the turnstiles, which served to record the ballot totals. It was stopped by the arrival of two companies of soldiers from the local garrison. Eight men were injured severely.

WAR ON SPEEDING

HAVANA, Sept. 8. (AP)—Mounting death lists from automobile accidents and omnibus crashes led the city authorities to inaugurate a war on speeding. Within one week there were 743 arrests for speeding, 369 for violation of parking ordinances and fifty-six for reckless driving. Heavy fines were imposed.

BEAUTY CONTESTANT WINS BY A FRECKLE

Louise Wallis

DETROIT, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—It is not improbable that freckled girls all over the United States are going to gain a lot of consolation from the beauty contest to be conducted here by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists' Association, which opened a week's session here today, for one of the principal contestants will be Miss Louise Wallis, 19-year-old Chicago girl, who won the Windy City competition by virtue of her freckles.

Miss Wallis last week was awarded first prize in a contest conducted by the Illinois Hairdressers' Association, and named to represent that organization at the national competition in this city. The freckles, the Chicago judges declared, "made Miss Wallis just a little more attractive than any of the other participants."

She hopes they will do the same in the national show.

FEW ALIENS VISIT MEXICO FOR DIVORCE

Figures Show Only Thirty Foreigners Got Decrees There During Six Months

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8. (AP)—In the face of reports that an investigation is likely to be made into asserted divorce mills in Mexico, where foreigners dissolve the marital bonds in a matter of weeks, the Foreign Relations Department has furnished the press with figures that show only thirty divorces are on record as having been granted to foreigners in Mexico in the first six months of 1929, and of these twenty-six were obtained by Americans.

In the last half of 1928, the figures show, the divorces procured by foreigners numbered thirty-two, of which twenty-nine went to Americans.

Marriages of foreigners in Mexico, according to the department, were much more frequent than divorces. During the first six months of 1929 these totaled 1298, of which 850 involved American couples. In the last half of 1928, 1762 foreign couples were married in Mexico, 1214 of them Americans.

Following publication by a local newspaper recently of the report that divorce mills are to be investigated, and especially the divorce procedure in Cuernavaca, the Supreme Court declared null a divorce granted in the state of Yucatan. This was followed by a flood of petitions for annulment of divorces granted in Yucatan, Morelos and Sonora, according to El Universal Grafico, which said the petitions on file numbers 140.

INSURANCE RESERVES ENORMOUS

Pass $100,000,000,000 Mark, Doubling Total in Six Years

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Prohibition should be given part credit for the fact that legal reserves of American life insurance companies last month passed the $100,000,000,000 mark, Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, declared in a statement today.

"The fact is significant," said Cherrington, "that as shown by a survey, it took seventy-nine years for life insurance to total $50,000,000,000 while the liquor traffic was legalized, while under prohibition this amount has been doubled in six and one-half years.

"This suggests not only the increased prosperity, the higher standards of living and the provision for the future accompanying prohibition, but also indicates where a considerable portion of the old-time annual drink bill of approximately $3,000,000,000 is now going. When prohibition came the life-insurance companies were writing an average of about $305,000,000 worth of new insurance monthly. In May of this year they wrote $1,179,470,000 worth of new policies."

GERMANS LIMIT UNION INTEREST

United Europe Opposed to America Frowned On

Stresemann Wants Merely Economic Federation

Briand's Project Must Begin in Modest Way

GENEVA, Sept. 8. (AP)—That Germany is willing to examine the possibility of forming a European confederation but only on condition that it be purely economic in nature was the attitude gleaned from authoritative sources here tonight.

It was extremely likely that Foreign Minister Gustav Stresemann would make this clear when he addresses the Assembly of the League of Nations tomorrow. German spokesmen are as vigorous as the French in opposing any scheme for a "United States of Europe" which would be directed or seem to be directed against the United States of America. For one thing, the Germans say they need American capital to develop their industries and pay their reparations bill.

With Premier Briand of France inviting all of the chief European delegates to a luncheon tomorrow to permit a frank exchange of views on his confederation project, the topic tonight was the subject of lively discussion. The opinion most often heard was that the contemplated scheme will necessarily be extremely modest in character at the start and perhaps take the form of a regional grouping along the lines of the Pan-American Union.

Miss Wolfskill Search Renewed Near Her Ranch

FAIRFIELD, Sept. 8. (AP)—Search was renewed here today for Miss Edith Wolfskill, missing Fairfield heiress, with plans to drag Lake Curry for her body.

J. W. Bachman, trust officer of the Citizens' Bank of Los Angeles, where Miss Wolfskill was said to have an account of $600,000 at the time of her disappearance several months ago, is reported to have conferred with a San Francisco detective agency with the view of raising the reward offered for locating the missing woman.

Plans are being made to have two divers search Lake Curry, near the Wolfskill ranch, in the belief that Miss Wolfskill was drowned.

CELEBRATION PLANNED ON DIAZ'S BIRTH DATE

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8. (AP)—El Universal Grafico says that a committee has been formed to arrange a celebration the 15th inst. on the 100th anniversary of the birth of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, Mexican dictator for thirty years. It adds that Gen. Diaz's remains soon may be brought from Europe, where Diaz died in exile. Grafico refers to Diaz as "one of the greatest and most discussed men in the history of Mexico.

SHIP PUBLICITY PLAN DEFENDED

Shearer Pictures Himself as True Patriot

Building Interests Sent Him to Geneva, He Says

Statement His First Since Attack by Hoover

STAMFORD (Ct.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—William B. Shearer today issued the first statement of his position since President Hoover called the attention of the nation to his activities in connection with shipbuilding propaganda as detrimental to the administration's efforts for reduction of naval armaments. In it Mr. Shearer put the responsibility for his words and deeds upon the American shipbuilding interests which employed him and intimated he still would be carrying on his propaganda if foreign pressure had not been brought to bear upon the State Department.

Facing a Senatorial investigation, the man who has been charged with wrecking the Geneva conference on naval armaments through publicity, cloaked himself in the mantle of a patriot working for his country's good and merely incidentally receiving pay for following the dictates of his own conscience.

The nearest Mr. Shearer came to being specific on his status and function at Geneva was when he said he was "sent there to see that the true facts and figures on naval strength were given the American press and people." The facts and figures he used, he said, came into his possession "through official sources," but he refused to tell who gave them to him.

FINDING OF BODY ENDS MINE HOPE

Corpse of Foreman Taken from Copperopolis Cave-in and Others Sought

STOCKTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—The body of Edward Bixler, foreman at the Copperopolis mine at Copperopolis, was removed from the mine late today by rescue crews which have been toiling frantically since a rock cave-in several days ago trapped six men in the shaft.

Bixler's was the third body recovered, the others being those of Felix Ygnacio and D. Mendes, which were found soon after the accident.

All hope of rescuing the three other miners alive was abandoned with the discovery of the foreman's body. It is expected the others will be uncovered tomorrow, rescuers believing they lie within a few feet of where the body was discovered today.

Attempts to remove Bixler's body today started a new cave-in and it will take the rescuers several hours to reach again the spot where it lay.

DOUBLE HOLIDAY BENEFITS FAIR

Today Expected to Put Total Above 450,000

Admission Day Program to Be Closing Event

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Taking advantage of another double holiday thousands of Californians poured into Sacramento to spend Sunday and Admission Day at the Diamond Jubilee State Fair and Western States Exposition that will close tomorrow. Today was Southern California day at the fair and tomorrow a joint birthday party will be held to commemorate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the State Fair and the seventy-ninth anniversary of California's admission into the Union.

Large numbers of automobile parties arrived from the south to participate in the Southern California day festivities which were featured by the first Sunday horse show ever held at the fair and by a novel program presented by the Jugo-Slav Sokol of the bay region.

BANDMAN DIES

The Sokols, 1000 strong, arrived by special train with a band, drill teams and a large gymnasium class of young men and women. They performed in front of the grand stand during the afternoon, while the band gave a special concert in the evening.

The enthusiasm of the Sokols was dimmed, however, by the death of Conrad Anderson, a member of the band, who collapsed while parading the business streets en route to the fair grounds. Anderson, who lived at 1488 Eighteenth avenue, San Francisco, suddenly swooned, and he died on the way to the Emergency Hospital.

Gov. Baldridge of Idaho was an honor guest at the fair today. He was entertained by Gov. Young and the directors of the fair and was present when Gov. Young presented trophies to the five western States and to the Republic of Mexico which have exhibits.

Tomorrow will be Idaho and Wyoming day and Gov. Baldridge will take part in a special program that is being arranged by his State. Residents of Wyoming who are here for the fair will celebrate by joining with the Californians in the Admission Day party.

The directors were gratified today at the prospects of reaching an attendance goal in excess of 450,000 for the ten days of the exposition. The officials had hoped that the attendance would reach 500,000, but counter Admission Day celebrations probably will prevent realization of this figure.

Today's attendance was estimated at 60,000, and tomorrow the total is expected to be even larger because of the harness and running races which are not held on Sunday and which always draw heavily.

INTERESTING EXHIBIT

Kern county has one of the most attractive and interesting exhibits in the large agricultural pavilion, the space in which is devoted exclusively to county displays. The exhibit, which was installed by L. D. Culley of Bakersfield, features the throne of Ceres, goddess of the harvest. The throne stands on circular steps covered with oranges and cottonseed. Grains of several varieties cover the throne proper.

The coat of arms is made of raisins, and the panels on each side of the throne are filled with grapes. To the right of the throne is the treasure chest of Ceres, filled with grains, grapes and fruits. Citrus fruits, mineral oils, cotton and other products of the county also are displayed in the artistic exhibit.

WOODLAND, Sept. 8. (AP)—Work on the new $108,000 sewer system has begun here.

BOXING PREACHER WANTS JOB---JUST ANY OLD KIND

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Rev. William Irvine Blair, Milwaukee's boxing preacher, is in Chicago looking for a job. He wants a militant church to lead if he can find one. If not, he will take a job selling real estate, hod-carrying or anything that will turn an honest dollar.

Just a few months ago Mr. Blair resigned as pastor of the fashionable Grace Presbyterian Church in Milwaukee. In announcing his resignation he declared that the church needed "a new face and a new voice in the pulpit." He had shocked the church members before by holding boxing matches for members of the church men's club. The pastor shared in the fistic encounters.

"Fighting is all right when it's on the square," Mr. Blair declared.

Following his resignation Mr. Blair hitch-hiked to New York, where he landed a ten-day job as a Salvation Army bouncer in the Bowery. Then he worked as a freight handler on the New York docks before returning west.

FISH KEPT ALIVE BY PADDLES

Chinese Ingenuity Solves Problem of Aerating Water for Small Carp Fry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (AP) Chinese ingenuity is responsible for an effective, if not scientific, method for aerating the water in which small carp fry are transported from China to Singapore.

An arrangement of floats, operated by attendants, slaps the surface of the water and drives in enough air for the fish to breathe.

The fry, according to word received by the Bureau of Fisheries from J. H. Bruins, American Vice-Consul at Singapore, are transported as deck cargo in large tubs of water.

Cultivation of carp is being carried out in well-established ponds.

her seven-and-one-half-inch - gun vessels has not been disclosed. If these are to be replaced with similar ships when obsolete Great Britain would have 189,200 tons of cruisers mounted with guns larger than six inch as against 180,000 for the United States.

President Hoover would like to have the British cruiser tonnage total reduced and an agreement reached which would allow this country to build a larger percentage of its cruiser tonnage in eight-inch-gun ships. The navy general board has been asked to study the British proposals and see if a plan can be worked out acceptable to both nations. The answer may be found in an arrangement which would permit this country to build four seven-and-one-half-inch-gun vessels or slightly less than 10,000 tons to match the British seven-and-one-half-inch-gun ships.

Summed up, the British set their cruiser needs at approximately fifty vessels, fifteen of them eight-inch-gun ships and the rest of smaller caliber. A majority of the British ships would be armed with six-inch guns. Britain's built, building and appropriated tonnage is now 398,300 tons.

The United States has 75,000 tons of six-inch-gun ships and eight 10,000-ton cruisers building, the first of which will join the fleet in October. In addition she has fifteen 10,000-ton eight-inch-gun ships authorized, ten being appropriated for. Construction of all these ships would give this country 305,000 tons. According to the British suggestion the United States would have 180,000 tons of eight-inch-gun cruisers and the balance of her tonnage in smaller-caliber gun ships.

Ministerial Foe of Bishop Bast Has Hard Luck

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 8. (AP)—Rev. John P. Ingerslew, 40 years of age, the Methodist preacher whose charges resulted in the unfrocking of Bishop Anton Bast of Denmark, today was found in a tourist camp near here living with his family in humble circumstances.

Bishop Bast was convicted of misuse of church money and served three months in prison. Last May the general Methodist conference here unfrocked him. Bast succeeded in expelling Ingerslew from the church prior to his conviction, but the conference which ousted Bishop Bast reinstated the preacher.

Since then, according to Mr. Ingerslew, he has been vainly waiting for the Methodist church to give him a position. He is living in the tourist camp with three children and a Danish nursemaid who has been with the family since Mrs. Ingleslew died several years ago.

HUSTON TO PICK UP REINS TODAY

New G.O.P. Leader Succeeds Work as Chairman

Georgia Patronage Problem to Be First One Faced

Party Leaders Expected to Study Election Outlook

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—Unopposed by party representatives in any of the forty-eight States and bearing the approval of President Hoover, Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee tomorrow will pick up the reins voluntarily relinquished by Dr. Hubert Work as Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

For the purpose of electing his own successor, Dr. Work has called the national committee together for its first meeting since President Hoover took office March 4. Indications were today that there will be a fairly good attendance despite the fact that the election of Huston is to be a mere formality.

No other formal business is to come before the meeting. Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky, vice-chairman of the committee, has withdrawn her resignation at the request of Mr. Hoover to avoid possible intra-party conflict over the election of her successor, and announcement has been made that selection of a national committeeman for Georgia to succeed Ben J. Davis, negro, will not take place at this time.

PROSPECTS TO BE EYED

The party leaders gathered here are expected, however, to delve deeply into the prospects for the coming Congressional elections throughout the country and this subject probably will be the center of discussions.

President Hoover has been holding daily conferences with certain of the committeemen since the middle of last week and he gave up what would have been one of his last trips of the summer to his Virginia fishing-camp in order to have more time for contacts with his lieutenants within the party. Dr. Work has been a guest at the White House since his arrival in the city and others representing various sections of the country have visited the executive mansion as they arrived.

PROBLEM FACED

While the selection of the new chairman and other business are to be pushed through with harmony foremost, Mr. Huston is to be confronted almost immediately by one of the problems of his office. Mrs. George Williams, negro Republican national committeewoman for Georgia, is here seeking to arrange a conference with the incoming leader directly after his election to lay before him a demand for participation in patronage reform within her State.

She bases her request on the ground that, since with the election of Davis as committeeman without selection of a successor, she is "the highest Republican official in the State," and adds that despite promises that her recommendations regarding patronage distribution would be considered, thus far they have been "utterly disregarded."

IN COMMITTEE HANDS

Since the State committee declined to re-elect Davis, patronage affairs in Georgia have been under the control of a committee.

Huston, who is the first choice of national committeemen and women from thirty-eight of the States without opposition from the other ten, was chosen under circumstances unusual in the party. Formerly the President has made his choice known and the committee has reflected his decision with its votes. In this instance, inquiry was made of the committee members as to their preference and Huston received an overwhelming indorsement. It is well known that he also is the President's choice, although Mr. Hoover gave no formal indorsement.

Dr. Work will return to private life. Quitting the leadership of the party organization on his own motion, he also has declined a diplomatic appointment.

Bay City Politics Loses Leader

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (AP)—Edward M. Graney, prominent sportsman and colorful figure in San Francisco politics for the last thirty years, died at a hospital here last night from the effects of an apoplectic stroke suffered about two weeks ago. He was 61 years of age.

In his younger days Graney refereed many championship bouts here and at Colma and was regarded as an authority on boxing and racing. Although he never was a candidate for office, he was an active and important figure in the city's politics for many years, wielding an almost supreme power in municipal affairs.

Helen Allowed Chicken Dinner

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Helen Wills, champion tennis player, who is convalescing at the Peralta Hospital in Oakland from an operation for the removal of her tonsils last Friday, had a real chicken dinner today, her first solid food since the operation. Dr. George McClure reported that she is improving rapidly and will leave for her home Wednesday.

Her mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Wills, and several friends spent the day with her today.

DEMAR WILL TRAVEL IN DOUBLE HARNESS

MELROSE (Mass.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Clarence H. DeMar, veteran marathon runner, and Miss Margaret Isley, social worker, were married here yesterday. Friends and relatives witnessed the simple ceremony.

In competition extending over twenty years, DeMar was six times winner of the B.A.A. marathon and took part in Olympic marathons.

SILENT MAN JOINS COUNCIL

Ex-Senator Dupont, Voiceless Invalid, Arrives for Republican Party Caucus at Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Among the most interesting personalities at the scene of tomorrow's Republican National Committee meeting, because of the circumstances surrounding him, is former Senator T. Coleman Dupont of Delaware. Unable to utter a sound and an invalid confined to a wheel chair, Mr. Dupont is down on the Potomac River in his yacht. He retired from the National Committee and from the Senate a year or so ago because of his physical afflictions, but wanted to come down once more just to be near his former committee associates.

He will not be able to attend its but just the same he is giving a luncheon for the committee tomorrow. His son-in-law and committee successor, Gov. Buck of Delaware, is to occupy his place at the head of the table. Dupont will be there in spirit only.

It became known today for the first time that two weeks ago President Hoover slipped away from the White House and visited the venerable Dupont on the latter's yacht, spending an hour. The Senator carried on a happy conversation through his girl secretary, who has learned to read his lips in a manner to catch every word.

This afternoon the new chairman, Mr. Huston, went to see Dupont on the yacht. He went hesitatingly, reluctant to see his old friend in his helpless condition. But he came away in high spirits. Dupont had cheered him up, he said, more than he had been cheered in a long time.

He went as though making a duty call on a tragic figure. Instead, he found a man who in spite of his inability to speak or rise from his chair, was gay and happy and who silently made wisecracks and told the latest Scotch jokes. He told Huston that as he has to eat and drink through a tube the luncheon he was giving was hardly the place for him to show up in person. He laughed continually and seemed to be having the time of his life in his enforced physical retirement, and to others, his pathetic condition.

It might be explained that Mr. Dupont has no larnyx. It was taken out two years ago and although the world attempted to supply him with an artificial one the effort was not successful.

Tomorrow night the former Senator plans to be taken in a wheel chair to the Willard Hotel for an hour's visit with his old comrades on the National Committee.

CONVICTS LAUGH AT RULES TODAY

San Quentin's Day of Days Begins at 9 a.m.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Tomorrow will be the day of days for San Quentin's thousands of prisoners.

San Quentin's sixteenth annual track and field meet will get under way at 9 a.m. But it will be much more than a track and field meet to the convicts, who have been awaiting it for months. It's the day of the big feed of general whoopee, of frownless keepers and no rules. That goes even for the condemned men, as far as it is possible.

It will culminate in a special dinner at 1 p.m. of roast beef and "trimmings."

All last week, according to Mark Noon, prison secretary, prizes rolled into the prison yard, the gifts of Marin county and San Francisco merchants. Three teams completed their training for the events, many of the convicts being released from some of their work to get in shape. Others were getting the baseball diamond prepared. And others fed their enthusiasm on the fifth edition of the "Wall City News," issued weekly since August 11 to give the walled-in men news about the big day.

AIRPORTS LURING DEPOT CROWDS

Old Pastime of Going Down to See Trains Come In Changed by Aviation

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Going down to the depot to see the train come in has developed into a practice of going down to the the airport to see the planes come in. Boeing system reports that since the inauguration of night mail flying with passenger accommodations, airports in western cities and across the continent to Chicago are popular gathering places for the curious who want to get night-flying impressions.

FAIR SCENE OF BOMBING

WARSAW (Poland) Sept. 8. (AP) Ukrainian terrorists are blamed by the police for a series of disorders attending the opening of the annual fair at Lwow. After the crowd left last night a bomb was thrown at the administration building, fatally wounding a girl cashier and severely injuring several employees.

WARDENS FIGHT LOSING BATTLE

Minnesota Forests Blazing in Wide Area

ST. PAUL, Sept. 8. (AP)—Forest fires scattered over an area 600 miles square in Minnesota threatened to spread over a wider territory tonight while Forestry Department officials continued to impress labor into the ranks of fire-fighting crews.

There were no indications of rain tonight in Lake of the Woods county where between 40,000 and 60,000 acres of peat and timberlands are aflame and forest rangers fear the fires will spread to vast stretches of other timber stands if the present dry weather continues. Killing frosts have aggravated the situation.

Nearly fifty men have been drafted for fire duty to augment the crew of 250 combating the flames along fire lines which stretch over a front of about 250 miles.

A forestry official, carrying out orders of Grover M. Conzet, State Forester, has been "picking up" men for fire duty.

Mr. Conzet asserts that the forest fires were caused by settlers in an effort to clear lands for agriculture purposes.

Many of the settlers refused to help in extinguishing the fires and it has been necessary to threaten them with arrest in many instances.

TANKLIKE BOAT RUNS ON LAND

Caterpillar Tractor Tracks Put on Vessel

Craft Designed for Use in Two Feet of Water

Invention Meets Problems of River Navigation

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8. (AP)—Secrets of a new kind of boat that has power to move on dry land like a war-time tank were revealed here tonight.

Its motive power is a pair of caterpillar tractor tracks that run beneath the bottom of the vessel. It will not be set to climbing banks unless the pilot falls asleep, because the bracing of the hull is made for water and would be unlikely to support the weight on land. It is a towboat designed for navigating in two feet of water and meeting some of the problems of American river transportation.

The boats are operated by the Standard Unit Navigation Company of St. Louis. They were built and tested on the Cumberland River at Nashville. The hitherto guarded details about them were announced by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, which designed their power plants.

The moving tracks run one under each side of a nearly flat bottom and each one has its own power plant. The craft are rudderless, for they steer by the tracks like land tanks and turn around in their own lengths. Their speed is eight to nine miles an hour and six miles with a tow.

The tracks are endless belts of flexible steel that rise above water level to re-enter the boat through tunnels running the length of the hull on each side. Automatic doors close the ends of the tunnel, except to the moving tracks.

Like duck feet, these new-fashioned boat pedals have to be webbed to grip water. The webs are flat steel plates, two feet wide and a foot deep, fastened to the tracks so as to extend vertically downward into the water.

Unlike duck feet, the scientific webs have to be perforated, to permit sufficient water to run through to the following plate to overcome the forward swirl of suction. The tracks are made in pairs, so that the width of one "foot," or the track on one side, is about five feet across the plate tips.

The tracks are driven by electricity generated by Diesel engines. Claim is made that three gallons of oil runs the boat an hour, or at a total fuel cost of 18 cents.

Even if they never begin taking to the highways alongside the river, the new towboats are designed for a revolution in waterway freight transportation. This revolution is to imitate railroad freight methods in order to recover for the rivers some of the freight hauling prestige that they lost to land lines.

The towboats are made to haul long lines of barges. The analogy does not end there. The barges look like railroad box cars, although their capacities equal three to five standard freight cars. They couple so that they will turn about sharp bends without losing their alignment.

SOVIETS ATTACK CHINESE TOWN

almost indefinitely. This border is the last frontier. When Manchuria, Mongolia and Siberia are civilized the last war correspondent will be demobilized.

AGGRESSION FORBIDDEN

Chang of Mukden is sending reinforcements to the border, but they are warned on pain of death to engage in only defensive warfare. Even in pursuing the enemy they must not cross the frontier.

If it came to actual warfare, his White auxiliaries would be invaluable; but at present they are making the Chinese no end of trouble. They have organized into guerrilla bands who meet on a mysterious call, raid a Red outpost and disband.

Regardless of orders from Moscow, the Reds retaliate by breaking across the line and raiding Chinese outposts and villages. In either case, civilians are plundered. Soon the villages along the border will be depopulated. Thousands of Chinese villagers and farmers are abandoning their homes and fleeing to middle Manchuria.

CHINESE IN MOUNTAINS

From the present disposition of Chinese troops, it is evident that, if Russia begins a real offensive, the Chinese will not meet them at the frontier, but will retire 100 miles south to the Khan-Gan Mountains—called Hin-Gan by the Chinese. In the passes of these mountains at least 40,000 Chinese troops are now quartered. Their line of communication follows the railroad. Troops and supplies are now being carried forward on the two railway lines leading from Mukden into this territory.

These border raids are likely to continue and to be magnified by unscrupulous correspondents into pitched battles; but the Chinese have made no preparation for an offensive—there is no place to go but to the desert—and Moscow is not likely to order an invasion of Chinese territory. Within a month the first snow will fall and the winters in North Manchuria are as rigid as those of Northern Montana. Winter is the most formidable antagonist in the field. Those passes through the Khan-Gan Mountains will be hermetically sealed by November.

HEIR CITES FORTUNE RIGHTS

Asserted Son of Wealthy Hat Manufacturer Accuses Stepmother of Barring Him From Funeral

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—George Adair Longley, 54 years of age, of Janesville, Wis., today told from the witness stand in support of his claim that he is the son of Albert W. Longley and entitled to a share in the late Chicago manufacturer's $2,000,000 estate.

Mr. Longley, who says he is the son of Alice Ethel Adair Longley, first wife of the manufacturer, declares he will attempt to break his father's will because Mary Caroline Longley, the third wife, refused to allow him to see his father when the latter cried out for him during his last days, and refused even to let him view his father's casket.

SMALL INCOME LEFT

The late hatmaker's bequests included $600,000 to charitable institutions and left only a $600 annual income to the man who claims he is his son. The will referred to George Adair Longley as a brother of the first wife. The suit to break the will declares Mr. Longley was known as George Greene because he was in part reared by his grandparents of that name.

Mr. Longley was head of the Chicago firm of Longley, Low & Alexander, hat manufacturers. He died in Pasadena, Cal., October 29, 1928, and his will was probated in Cook county last February.

"I have a world of proof that I am Albert W. Longley's son," George Adair Longley said yesterday. "I lived with my father and mother until I was 20 years of age. My mother divorced him then but he continued supporting me until I was 25 because I was ill and had to go to the Southwest at the time.

"When I was a little boy my father's business was here in Chicago, but he had a farm and summer home in Janesville, Wis. My father sent me through Notre Dame University and then through Columbia Institute in New York City.

VISITS OBJECTED TO

"It was late in 1927, when my mother died in Los Angeles, that I tried to get in touch with my father, who then was already suffering from his last illness.

"I had not been able to see my father with the knowledge of his third wife for some time. He was 80 years of age; she less than 40. He had met her years before on a train between Los Angeles and San Francisco. She asked him the time and struck up an acquaintance. That was some time before his second wife died in Chicago.

"About the time my mother died, this third wife had begun to object to my seeing my father and we had to meet on the quiet away from his residence. When my mother passed away I needed some papers from him in connection with her $200,000 estate, which was left to me. I wrote several letters to him. They were not answered.

"I then got a reply from the third wife. She told me curtly my father was very ill with a bad heart and no one could see him. His doctor said the wife had not told the truth. He said he would try to arrange for me to see my father.

GUARD OVER CASKET

"When I called the doctor told me I could not see him because when he had mentioned my visit, the young wife had gone into a fit of hysterics and had carried on so it had almost killed my father.

"I tried repeatedly after that to see him. Once I went there with three friends and a city detective. She locked my father's door and no threat nor entreaty would make her give up the key. I used to drive up to the house in my car and I could hear my father through the open windows crying and sobbing and calling out for me.

"When he died she had me barred from the home by police on guard. Only those with admittance cards were allowed at the funeral. At the cemetery where his body was placed in a crypt in a mausoleum, she remained on guard until workmen had cemented the marble slab on the crypt."

AMERICAN FINDS RUSSIANS ALERT

Editor Tells Impressions After Tour of Land

Says Characteristic Picture of Long Hair Wrong

Soviets Making Progress on Great Task

BY OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD

(Oswald Garrison Villard, member of the unofficial delegation of American business and professional men and women who recently toured soviet Russia, and editor of the Nation, has furnished the Associated Press the following impressions on Russia.)

BERLIN, Sept. 8. (AP)—Any American who travels in the land of the soviets is confronted not only with the difficulty of the language, but in most cases by the absence of any historical background.

Most Americans are inclined to think of the Czar's Russia as a civilized capitalist rule comparable to present-day American conditions. Few recall the terrible indictment, drawn by an American, George Kennan, in the early '90s in which were set forth the inhuman horrors inflicted in Russia, especially Siberia, upon all Russians who dared to agitate for a democracy.

Without some understanding of the way the bulk of the people lived before the Bolsheviks took hold, it is, of course, impossible for an American to judge whether there has been improvement or retrogression in the lot of the peasant and worker. Even if the visitor has all this background he is stunned when he reaches Russia by the contradictions that meet him at every hand. Perfectly reliable and trustworthy people will give him directly contradictory information. The Russian nature is itself contradictory and inconsistent with itself. Under these circumstances the average visitor is apt to fall back upon the prejudices or preconceptions with which he entered the soviet republics and to find everywhere the things which consciously or subconsciously he wished to find.

Upon certain facts there was, however, I believe, general agreement among the membership of the delegation. There can be no doubt as to the ability, the zeal, and the industry of the men who constitute the present government of Russia. If anybody in America still believes that the long-haired and long-whiskered wild man, armed with pistols and daggers, whom the American cartoonist loves to draw, is representative of the men who control Russia's fate today he is much deluded.

Those whom we met impressed us all by their ability, their polish, their vigor, and their knowledge of what is going on outside of Russia. They have a very clear vision of what they wish to achieve and how they propose to accomplish it, and very great confidence in their ability to do their job well. Indeed, the American advisers they employ often find it difficult to get the Russians to take their professional advice. They are jealous of any point of view other than their own. They have a tremendously ambitious plan for the rehabilitation and industrial development of their country and if they are open to criticism about it, it is because they seem to be going too fast and to be building far ahead of their needs.

RAPID GROWTH

To this they reply that that is not the case, that they must make the most far-reaching plans because of the rapid growth of their population and the steady drift from the farms to the cities. We were unfortunately not able to go into the farm problem and did not get into a single village or see a government farm. This was not because of any unwillingness on the part of the soviet authorities, but simply because our schedule called primarily for a study of industrial conditions.

I regret this the more because the peasant problem is the hardest nut the soviets have to crack. There are many who feel that the success of the Communist experiment depends upon the winning of the peasant. I did not find a single competent American observer resident in Russia who thought that the Communists could achieve success in their struggle with the peasants, without seriously modifying their plans.

American leaders of Russian news must not forget that any government which took charge of Russia would have to follow in the footsteps of the Bolsheviks in modernizing the industry of Russia, for that was at least seventy-five years behind the times when war broke out in 1914. There is, however, no more chance of any other government succeeding the Bolsheviks than there is of some other government at present succeeding the Fascist rule in Italy.

AMERICAN RECOGNITION

The fact ought to be taken into consideration in considering the question of American recognition of the Bolshevist government. If that is not to take place because the Communists are in charge then there will be no recognition for many, many years. The only alternative to the soviet government is anarchy and perhaps the breaking up of Russia into many states. There is not now, I repeat, the slightest chance of this taking place. The best American observers in Russia feel that if the Bolsheviks can weather the next four years without a national catastrophe such as famine or war, they will be in the saddle beyond any possibility of unseating.

The soviet rule is of course just what it pretends to be. It is dictatorship with no mercy for dissenters. They are shot or sent to Siberia. No opposition press is tolerated, though the official press may criticise specific acts of the government or any individual official. The men in charge of Russia will certainly not give up the reins of government until they have tried out the Communist form of government to their hearts' content. So the Russian people have got to resign themselves to being experimented on in the interest of a state without the motive of private property. Time alone will show whether these two great experiments make for better government and the advancement of humanity or the reverse.

NAME IN GLASS TRANSPARENT

Maker of Bottles Beaten for Putting Own Mark on Scotch Imitations

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Police, called to an address in the West Side hooch-making district, this morning found Karl Yeager, a glass-blower, suffering from assault and battery.

"I was slugged by my own customers," Yeager told Sergt. Kelley. "I had an order for containers for Scotch whisky. I was making bottles just like the Scotch distilleries turn out their product in. Look, here's one of them. Not even a Scotchman could tell it from his own. And I can prove it's good Chicago manufacture. There's my name blown in the bottle, 'Yeager Glass Works, Chicago.'"

"That accounts for the assault and battery," responded the policeman.

UNION ARMY 'BOYS' SWAP ANECDOTES

Aged Veterans Gather in Portland, Me., for Annual G.A.R. Encampment

PORTLAND (Me.) Sept. 8. (AP)—The days of "way back when——" lived again tonight as veterans of the Union army, here for the sixty-third national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, congregated in organization headquarters and hotel lobbies.

Old battles were refought; memories of white-haired veterans of Shiloh, Antietam, Gettysburgh and Bull Run, leaped the barrier of the years between '64 and '29, and brought forth anecdotes and reminiscences of camps and campaigns.

The National Federated Patriotic Societies, allied with the Grand Army of the Republic, tonight held its ninth annual session, and elected Mrs. Blanche Beverstook of Keene, N. H., as president to succeed Judge H. M. Pratt of Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Mrs. Lillian Clark Cary of Dubuque, Iowa, was elected vice-president. Miss Grace L. Johnson, secretary-treasurer, also of Dubuque, was re-elected.

In his annual report, Judge Pratt stated that the departments of Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, New York, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Vermont and Washington, have federated to carry on the purpose of the organization, namely, to aid the G.A.R. and preserve the memory of its traditions and service.

He urged the merging in the federation of all organizations now affiliated with the G.A.R., as a means of fullest development of the federation's ideals.

Fake Robbery to Draw Crowd May Cost Life

SHAWNEE (Okla.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Ahrind Ruhberg, 32 years of age, theater employee, played the role of a robber in a fake hold-up which the theater staged last night after a rival show house had attracted a crowd by faking a fire.

Policeman W. N. Jones didn't know the robbery wasn't real.

Today Ruhberg is in a hospital, a bullet lodged near his spine, and physicians say there is slight hope for his recovery.

Jones, attracted by the pretended robber chase, fired one shot. It entered Ruhberg's side and he dropped against a curb.

Flyer Killed in Plane Crash

NEENAH (Wis.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—George Ueberlacker, 23 years of age, of Appleton, Wis., was burned to death here tonight in the wreckage of an airplane which crashed from an altitude of 250 feet.

Meri Zuelke, 20, Appleton, another passenger in the plane was badly burned. He was brought to a hospital here, where it was said his chances of recovery are doubtful. Omar Graef, 31, also of Appleton, a novice unlicensed pilot, escaped uninjured.

DEATH PUTS FINIS TO HATFIELD-McCOY FEUD

LAST MEMBER OF ONE FAMILY DIES OF OLD AGE IN BED; ONE OF FOES LIVES ON

GATLETTSBURG (Ky.) Sept. 8. (AP)—In the mountain country where once were fought the battles of the Hatfield-McCoy inter-family feud old age has claimed James McCoy, believed to have been the last of the McCoys who were active in the feud.

So far as records show, only one member of either family—"Cap" Hatfield, Deputy Sheriff of Logan county, West Virginia—yet lives to recall the hatred that flared into actual warfare along the Tug River. The widow of "Devil Anse" Hatfield, probably the most widely known figure of the feud by virtue of his leadership of the Hatfield clan, died last March at 87 years of age.

Peace between the families was brought about only after officials of West Virginia and Kentucky took a hand in settling their differences.

HATLESS FAD HITS PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 8. (AP)—The hatless habit for summer time has made severe inroads on the straw hat sales in Paris. Merchants, however, by offering novel designs in straw headgear at tempting prices, have lured many back to wearing "hay helmets."

Assistant State's Attorney Under Suspicion

Relations With Fake Brokers' Lawyer Charged

Prosecutor Orders Suspect Relieved From Post

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (AP)—The reported partnership of an Assistant State's Attorney, whose duty it was to investigate Chicago's illicit brokerage houses, with an attorney who had several of the suspected firms as clients will come under the scrutiny of State's Attorney Swanson tomorrow.

Raiders under Chief Investigator Roche in their campaign found a letter yesterday written on the stationery of Assistant State's Attorney Arthur Caristen and signed by James Kealey, said to have been Caristen's partner. The letter told Herbert C. Hall, said to have been a partner in a raided firm, that Kealey would "see what I can do about stalling that matter along."

Kealey told questioners today that the letter referred to a suit by a coal company against Hall and denied that he had been in partnership with Caristen, explaining that he had merely taken over his business and might have used some of his stationery.

Caristen denied any irregularities with Kealey.

"We were not exactly partners," he stated. "Well, you might say we were nominal partners from late fall until about February 1, when I was deciding whether to stay on the Prosecutor's staff. He was really working for me but never in connection with anything from the State's Attorney's office."

He denied a statement attributed to L. P. Holt, an Assistant State's Attorney associated with him, that Holt had threatened to expose his connections with Kealey to the State's Attorney.

Pending an investigation which he will begin tomorrow, Swanson ordered Caristen transferred from the post of head of the business fraud section and put Holt in charge.

Three Drowned on Fishing Trip

AUSTIN (Tex.) Sept. 8. (AP)—A week-end fishing party had a tragic ending here today with the drowning of three persons, when a motor boat capsized on the Colorado River.

F. J. Bryant, 24 years of age; his wife, Gladys, 22, and their son, Freddie, 3, all of Austin, lost their lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bryant, also on the boat, were rescued by Frank Gullette and a youth whose name was not learned.

Charges Against Deputy in Alabama Deferred Until Inquiry Can be Made

ASHLAND (Ala.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Clarence Bailey, 18-year-old high-school youth, was shot and killed near here this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Cecil Guthrie while the latter was attempting to place the youth under arrest on liquor charges.

The officer surrendered following the shooting but had not been placed under arrest tonight. County officials said no charges will be placed against him pending further investigation.

Sheriff Allen said a gallon jug, containing some whisky, was found at the scene of the shooting.

FARMERS VOICE NEW DUTY PLEA

ate and to interruptions which may come from discussion of national questions the program for the tariff debate seems pretty definitely established tonight. The first move tomorrow will be that of Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee, who will offer a resolution to get after the profits statements and income tax returns of corporations which are asking increased tariff protection.

Under the Simmons proposal such information would not be given to the general public and, therefore, it is not altogether satisfactory to the insurgent Republicans who favor full and pitiless publicity. Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, who demands that these returns be published has not decided whether he will yield to the milder Simmons maneuver. He may insist upon pressing his own resolution. The regular Republicans are confident they can vote down the Blaine resolution, but they have their doubts about the Simmons proposal.

As soon as this item is disposed of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the minority floor leader, is expected to move for prompt consideration of the administrative sections of the bill—the part containing the so-called "flexible tariff law" giving the President power to raise or lower specific duties, and the amendment by Reed of Pennsylvania establishing American selling prices as the basis of import valuations. The Democrats believe they can hold their lines firmly on these questions and will propose a series of amendments which if successful will go a long way toward wrecking the Republican tariff program and might even defeat the bill.

The battle over income taxes and administrative features is very apt to run through several weeks and October may be at hand before the Senate finally turns its hand to the Borah proposal to strike out all industrial changes and pass a bill affecting agriculture only. Not until this issue has been threshed out can the Senate apply itself to the sixteen rate-fixing schedules.

DES MOINES UNIVERSITY FORECLOSED

College Disrupted by Internal Strife Goes Into Hands of Receiver

DES MOINES, Sept. 8. (AP)—Beset by administration difficulties student riots and court injunctions, Des Moines University came to the end of its career as a Baptist Fundamentalist school today, when it was placed in the hands of a receiver.

The school, acquired in June, 1927, by the Baptist Bible Union, reverted to the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis by foreclosure of a mortgage of $203,000, and then it was given into receivers of John Blanchard, Des Moines attorney, by Federal Judge Dewey. The University and the Des Moines National Bank, as holder of annuity and endowment funds, were given one year to redeem the property, which after that time would be offered for sale.

Foreclosure and receivership came six days after Miss Edith Rebman, secretary of the board of trustees, announced abandonment of the school by the Bible Union through action of the trustees, headed by Dr. T. T. Shields. The latter and Miss Rebman were the center of attack when students staged a rock-and-egg throwing demonstration last May. The trustees at that time closed the school but it was reopened by court order so that graduates could receive their degree.

CURTISS AIR GROUP WILL LAY PLANS

Officials Meeting Today to Confer Over Control of Newly Merged Concerns

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (Exclusive) Officials of the twelve aviation companies which are combined under the wings of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, tomorrow will confer at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club on plans for a centralized control for all these units.

It was announced that the holding company plans no changes in the executive personnel of the twelve organizations.

The apparent public demand for certain types of equipment in airplanes will be considered as will be the problem of standardizing student training throughout the country, a step that already has been formed in an embryonic stage.

Among those who will attend the meeting are F. W. Bellamy and J. Cheever Cowdin of the holding company; H. G. Hotchkiss of counsel for the Curtiss-Wright Corporation; G. C. Westervelt of Curtiss-Caproni; William B. Robertson of Curtiss-Robinson; Casey Jones of Curtiss Flying Service; Edgar M. Gott, president of Keystone Aircraft Corporation, and Minton M. Warren, president of Moth Aircraft Corporation.

EDISON SAYS REAL MEN JUST BEGINNING AT 36

WEST ORANGE (N. J.) Sept. 8. (AP)—Eighty-two years of age and rapidly recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia, Thomas A. Edison is quoted as discounting the theory attributed to English authors that a man is ready for the scrap heap at 36.

The quotation is in an article in the current issue of the Edison Plant Magazine, written by W. H. Meadowcraft, chief aide and secretary of Mr. Edison.

"The man who has reached the age of 36 is just about ready to discard the illusions built upon false theories for which wrong instructions and usually ignorance previously have made him an easy mark," Edison declared.

"A. 36 he is just beginning to get down to business. If he is really worth while he has passed through a period of hard knocks by that time. The youthful man never leads the easy sheltered, knockless, unshocked life. At 36 he ought to be prepared to meet with realities and after that period in his life until he is 60 he should be able to handle them with steadily increasing efficiency."

The inventor assumes that the man of whom he is speaking has not undermined his health by a life of intemperance.

"Subsequently, if he has not injured his body by unhealthy living, he may very rightly continue to be increasingly efficient up to his eightieth birthday, and in exceptional cases until 90."

BUTLER BREAKS UP CONFERENCE

Direct Methods of General Beat Diplomacy

Policy of Friendliness for Chinese Followed

Protests Against Marines Meant Nothing

(This is the seventh of eight articles in which Maj.-Gen. Smedley Darlington Butler is telling the diverting story of the bloodless conquest of China by the United States marines he took out there in 1927 to protect American lives in the country's raging civil war.)

BY SMEDLEY D. BUTLER
Major-General, U.S.M.C.

(Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive) We of the United States marines declined to fortify and man our lines in Tien-tsin, which had the effect of quieting the other allies, who had determined to man their lines.

Furthermore, in order to avoid unnecessary excitement on the part of all, foreigners and Chinese alike, we did not string our position with barbed wire.

To be prepared for emergency, however, we built wire entanglements on sled runners which could readily be dragged by the men as they rushed to their assigned positions of defense. These entanglements, which would have been in place as soon as the men, were kept out of sight in the various billets, thus not offending the Chinese.

Also, instead of building field works, each man carried empty sand bags and a small shovel, so that within a few minutes of his arrival in designated position he would have the advantage of wire and trench protection.

OIL PLANT MANNED

One position, however, was wired and manned by us, and that was the plant of the Standard Oil Company, which was within our defense area in the ex-Russian concession in Tien-tsin, and which contained many hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline and fuel. We had good reason to man that plant.

A frantic telephone message informed me at headquarters one afternoon that the huge Standard Oil establishment was in flames and that the blaze was spreading so rapidly the entire $8,000,000 plant was endangered, as was the whole community.

I immediately ordered out 2000 marines to fight the fire. One tin storage house was in flames and the heat was terrific. On one side, sixteen feet away, was a similar warehouse of tin construction and filled with thousands of cans of gasoline. On another side was a similar structure filled with innumerable thousands of cans of kerosene; on a third side, twenty feet from the inferno, was still another kerosene warehouse, while on the fourth side were six tanks each holding 50,000 barrels of oil.

At a glance we saw that the burning warehouse was doomed, and we feared that the other structures would soon go up in smoke. The marines immediately began to cart away the cans of oil and kerosene in the three other warehouses.

FIRE WALLS BUILT

I recalled then that Ross Davis, Chief Engineer of Philadelphia's fire department, had told me when I was Director of Public Safety there that the way to stop a fire from spreading was to build fire walls between the burning building and those endangered.

Half of the marines were thereupon set to gathering up tin, earth and other noninflammable materials, and building a wall about the burning building. The other half of the detail continued the task of taking to a safe place the kerosene and gas containers.

I entered one of the endangered warehouses and stood in the narrow space separating the slight tin walls from the piled cans of combustible oils.

Soon the rain started to drip down the walls, indicating that the heat had become sufficiently great to melt it, and I feared that shortly the kerosene would explode. The marines were immediately ordered from the scene, but when the officers were not looking the men would steal in to rescue an extra can or two of Standard Oil product.

CHINESE VOLUNTEER

On the second day the Chinese general in charge of the troops in the area volunteered to send 2500 Chinese soldiers to help us in the battle against the oil fire, provided we fed them. We agreed and they came.

They didn't know much about fighting a fire, but neither did the marines. At any rate they copied our efforts, aided in the building of the fire walls, which soon stood sixteen feet about the burning building, and in carrying to safety cans of gasoline and kerosene.

They ate with our men, slept with them and became their good friends. We managed to subdue the fire after four days, saving $6,000,000 worth of property for the oil company.

In appreciation of the efforts of the marines the company sent $1000 for their entertainment fund, while the United States government authorized the Marine Corps to replace $6000 worth of clothing the boys ruined in their efforts.

Meantime our relations with the Chinese were getting more friendly. After Rear-Admiral Williams went back home we had another great commander, Admiral Mark Bristol, and the same policy of consideration for the Chinese was continued. Admiral Bristol had been High Commissioner to Turkey and he had a good many ideas of his own. He, too, was very friendly with the Chinese. In our Minister, Mr. MacMurray, we had one of the highest-grade public officials I have ever met. I had never known anyone who took his job more seriously and who worked harder to bring about good relations.

HELPFUL INTERPRETER

Though we thought of many unusual things to do to bring about this friendly feeling, much was done by the interpreters. If I said something to the Chinese that wasn't quite right the interpreter would say something else. Whatever he said always was proper. If they said something he thought we wouldn't like, the interpreter, in translating, would turn it into a joke.

When the winter of 1927 approached we began to look around for permanent quarters, and selected the old barracks in the abandoned German concession as the ideal place. Since the Germans gave up their concession the land has been controlled by the Chinese.

We called on the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Central government in Peking. Fred Mayer, then in temporary charge of our legation, accompanied me, as did my interpreter. The Minister and Mayer conferred for some time, through an interpreter, as the Minister was not known to speak English, and Mayer did not speak Chinese.

TALKED LIKE SENATOR

I became generally irritated at the uselessly formal and pointless conversation, which was not getting us anywhere. Finally, unable to restrain myself, I pointed my finger at the Minister's face, and speaking in English, said:

"You talk like an American Senator trying to avoid giving a direct answer on the question of prohibition to a group composed equally of wets and drys, just before election."

The Minister's face broke into a smile of understanding. Then, in perfect English, he replied:

"I, the Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs, cannot consistently protest your presence in China, as I have been doing, and then present to you a Chinese barracks in which to live. However, confidentially, we are very desirous of having you remain in China, and I will quietly order my subordinate in Tien-tsin to give the barracks to you. I will then punish him by removing him from office, but later I will give him a better office in Peking."

This was the first time anyone at our Legation knew the Minister understood and spoke English.

For all the conversation we didn't get the barracks, as all the officials were afraid that when the Southerners got to Tien-tsin they would chop off the blocks of the officials who gave the marines a Chinese barracks. They need not have feared, however, for the Southerners later lent us a plot of 4000 acres and built a rifle range so the marines could keep up their marksmanship.

From time to time Chinese officials would protest against our presence on Chinese soil. They wrote long-winded letters. They also objected, at first, to our airplanes, although we had a treaty right to fly along the line of the railroad from Tien-tsin to Peking.

The Chinese officer who brought about these protests was a nice little chap and wore a most gorgeous hat, probably designed by a French milliner. Whenever he came we had the band play the Chinese national air, and our official photographers would take several snaps of him. Then we would tell him how friendly we were with his government, and add:

"Look here, these Southern fellows are coming up looking for you Northerners, and what are you going to do? They are going to cut off your heads. Our presence may save you."

And always he would reply:

"You just tear up this protest. Never mind even reading it. It does not mean anything. We are only doing this to save our faces with our own people and to tell the Southerners, when they come, that we tried to get you out."

And he would leave, to return within a few weeks with another similar protest.

WHEN you set out this Fall to replenish your shirt wardrobe you will find a wider variety of styles, patterns, and colors than the stores have shown for many seasons.

Shirts with white grounds having single, split, and cluster stripes, and neat geometric figures, will, in all probability, be the most popular. They are in excellent taste, and for city wear are best with starched collar to match, or white starched collar.

If a touch of formality is desired there are stiff bosom shirts which may be smooth, or in several pleat variations. These shirts, too, should be in stripes and patterns that are inconspicuous, for it is obvious that anything "loud" would give too much prominence to an area that receives a good deal of attention anyway.

The demi-bosom shirt will be worn by many of the better-dressed young men, and, for the most part, will be of the horizontal stripe or plain color variety. With these, either the white starched collar, or striped or colored collars to match the shirt are correct.

Both types of starched bosom shirts offer the advantages of neatness of appearance, and furnish a suitable foundation for the starched collar.

The tab collar which has been taken up very widely, has had an influence on the length of collar points. Thus, there is a tendency towards shorter points both in starched and soft collars.

Except in tennis, golf and polo shirts, the collar point should not exceed three inches, preferably a quarter of an inch less. Collars three and one-quarter inches or longer are approved for tennis, golf and other sports wear.

When the informal soft attached collar is worn, the points should be held in place by a pin unless there are tabs for this purpose. The points should be neither extremely long nor extremely short or they will lack smartness when pinned. Three inches is a very good length.

The vogue for comfort has shown itself in the popularity of the soft collar, and has brought about a general lowering of collar fronts, especially in the starched variety now so much worn by the younger business men of New York.

Most of these collars have rounded corners, a new note. Some are cut away sharply at the front, others extremely low in front with slightly rounded corners. The stud hole is set low at the rear and high at the front to give the smart slope.

Details of colors, patterns, and fabrics in Fall shirts will be reviewed next week.

Early morning golfers will appreciate the waterproof features of this sport oxford, and its extra quota of spikes in the heels and soles. Of white Scotch grain with trim of brown Scotch grain in an unusual cut-out pattern that suggests the popular moccasin type shoe. $22.50.

At Silverwoods

One might say that the "Park Lane" is a paradox in Autumn felts, for it is a raw edge snap brim model that achieves a dress-up effect usually found only in the unsnapped brim variety. Has a jaunty air with its low set three-quarters back. In the new season colors, mastic, coral, Jardin green, and Old English. $10.00.

At Desmond's

We've found no underwear that even approaches the comfort and freedom of this new style athletic slip-on union suit by Vassar. With a deep-cut neck, ample under-arm opening, short leg cut on a bias, and no bothersome buttons, it's the very essence of brevity. A one-piece garment that slips on like a "speed" swim suit. In rayon; white, flesh, blue, or helio. $2.50.

At Harris & Frank

We sketched the Dyas "Fore-Way" as an example of a style that will be popular this Fall. Its two-button notch lapel coat is fashioned on loose, easy-fitting lines, and is silk-lined. All the seams are piped with silk. In a smart herringbone pattern, $37.50. Plus fours to match, $7.50.

At B. H. Dyas

Here is real lounging robe luxury. A very fine quality crepe oxford fabric was chosen, for its weave gives a particularly smart tailored appearance. Barathea silk in a light chocolate shade is used to trim the long shawl collar, the pockets, and for the binding down the front. Custom made, the robe shown is in two shades of tan, patterned with broken diagonal squares of dark blue. Truly a royal robe. $45.

At Machin's
Custom Shirtmaker

A Smith Smart Shoe in tan or black kangaroo. Has snug fitting heel and all the comfort qualities for which this maker is known. In tan it may be worn with the formal type of business suit; in black it is correct for evening street wear. $12.50. Also in tan or black calfskin. $11.00.

At Innes Shoe Co.

A featherweight Knox hat for early Fall. Worn with the brim slightly rolled, it is smart for the more formal business occasions; with the brim snapped it has a more nonchalant air. A shape retaining feature is the welt edge. With narrow band, in pearl, silver, chamois, tan. Model sketched, $8.50. Other Knox hats from $7.50 to $40.

At Roos Bros.
Hollywood

Good taste is expressed in the lines of this plainly styled oxford, built on the Johnston & Murphy "Mayfair" last, with single soles. Of tan calfskin, grained, with stitched boxing, and minus perforations, it conforms to the present fashion for simplicity. $16.50.

Beer Gangster "Put on Spot"

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (AP)—James (Bugs) Donovan, 37 years of age, described by police as a wealthy beer racketeer from Union City, N. J., was shot to death late last night by two gangsters as he sat in his automobile in Twenty-first street. The assailants escaped.

Police said the slayers had been trailing Donovan in another automobile.

Miss Grace McDermott, outside whose home Donovan was sitting, said he had intended to call on her. She and four other persons, two men and two women, were taken to a police station for questioning.

Police said they believed the motive for the slaying lay in a feud between beer racketeers.

Many Birds Die in Sudden Cold

MAQUOKETA (Iowa) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Caught in a sudden drop of temperature here at night, thousands of birds were found dead in the city streets. Merchants opening their stores found sheltered spots literally crowded with birds which were taken in, warmed up and released to continue their journey southward. Scores were killed in dashing against electric light globes in an effort to find warmth. A number of different varieties were found among the dead birds.

Year-Old Child Blinded by Fiend

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8. (AP)—A man who blinded a year-old-child with a hot iron barely escaped lynching by a mob at the mining village of Al Areo, Sinaloa, says a dispatch to El Universal. Police saved the man's life and lodged him in jail. He refused to give a reason for his act. The victim was the son of one of the man's friends.

LIONS INCREASING

OROVILLE, Sept. 8. (AP)—Mountain lions are reported to be on the increase in the Sierra Nevada Range. One of the largest cats killed in several years was recently brought down at Strawberry Valley, near the boundary line of Butte and Plumas counties. The animal weighed 125 pounds and measured nine feet from tip to tip.

HAS BEST RECORD OF ANY COAST GRID MENTOR

Coaching Finesse to Play Big Part in Conference Football Race; Warner's Standing High

BY BRAVEN DYER

Next Saturday marks the opening of the 1929 Pacific Coast Conference football race and it also is the beginning of Howard Jones's fifth season as mentor at the University of Southern California.

As the 14th inst. draws nearer all sorts of predictions fill the air. Stanford and the Trojans are favored on most sides, but California is not without support. One reason most of the old-timers string with the Cards and Trojans is the edge these teams are likely to have in coaching finesse. It's hard to bet against men like "Pop" Warner and Howard Jones, and even though Nibs Price proved last year that he has the goods the average dopester will string with the two veterans in preference to California's up-and-coming mentor.

HOWARD JONES.

There seems to be virtually nothing to choose between the three teams as far as material is concerned. All have suffered losses but each is adequately supplied with new blood. The race, therefore, resolves itself into a matter of coaching ability—plus the breaks, and nobody can forecast the latter.

Jones has the best record of any mentor on the Pacific Coast, so it is logical to string along with him inasmuch as there appears to be nothing the matter with his material at this writing. The Trojan mentor has won thirty-six games, lost five and tied two since taking over the reins in 1925.

In the past two seasons he has suffered but one defeat and that by a lone point, 7 to 6, by Notre Dame at Chicago in 1927. Two ties were played, one with Stanford, 12 to 12, in the same year and the other with California, a scoreless struggle, last fall.

Pop Warner's record at Stanford is almost as good as that of Jones. He has won thirty-three games, lost six and tied three.

Price's record in no way compares with that of his rivals, but this is to be expected for there were many lean years following the death of Andy Smith. Nibs lost two games last season, but his team tied the Trojans for the Coast Conference crown, inasmuch as the Bears had no defeats in their conference contests.

Jones's greatest achievement, in the minds of the Trojan followers, was his 10-to-0 victory over Stanford last year. Those who know Jones best have always said: "When they think they've got him down, watch out!" Such was the situation prior to the Stanford game last year.

It is our belief that one of the main reasons for the Trojan mentor's success is the thoroughness with which he coaches a line. Day after day Jones gets down on the turf with his forwards and shows them what he wants. He'll spend a solid week with a boy who shows any promise at all, no matter how

Spence and Clapp in Tie

Walter Spence of the Pennsylvania Athletic Club and Austin Clapp, H.A.C. swimmer, finished in a dead heat yesterday in the rough-water swim sponsored by the Sea Breeze and Deauville Beach clubs, before a large crowd of aquatic enthusiasts. The swimmers made two round trips from the Sea Breeze to the Deauville clubhouses, a distance of about two and one-half miles.

Frank Booth set the pace for the first two miles, but was overtaken by the winners a half-mile from the finish line. The time, which was 6 m., is remarkable for this type of swim. Only ten of the fifteen starters finished the grind.

Those who won awards are as follows: Walter Spence (P.A.C.) and Austin Clapp (H.A.C.) tied for first; Frank Booth (H.A.C.) third; Paxton Claus (P.C.C.) fourth; Buster Olds (S.D.A.C.) fifth; Norman Kettering (P.C.C.) sixth; Earl Plexico (P.C.C.) seventh; Fred Woods (L.A.A.C.) eighth.

Just as Jack Lelivelt and his soaring Seraphs were about to step up into first place out at Wrigley Field yesterday, Rudy Kallio, whose many seasons of campaigning on the diamond have taught him to pitch with his noodle as well as his arm tripped them with a 3-to-1 defeat, so the Cherubs had to be satisfied with a tie for second place with the Missions when their day's work was done.

The Angels had copped the opener, 8 to 2, behind the hurling of Deacon Plitt, who conquered his Wrigley Field jinx, and needed only a victory in the nightcap to climb into the league leadership when they struck a snag in the personage of Mr. Kallio.

Kallio had to use his noodle more than his arm to get by the first five rounds of the supper shift, but after that his salary wing got sufficiently warmed up enough to complete the task of checking the Cherubs' six-game winning streak. The only run scored off Rudy resulted when Ray Jacobs belted one over the left-field fence in the second inning. The Angels had many opportunities to score other runs, but Rudy

ROBBINS TRIMS SEWARD

Bruin Freshman Advances Into Semifinal Round of Ambassador Tennis Tournament

Clifton Robbins, U.C.L.A. freshman net ace, advanced into the semi-final bracket of the junior men's singles of the first semiannual Ambassador Tennis Club tournament yesterday with a brilliant triumph over Billy Seward, the promising John Burroughs Junior High School player, 6-2, 6-1.

Robbins swept aside his more youthful foe mainly because of greater speed. He encounters next young Chuck Otis of Pasadena, who eliminated Leonard Patterson, Santa Monica wonder, after a three-set struggle, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. The two other semifinalists in this event are Orville Scholtz and James Bobbitt.

Young Billy Seward was also beaten in the boys' 15 years and under division in which Jimmy Ware dampened his championship hopes with a 6-2, 6-4 win. Seward's brilliant stroking, however, gave warning of a very brilliant future to come. He will be after some of these junior stars in a couple of years for revenge.

James Ware and young Graemer downed a mighty sweet doubles team in Larry Bachman and little Ned Russell but were carried to the limit to accomplish the triumph. The scores were 3-6, 6-3, 6-1. Bachman's terrific service and consistent drives played havoc with his foes who finally shifted their attack to Russell via the air route, which proved more successful.

The semi and final matches in all of the events will be staged next Saturday and Sunday on the hotel courts. It was planned to complete the meet yesterday but a large entry in each event halted completion. Vernon Campbell, pro at the hotel, and Dick Charnock, A. G. Spalding representative, originated the idea of the meet and are in charge of the play.

Yesterday's results:

BOYS 18 AND UNDER

Robbins defeated Seward, 6-2, 6-1; Otis defeated Patterson, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4; Bobbitt defeated Lott, 6-0, 6-1.

GIRLS UNDER 18

M. Wood defeated V. Daniel, 6-4, 6-3.

BOYS 15 AND UNDER

Patterson defeated Law, 6-2, 6-4; Ware defeated Seward, 6-2, 6-1; Layng defeated Gilmore, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

TILDEN MAY PASS US UP

Big Bill Tilden, ace of American tennis ranks, may pass up the third annual Pacific Southwest tennis tournament, it was learned yesterday at the Los Angeles Tennis Club. Tilden has been offered a contract to perform on the London stage in "They All Want Something" and should he accept, will leave for London immediately after the close of the national singles Saturday. In this case, he would not be able to perform here. Definite word, however, will not be known for a few days yet.

Speedy Dado Favored to Win From Peters in Olympic Main Event Tomorrow Night

WINNER LIKELY TO BOX GENARO

Indian Got Draw With Rival Few Months Ago

Foes Wind Up Training for Olympic Scrap

Little Fellows Sure to Put on Fast Fight

Speedy Dado, flyweight champion of the Orient, is the choice to defeat Ernie Peters, Chippewa Indian from Chicago, when they meet tomorrow night at the Olympic in a rematch. They boxed a draw several months ago.

Matchmaker Wad Wadhams may close today for a match between Frankie Genaro and tomorrow night's winner. If Genaro is brought here from New York the weight will be 112 pounds. Genaro has not neased in California since he lost the title to Fidel La Barba at Ascot Park.

Another match Wadhams expects to close soon will feature Ace Hudkins and Joe Anderson. The bout is scheduled for September 24 if Hudkins receives no reprimand or suspension from the commission following his lawsuit.

Since winning the case clears the Wildcat the ring body has no charge against him. Hudkins has already started training.

MACK DUE

Eddie Mack, who is being brought back from Denver to fight Goldie Hess a week from Tuesday, will arrive here tomorrow with his manager, Joe Roth. Mack was all packed up to go to Chicago to enter law school when given the Los Angeles offer.

Dado and Peters finished training yesterday. Both are in good shape. The Filipino's shoulder is all right and the Indian's ankle is okay for this fight.

When they fought before it was such a furious affair nobody suspected that both were fighting under handicaps. Dado lost the use of one arm almost entirely and Peters had a twisted ankle.

This is Dado's eleventh fight here. He has lost but once in his entire career. Newsboy Brown was credited with a technical knockout over the Brown doll when Dado hurt his shoulder.

Brown no longer makes the flyweight limit which leaves Dado as the Pacific Coast champion.

ONLY 19 YEARS OLD

Dado has been kept out of New York on account of his age. He is only 19. A fighter has to be 21 in order to box more than six rounds there.

Sammy Jackson is choice over Larry Murphy in the semi-wind-up under Dado and Peters. Wally Frahey and Bill Thayler clash in the special event.

ARMY POLOISTS CAPTURE GAME

outstanding star of the game by virtue of having scored five goals with a very hot mallet, was also the man who chased across the tally that decided the game in the overtime period.

Yesterday's victory was the second in two weeks which the ..cavalry horseman have hung up over the Uplifters. Last week they breezed home in front by one goal and yesterday they repeated that triumph but only after a great deal more work.

The Army riders took a 5-to-4 in the first half of the tilt but they were passed by local players in the fifth chukker when the Uplifters rammed home two goals. The invaders evened the count in the sixth. In the seventh chukker both teams staged rallies with the Army scoring three times and the Uplifters once. The local players led by Hal Roach rallied again in the eighth and tied the score with two goals forcing the game into an extra period. Hines then came through with the winning goal.

Leonard Dworkin and Miss Gladys Patz, recently crowned Alhambra tennis champions, came through as expected to capture the men's and women's laurels at the fourth annual Santa Monica Municipal net meet staged at Seventh and Wilshire streets.

FENSTON GOLF VICTOR

MONTEREY, Sept. 8. (AP)—Carl Fenston of Fresno won low gross in today's sweepstakes at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club with an 80. Jack Strobel of Salinas won low net with 81-10—71.

A funny game, this golf. And funny people, these golfers! Back in 1901 a Mr. E. T. Knapp of Westbrook, U.S.A., was so affected by playing "cowpasture pool" that he teed his golf ball up on top of a hen's egg, slightly denting the egg at one end to afford a hold for the ball. One fears that Mr. Knapp was slightly denied on his dome, or else he had read about Waggot, the English professional, who once shot nine holes in 41, driving off of the face of a watch at each tee.

Then consider the case of Joe Land and Hugh Fletcher, Winnipeg golf pros, who played a fifty-mile hole across wheat fields, woods, lakes, ditches and farmyards, Joe Land winning with an "eagle" 753, while his opponent had a "birdie" 802. They started at the Kirkfield Club and finished three days later at the Alcrest Club, and were accompanied by six caddies and two checkers, and, oh yes, a lunch wagon!

Two Englishmen did a similar stunt a few years previously, playing a twenty-mile hole in 866 strokes. Rupert Phillips and Raymond Thomas were the gents in question, and they started at 2 p.m. December 3, from the first tee at Radyr and finished at 1:30 p.m. December 5 at the eighteenth hole at Southerndown, averaging fifty-eight yards a stroke. (That's about my average on a regular course!) They played around swamps, woods and plowed fields, being aided by two large ordnance maps.

The Teyateyaneng Golf Club, South Africa, not only has a thirty-seven-yard hole but also one that measures 619 yards long.

The eleventh at St. Annes, Eng., is 520 yards, and is supposed to be the longest on a championship course. The smallest course in the world (barring pitch and putt, and indoor courses) is the three-hole links on the Isle of May.

Golf has been played at a much higher altitude than at the Gulmarq (India) course. Capt. F. E. S. Adair once held a putting competition 16,000 feet above sea level in one of the passes into Tibet, and the inmates of the Tibetan Mission at Gyantse played the game at a height of 13,100 feet in 1904.

HOWARD JONES IN FIFTH YEAR

green, but has no use for a player who can't improve.

U.S.C. has never had a bad line under Jones's coaching. Of course, material has been good, but it isn't man-power alone that makes for a co-ordinated, smooth-working combination along the front wall.

This year Jones's main problem is the development of a tackle to replace Hibbs, plus a couple of good ends as reserves for Tappaan and Stepenovitch, or whoever plays the position opposite "Tap."

Somehow or other we have the idea that his backfield will be a good one, despite the loss of Williams and Thomas. Give Jones a powerful line and his backfield will always look good.

The really tough thing about the Trojan outlook this fall is that schedule which brings the Southern California varsity face to face with Stanford and California on successive Saturdays. Injuries to any regulars in the Stanford game will seriously handicap the locals against Price's club and Jones will no doubt have his fingers crossed until the Card battle is concluded.

Leo Calland broadcasts from Idaho that U.S.C. will have a big line this year. He's right. Leo also says "as an example one of the 200-pound tackles is a high hurdler of considerable note." That one stumps us. There are lots of tackles at U.S.C., most of whom weigh 200 pounds or better, but there are no high hurdlers of note who fall into this class. Somebody must have misunderstood Leo.

BRUINS TO BE HELPED BY SOPHS

Members of Last Year's Undefeated Frosh Eleven to Bolster Varsity

Members of last season's freshman eleven are likely to play an important part on Coach Bill Spaulding's U.C.L.A. squad this season, according to latest reports from the Westwood campus. Last season's yearling outfit went through the year without a loss, and although they played no conference games, comparative scores showed them to be practically on a par with Southern California, winners of the conference.

Foremost among the stars of the peagreen outfit is Norm Duncan, captain and fullback, and although Spaulding is more in need of halfbacks than fulls, Duncan will see plenty of service along with Reuben Thoe, veteran of last season's eleven. Thoe shines particularly on the defense, while the former is a triple-threat man, and offensive player.

Howard Roberts, safety man and punter for the yearlings, may also develop into a valuable man. Although last season was his first year of football, he has developed into a punter who can send them out between fifty and seventy yards every time. He may also help to fill the gap at safety left by the graduation of Bert La Brucherie.

Dick Mulhaupt and Howard Steefen at ends will help compensate for the graduation of Charles Barta, who has been at that post for the past three years. The former in particular is expected to turn in a good performance in his first year of varsity competition. Leonard Wallendorf, center, who stands 6ft. 4in. tall, and earned numerals in four major sports last season, also has possibilities of developing into a valuable line candidate.

Besides these men, Aubrey Grossman, Lloyd McMillan, John Remsburg, and Bob Reinhard all show possibilities of developing into valuable football material within the next three years.

LUTZE ON TITLE CARD

Popular Grappler Will Face Jack O'Malley on Sonnenberg-Stecher Program

"Carnation" Lou Daro has signed Nick Lutze, the popular young heavyweight of this section, to meet Jack O'Malley, former Ohio State football player, to clash at the Olympic, the 18th inst., in one of the two big bouts planned to precede the finish title battle between Champion Gus Sonnenberg and Joe Stecher, the great Nebraskan grappler.

O'Malley is being given the chance to show what he can do against real top-notch competition as the result of the improvement noted in his wrestling during recent months. Lutze has already gone into training at Venice in anticipation of a tough battle. Marin Plestina, the 240-pound Jugo-Slav giant, is another star who is expected to appear on this card. He has already been made an offer for a bout here, and is expected to accept. A tough foe is being lined up for him.

The Stecher-Sonnenberg bout is creating as much interest both here and in every wrestling center of the country, as any of the title bouts between Sonnenberg and Ed Lewis. It is Stecher's first chance at the title in many months, and his first bout with the former Darmouth football star, who created as big a sensation when he beat Lewis as Stecher did when he was beating all comers in short time with his powerful body scissors hold. Stecher will go into heavy training today for this bout, his brother-manager, Anton stated.

A pair of husky former football players have been signed by Stecher to help him become better acquainted with the workings of the tackle, although he stated yesterday he did not believe Sonnenberg would ever reach him once with that hold.

Stecher is known as the most scientific wrestler in the game, and probably the hardest to get off balance during a bout. Those who have met him in the past declare he can anticipate every move his opponent intends to make, and is usually prepared to meet it.

AMATEUR AIDS WESTERN GOLF

the startling elimination of Jones in the first round, and other sensational happenings that kept tension at a fiery pitch during the last seven days comes this one outstanding thought—that the amateur has stimulated golf in the West as nothing else has ever done before.

Until this week, golfers of the East have known golf as it is played in the West mostly by inaccurate reports and hearsay.

Today, those who played in the tournament, officers of the U.S.G.A., and the several hundreds of fans who treked westward for the amateur, are leaving for their homes with a new impression of our golfers and our courses.

TEN YEARS LATE

In an article printed in The Times a week ago, we quoted O. B. Keeler, Bobby Jones's Boswell, as saying that within a period of ten years, the West will produce 60 per cent of the country's leading golfers.

"O. B." was just ten years late—the West has already produced 60 per cent of the nation's finest golfers as indicated by the eighteen Pacific Coast stars who qualified for the amateur. Golfers such as Dr. O. F. Willing, the runner-up to Johnston; H. Chandler Egan, whose brilliant golf carried him to the semifinals; Lawson Little, Jr., the 19-year-old youngster who lost to Francis Ouimet by one hole in the 36-hole quarterfinals; Don Moe, the western amateur champion, and Gibson Dunlap, the home town boy who shot a 69 to lead qualifiers for the first eighteen holes of the medal round, have given the East something to think about.

Pebble Beach was a revelation. Scores would indicate that the championship course was a difficult test of golf, but after talking to a number of the players, the consensus seems to be that mental, rather than real hazards caused the downfall of more than one golfer.

Exacting shots across chasms, and the ever-present threat of the Pacific Ocean, ruined more golf scores than the course itself.

WOMEN'S EVENT

But the East liked Pebble Beach and is anxious to see more of western golf-course architecture. The net result is this—that the West can now hope to see a national championship played on the Pacific Coast at least every three or four years.

Mrs. A. E. D. Trabue, president emeritus of the Women's Auxiliary of the Southern California Golf Association, was at Del Monte during the week and intimated that the next national classic coming to the Coast is the women's national. California was recommended for the tournament two years ago, and Mrs. Trabue expects Southern California to be selected for the event, when the 1929 championship is played at Detroit next month. There is also a possibility, although U.S.G.A. officials were quiet on the subject, that Southern California will get the national open in 1932, the year of the Olympic Games.

It took California thirty-three years to get the amateur, but it won't be many years until the West gets an even break with the East in the awarding of national tournaments.

It is an interesting bit of psychology to note that Bobby will go East with his escutcheon tarnished not one little bit by that first-round trimming at the hands of Johnny Goodman.

To thousands of golf enthusiasts, Bobby is still the greatest golfer in the world, and a mere defeat apparently can't relieve him of that title.

Next year Bobby will battle for the title over the course which saw his first victory in the amateur championship—the Merion Cricket Club, just outside of Philadelphia.

COMING AGAIN

Bob is anxious to come West again, although he is not certain just when it will be possible to get away. The National Open champion goes home with a sincere respect for California and Californians and rates the courses he has played on out here, including Lakeside, Riviera, the north course of the Los Angeles Country Club, Cypress Point and Pebble Beach, with the finest layouts America has to offer.

Water Polo Game Scheduled Wednesday Night

A total of eleven Olympic team members, one of the greatest array of swimmers and divers ever gathered together for one meet, will take part in the huge water carnival to be held Wednesday night at the Los Angeles Athletic Club plunge.

Names of the stars are familiar to fans who have followed the performers through their world record-breaking careers for the last few years. The eleven Olympic athletes are as follows: "Buster" Crabbe, Walter Spence, Josephine McKim, Georgia Coleman, Mickey Riley, "Dutch" Smith, Austin Clapp, Wally O'Connor, "Ginger" Austin, Duke Kahanomuku and Sam Gordon. O'Connor, Austin, Kahanamoku and Greller will all take part in the fancy hot water polo game, which Peggy Cady will stage as one of the special features on Wednesday's program of champions. The polo game will be fast and furious and is always a great crowd pleaser.

The feature performers of the program will be "Buster" Crabbe, who will try to equal Johnny Weissmuller's record of 5m. 47 2-5s. for the 220-yard free-style event, and Josephine McKim and Walter Spence. Miss McKim, who has already broken Martha Norelius's treasured 440-yard record, will attempt to shatter the latter's world 220-yard mark, which is 2m. 40 2-5s. Spence will attempt to crack his own world's record for the 200-yard breast stroke, the time now being 2m. 31 4-5s.

Competition for these three champions will not be lacking, as Austin Clapp of the Hollywood A.C., one of the fastest middle-distance swimmers in the world, will race Crabbe over the 500-yard course. Olive Hatch and Jennie Cramer of the L.A.A.C. will pace Miss McKim and Dr. Gunter, L.A.A.C., Lloyd Varney, Hollywood, and Preston Klause, Pacific Coast Club, will pace Spence.

In addition to these three races and the water polo battle, the program will include many other events of interest. Mickey and Josephine Riley, Georgia Coleman and Betty Smith, national diving champions of the L.A.A.C., will perform in both comedy and more serious acts. Vera Kimball, sprint champion of Hollywood, will try for a local 100-yard record and there will be other events for juniors as well as several novelties. Little Joe Cren, 3-year-old wonder of the Ambassador Swimming Club, will perform both on the springboard and in the water.

The meet will start at 8 o'clock Wednesday and Coach Cady is making preparations to take care of a record crowd.

Acid Test for Legion Track in Long Ra

Whether or not Los Angeles, home of the country's greatest flying pilots—is due to make a track league return to auto speed competition this year, may be decided the 22nd inst., when the world's race is held at the American Legion Speedway. Such was the assertion made yesterday by A. J. Pillsbury of the A.A.A.

The contest here this month will be the biggest thing enacted in the open throttle sport in this section since the Culver City board speedway was in operation several years ago. The fact that it will be of 500 laps duration means that the Legion oval will have to undergo a real test. If it stands up under the lengthy grind, Pillsbury asserted that he will make a favorable report to Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, contest board of the A.A.A.

Then if the latter body decides that the Alhambra Boulevard course is worthy of a major event, a race here in November which will attract such pilots as Louis Meyer, the triple-crown and other boys of the dirt-track notables may be obtained. It is understood that the American Legion has not as yet filed application for such a meet several months, and said application has been awaiting action from the governing body of the sport.

BROWNS LOSE

BOSTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox staged a ninth-inning rally and scored a run with none out to beat St. Louis, 4 to 3, here today in the first game of a double-header. The nightcap, after ten scoreless innings, was called because of the Sunday law.

Morris pitched the opener for the Sox and achieved his fourteenth victory of the season, as against thirteen losses. Heving's single in the ninth with the bases filled accounted for the winning run.

In the nightcap Blaeholder held the Sox to three hits. Milton Gaston was hit oftener, but kept them scattered. In the eighth inning with two out and men on first and third, Blue made a brilliant mitt-hand stop of Rhyne's drive to right. Scores:

Dazzy Vance Hurls Robins to Win Over Pirates; Babe Ruth Hits Forty-second Home Run

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (AP)—Chicago lost a free-hitting contest to Brooklyn, 13 to 11, here today, but held its thirteen-game lead as Brooklyn eased out Pittsburgh, 2 to 1. Both teams employed three pitchers.

Guy Bush was knocked out of the box in the second inning and Hal Carlson, Lee Meadows and Mike Cvengros followed. Lazzeri started Chicago's attack with a home run into the right field stands, but a seven-run attack in the fifth off Dazzy Vance, who relieved Brandt, gave the Robins the victory.

Babe Ruth hit his thirty-fourth home run of the season and Lazzeri added a pair of doubles and a single to lead the Chicago attack with four hits in six trips to the plate. Rabbit Maranville got four hits in six trips to the plate as his share of Boston's 15 hits.

A crowd of 34,000 watched the game.

BROWNS LOSE

BOSTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox staged a ninth-inning rally and scored a run with none out to beat St. Louis, 4 to 3, here today in the first game of a double-header. The nightcap, after ten scoreless innings, was called because of the Sunday law.

Morris pitched the opener for the Sox and achieved his fourteenth victory of the season, as against thirteen losses. Heving's single in the ninth with the bases filled accounted for the winning run.

In the nightcap Blaeholder held the Sox to three hits. Milton Gaston was hit oftener, but kept them scattered. In the eighth inning with two out and men on first and third, Blue made a brilliant mitt-hand stop of Rhyne's drive to right. Scores:

DAWSON CASE IS SORE SPOT

Golf Association Held to Task

BY GEORGE VON ELM
National Amateur Golf Champion, 1926

[Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.]

PEBBLE BEACH (Cal.) Sept. 8.—The highly disputed golfing question of who should wear the national amateur championship crown this year having been decided here yesterday in favor of Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston U.S.G.A. officials, golf fans and others—nearly 3000 in number — are packing up and starting homeward.

Jimmy is still here but he didn't play golf today. He was too busy answering congratulatory telegrams from friends in every part of the United States. Jimmy did stop long enough to take a look out over the course.

The rolling sward that welcomed a crowd of 5000 fans yesterday was strangely deserted today. Less skillful players than the new national amateur champion—and their higher-handicap brethren had monopolized the layout. Pebble Beach has gone back to Pebble Beach golf—which affords an enjoyable eighteen-hole championship test over a seabordered course that is truly one of the most beautiful in America.

The thirty-third annual scramble for the highest honors in national amateur golf is a thing of the past but there are some poignant reminders that stick out.

Johnny Dawson, popular Chicago youngster who withdrew from the championship when U.S.G.A. officials questioned his status, was one of the first to congratulate Johnston.

Dawson is a very brilliant golfer in his own right—as his determined bid for titular honors in the last British amateur will testify.

Johnny is a member of some very fine golf clubs and has been a dangerous threat in amateur competitions for the past six years. Three weeks before the championship Johnny went to work for a sporting-goods house—work that he has followed for years past. For some unknown reason—it couldn't have been because he was such a fine golfer—the executive committee of the United States Golf Association questioned his entry.

The ruling body placed Johnny in a very unfortunate position by leaving the final decision in the matter entirely up to him. Had Johnny decided to exercise his prerogative and play, he might possibly been criticized for his action. By withdrawing gracefully and courteously requesting a definite ruling for all future competitions, Johnny cemented the friendship of a host of well-wishers and is just about as popular here today, as even Jimmy Johnston.

Johnny Dawson is a very fine golfer, a gentleman on and off the links, and to my way of thinking, has been a decided credit to international amateur golf. Like all of Johnny's many friends, I deeply regret the action of the U.S.G.A. at this particular time and sincerely hope the matter will be satisfactorily adjusted in the near future.

I heard the U.S.G.A. likewise found it necessary to question the amateur status of Johnny Goodman, the youthful golfer who defeated Bobby Jones. I have heard varying reports, one stating that Goodman is paying his way through college while working in a sporting-goods store, and a second that he has been an employee of a large telephone and telegraph concern. The latter organization handled nearly 200,000 words daily out of here during the championship. I don't know what the final decision in Goodman's case really was. Suffice for the moment, Goodman remained in the tournament long enough to defeat the nation's greatest amateur, Bobby Jones.

Speaking of Bobby Jones, Bobby received a telegram from H. E. Nichols of San Pedro yesterday, the first one of its kind to date, asking him to sell his clubs—now that he was probably through with them. Bobby answered the telegram, but kept his clubs.

Sportsmanship is a funny thing. I think Jimmy Johnston is one of the best golfers and one of the finest sportsmen in the game, and Jimmy agrees with me that Dr. Willing did deserve a much more friendly gallery yesterday. There are always rabid partisans following every branch of sport, but there can be no excuse for the actions of many of the fans that galleried the Johnston-Willing match yesterday.

Dr. Willing is a great golfer—Johnston is greater, but Dr. Willing deserved more support in his drive for the amateur crown. He could have golfed more favorably even without this encouragement had those few unfair fans remained silent when he missed one of the several shots that contributed much to his defeat.

I am sure—after thinking it over last night, the fans that galleried here yesterday will feel sorry for their unsportsmanlike attitude and will realize that it wasn't that they liked Dr. Willing less—it was rather that they liked Johnston more. Dr. Willing deserves a world of praise for his game try at the national amateur crown. There is no disgrace in losing to a better golfer—and Johnston was a better golfer yesterday.

I have followed this tournament very carefully—possibly too carefully during my first-round match, and I think any possible criticism must be of the most favorable kind. I think the tournament was the best ever. Like Bobby Jones, I would like to have lasted longer. Maybe it will be different next year. Final results proved that the best golfer in the tournament won the championship. I don't know what else you can say—Bobby Jones summed up the situation correctly, after congratulating the golfer who defeated him—"Well," Bobby said, "they can defeat me—but they can't drive me out. I like California."

We all like California and I hope to see more national amateur championships decided in this vicinity. I am sure every entrant in the competition enjoyed the affair. Pebble Beach provided a perfect setting for the thirty-third annual renewal of the nation's greatest amateur golf competition.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Of the score of savages who had crept upon Tarzan, a single warrior managed to escape the horde that had overwhelmed his people. This one was Mugambi, the chief. Only the keen eyes of the ape-man saw him disappear into the tangled forest. Leaving his pack behind him, Tarzan of the Apes pursued this single survivor of the ferocious fight.

He saw the fleeing black, making with headlong strides for a war canoe drawn well up on the beach. Noiseless as the fellow's shadow Tarzan raced after the terror-stricken savage. Before he could strike a blow in his own defense the black was hurled to earth, while a giant's iron fingers closed about his wrists. "Who are you?" asked Tarzan in the language of the West Coast.

"Mugambi, chief of the Wagambi," replied the black. "I will spare your life," said Tarzan, "if you will promise to help me leave this island." "I will help you," answered Mugambi. "But now there will be none to work the paddles." Tarzan allowed his prisoner to stand up. A magnificent specimen of manhood, the fellow was a black counterpart of the white man.

"Come!" said the ape-man. They could still hear the snarls and growls of the feasting pack and Mugambi hesitated. But Tarzan forced him to come along. Soon they were in full view of the grisly spectacle upon the beach. At sight of the two men the beasts now looked up with angry growls, but Tarzan strode in among them dragging the trembling Mugambi with him.

ANGELENOS OWN TUNGSTEN MINE

Production of Metal Aim of New Incorporation

Laboratories and Refinery Planned for City

Property in Randsburg Area Held Proven Ground

Among recent California incorporations of particular interest to industrial Los Angeles is the Pacific Tungsten Company, Ltd., which has bought the Cadick group of claims, comprising 150 acres in the Atolia district near Randsburg, adjoining and lying just east of the property and mines of the Atolia Mining Company.

The Atolia district is the world's greatest producer of scheelite ore, a rich lode and placer mines, of the Pacific Tungsten Company, comprise a half mile on this great vein, with the Sky Lark mine already developed and extensions of it ready for opening.

In addition the property comprises seventy acres of rich placer ground in the "Spud Patch," similiar to the adjoining ground now being worked with steam shovel by the Atolia Mining Company. During the war tungsten to the amount of $2,000,000 was mined on the Cadick property.

The plans of the Pacific Tungsten Company are twofold, namely, to develop from its own mines a primary supply of tungsten ore for its metallurgical plant and to ship surplus ore to eastern steel works. A research laboratory has been established.

The metallurgical plant will be located in Los Angeles for the production of metallic tungsten and alloys for various local industrial uses, especially for deep oil well-drilling tools. Owning its own ore, the company will, it is expected, be independent of market fluctuations, and it expects to occupy a particularly strong industrial position in the fast-expanding Los Angeles field.

The officers of the company are: Cadick, president; Edward A. [illegible], vice-president and treasurer, and chief metallurgist in charge of mining operations; and C. Colcord Jones, secretary and chief engineer in charge of mining opera-

Work is progressing in the east drift along the ore on the 950-foot level. It ran into a fault, but crushed ore was followed a few feet to one side until the vein was picked up again. Its character is unchanged.

Reliable reports are that the ore opened to date has an average value over $150 a ton. Its width is six feet and it has been developed along a length of 300 feet.

Preparations are being made at the mill to treat as much of this ore as can be extracted, along with some of lower grade from the old workings. The tram is to be hooped up so that it will transport the ore right from the bunker at the shaft to the mill without rehandling.

NEW WELL SPURS ACTIVITY

Gatton & Gould Completion Near Bakersfield Revives Interest in Immediate District

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Preparations for an active drilling campaign in the Kern River oil field, a short distance north of Bakersfield, is expected to result from the completion of the Gatton & Gould No. 1 well on Section 36, 28-27. It was brought in a few days ago for a daily production of eighty barrels of 14 deg. gravity oil and has built up steadily until the well is now producing more than 250 barrels a day.

Though the well is only a few days old a number of operators in the field have signified their intention of redrilling old wells and it is believed that drilling crews will again become active in a field that has been producing since about 1890.

MANY INTERESTED

There are more than a score of small operators interested in the 6850 acres of proven oil territory. Since the field first began to produce, more than 250,800,000 barrels of oil have been taken from the upper zones of the old Kern River series. At present there are more than 2200 holes in the field, many of which will be redrilled, it is said.

The Gatton & Gould well was brought in from sixty feet of oil sand at 1450 feet. The casing was set at 1395 feet.

Operators who have decided to drill there within the past three days include the Revenue Oil Company on Sec. 4, 28-28. This property is owned by Pasadena capitalists, and is located a short distance from the new well, in a southeastern direction. The Arizona Oil Company, owners of acreage on Sec. 31, will drill a deep test of the territory, and F. E. Abbott, operating on the old Bets property, will commence active drilling at once, reports say.

FIRST DRILLING

The Kern River field, almost adjacent to Bakersfield's city limits, was drilled first before 1900. Of late more than 2200 wells have either been shut in entirely or are producing but a few barrels per day. The new find opens up untold possibilities for these holes.

Discovery of the new production zone in the Gatton & Gould well hinged upon a successful water shutoff obtained by the crew. Belief that the territory possessed deeper sands has existed for years, but water always broke in and spoiled the operators' plans. The Gatton & Gould success paves the way for further deep-test activities.

The first deep test was made in 1905 when Frank Carmen drilled a well on Sec. 8, 29-28. Carmen succeeded in obtaining fifty barrels per day from the flow of water and oil but was forced to shut it in because of water. In 1927 the Richard Oil Company encountered the deeper sands but was likewise forced to plug the hole.

The Kern River field has been a prolific producer. Each acre there has produced more than 30,000 barrels of oil, figures indicate. All of this came from depths of less than 1600 feet. The new hole indicates that three new lower zones may become active producing areas below the Kern River series. These are the marine phase of the Etchigoin zone coming from the Kern front to the west; the Jewett zone, Round Mountain's producing area which underlies the old Kern River series; and the Vedder sand, underlying both the Etchigoin and Jewett. The Jewett and Vedder zones are of the middle Miocene or the Temblor producing areas.

Bakersfield is expected to profit greatly from drilling plans originating in the minds of many small operators in the Kern River field. Thousands of dollars will be spent in reopening one of the oldest fields in the world and one which was commonly thought to have had its day but which now looms as a prospective boom center. Although no accurate gauge of drilling plans can be made at present operators are of the belief that the Kern River field soon will witness a scene of activity such as it has not seen in years.

Boston Group Buys Control of Union Jesse

HUMBOLDT (Ariz.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Boston capitalists have taken over the Union Jesse mine, five miles west of Humboldt, having paid the former owners $250,000 for it. Development and operation has been turned over to the Southwest Mines Development Company of Prescott.

Unwatering of the old workings, consisting of 12,000 feet of shafts, drifts and tunnels, is to be undertaken immediately. The main shaft is 600 feet in depth. Engineers declare that there is much good ore in the workings and on the dump that will pay well for working by modern methods.

On the property is a seventy-five-ton flotation mill which is to be remodeled at once and placed in commission. It is to be only the first unit of a large concentrator.

There are thirty-five claims in the Union Jesse group. All are to be thoroughly explored and mapped in preparation for an extensive development campaign.

SILVER PEAK MINE GROUP TAKEN OVER

Properties of Old Gold Extension Purchased by Trans-Pacific, Ltd.

Announcement was made yesterday by Robert Fisher, president of the Trans-Pacific Properties, Ltd., of the acquisition of the holdings of the Old Gold Extension Mining Company of Nevada, consisting of the Silver Peak group of mining claims at Silver Peak, Nev., which have yielded over $400,000 in gold and silver from surface workings, and the Vallecito placers of Calaveras county, in the Mother Lode district. Excellent mineral showings are reported to have been made on this property and according to the management active operations will start within a month.

Trans-Pacific also is developing the Kelso mine in San Bernardino county, where it is reported that an excellent body of good milling grade ore had been encountered in the lower tunnel level. This property was originally located in the '60's and was operated intermittently until the '80's, when it was closed down on account of the water problem. It now is to be operated by modern methods.

Standard Plans New Project on Maricopa Flat

MARIPOSA, Sept. 8. (Exclusive) The Standard Oil Company has staked location for its No. 7 well on Sec. 9, 11-23, Mariposa Flat. The site is 300 feet south and 300 feet east of the northwest quarter of the section. Standard's Graham No. 1 on Sec. 7, 11-23, is down 2890 feet, in hard brown shale, and is drilling ahead.

The company's Graham No. 2 on the same section is at 2145 feet and drilling ahead.

The Eastern Sunset Oil Company, latest entrant into the Mariposa Flat drilling campaign, is down 300 feet in its Reardon No. 1 hole on Sec. 6, 11-22, according to reports. The bit is in a clay formation.

The Signal Oil & Gas Company is making steady progress in its Sheehan No. 5 well on Sec. 8, 11-23. The hole is past 2000 feet in blue shale and is drilling ahead. The depth marks a gain of more than 700 feet in the last week.

The Republic Oil Company's No. 35 well on Sec. 8, 32-25 is down 2800 feet and the crew is reaming hole, according to reports. The casing is at 2260 feet. An oil sand struck at 2675 feet showed possibilities but continued drilling will take place, it is thought.

TEST PLUGS BACK

Western Gulf to Try for Oil at Higher Levels

FRUITVALE, Sept. 8. (Exclusive) The Western Gulf Petroleum Company's deep test hole KCL 8-B on Sec. 22, 29-27, in the Fruitvale district has been plugged back to 4093 feet and a test of the upper sands attempted.

Bottom of the hole is at 7725 feet with ten-inch casing set at 3683 feet. Nothing of interest was found below the 7000-foot level and the crew is plugging back in an attempt to develop production which was shut off at the upper sands, it is believed.

DRILLING AHEAD

Wildcat of Ohio Oil Down 4300 Feet in Gray Sand

TAFT, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—With the bit more than 400 feet deeper than this time last week, the Ohio Oil Company is still drilling ahead in the gray sand in its Pyramid No. 1, on Sec. 20, 32-25, in the Buena Vista Lake territory.

Present bottom is nearly 4300 feet. The hole is a wildcat, the nearest producer being two miles east. The casing is set at 1701 feet.

OLD YUMA MINE IN NEW CONTROL

Vanadium Refining Plans for Large Development

New Mill Part of Extensive Operating Program

New York and Chicago Men Principal Backers

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—As a first step in what is announced as a $500,000 program of mine development and mill construction, the Vanadium Refining Company, recently organized here, has taken over the old Yuma mine, fifteen miles west of Tucson.

A 200-ton mill is to be erected there at once, according to the officers, and will be in operation by January 1. This will be followed by a 500-ton mill at another property in the Table Mountain region of Pinal county, and a third at some point not yet designated.

New York and Chicago capitalists are principals in the Vanadium Refining Company, which is formed with 500,000 shares of no-par value. J. Benjamin Ott, vice-president of the American Bentonite Corporation, Chicago, is president; L. H. Wolvin, president of the Superior Shipping Company, Chicago, chairman of the board; C. B. Cochran, secretary-treasurer. R. A. Black, Tucson, holds the office of vice-president and chief metallurgist.

The company has taken over a process invented and patented by Black for extracting vanadium and molybdenum from associated metals. He states that the ore is crushed and concentrated in the ordinary way; then his process is applied and the vanadium is handled as commercially pure vanadic acid.

Mr. Black points out that there are almost unlimited quantities of vanadium and molybdenum in Arizona, but that a satisfactory method of extraction has never before been developed. Usually the ores are rather complex. He is an Australian by birth and was associated with Herbert Hoover in the development of the Kalgoorlie mines.

PROGRESS ON TUNNEL REPORTED

Seven Troughs Project Said to be in Promising Ledge of Shipping Ore

RENO (Nev.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive) The tunnel at the mines of the Seven Troughs Gold Company, near Lovelock, has entered ore approximately 7300 feet from daylight. A ledge three to four feet wide is said to show in the footwall section of the Coalition ore-channel, with values running into shipping grade.

The tunnel is being driven ahead with a full crew to tap the main ore body. South of the 5100-foot point in the lateral a strong ore body has been developed for several hundred feet. Excavation for the 100-ton mill is nearing completion, and actual construction is scheduled to start early this month.

Reports reaching Reno state that Thomas F. Cole and associates have practically completed arrangements to acquire control of the Ramsey-Comstock mine in the Ramsey field, near Virginia City. The property has been undergoing development for the last three years and is credited with containing a large reserve of profitable gold-silver ore. Rich ore is reported to be showing in new workings on the 700-foot level. Mr. Cole and associates are developing the Ramsey Holding group, and they control the Ramsey Extension and other promising properties.

Rich Copper Ore Strike Reported in Eagle Estate

CLIFTON (Ariz.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Ore that assays from 5 to 20 per cent copper has been struck at a depth of seventy feet on the property of the Eagle Gold and Copper Company, just west of Morenci. The size of the ore body can not yet be determined, but it seems to be a large one, according to reports.

J. M. Savage, who is in charge of development for a syndicate that has a lease and bond on the Eagle group, is erecting a hoist over the shaft with the intention of sinking to greater depth and cross-cutting the ore.

The Eagle was a producer of good ore during the war, but prior to last March was shut down. Now it is expected to enter the productive list again. Adjoining the Eagle is the Dover group, from which regular shipments are being made to the El Paso smelter.

BIG OIL DERRICK RISES FROM OCEAN

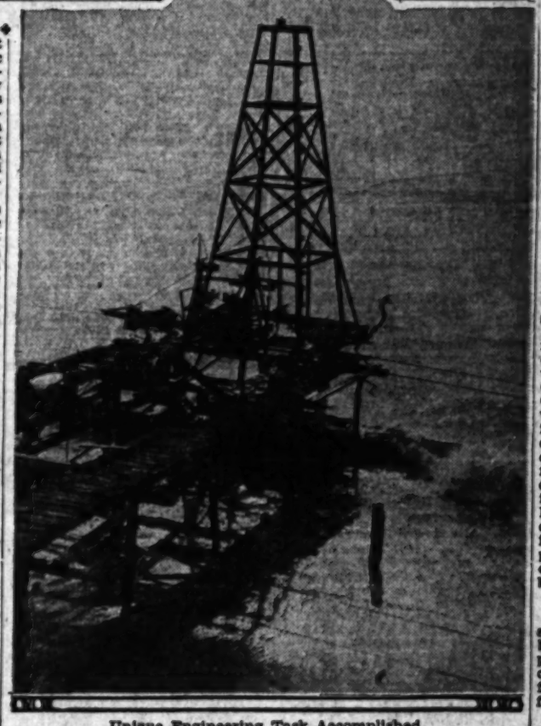
FAULDING PHOTO

THE first steel derrick, 122 feet high, ever built in the Pacific Ocean for the purpose of drilling an oil well, was completed a few days ago by the Robinson-Roberts Company of Los Angeles for the Elwood Exploration Company, which now is drilling its tideland permit No. 90 at a point below mean high tide, offshore from the Elwood oil field, on a State tideland oil prospecting permit.

This gigantic engineering task is strongly in contrast with the "dinky" derricks used at Summerland to drill the shallow wells in the ocean, for the Elwood well is expected to go down at least 4000 feet for oil, and it may go as much as 5500 feet before completing its exploratory work. It is searching for the main oil structure at the edge of the ocean, and if it finds substantial production a series of wells 400 feet apart will be extended out to sea and drilled from a recently constructed pier.

The foundation for the big steel derrick consists of four circular steel sheet piling caissons filled with concrete, with a central caisson containing a section of oil-well surface casing. An unusual feature of this engineering job was the fact that it was all done from the ocean side, because no road reached the shoreline at that point and other operating companies would not permit the Elwood Exploration Company to haul materials across their leases.

A small fleet was assembled to convey the necessary materials to a temporary wharf. Two small steamers were used. The workmen carried on until the incoming tide drove them to the boats, but some work was accomplished twenty-four hours a day while the job was under way. Several other operating companies are planning to build substantial piers upon their tideland permits near by, and erect heavy derricks upon them.



Unique Engineering Task Accomplished

Oil Lease on Large Area to Expire Shortly

AUSTIN (Tex.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Before the end of the present year, oil and gas leases on approximately 500,000 acres owned by the University of Texas in the western part of the State, will expire. Part of this land is situated in or adjacent to proved oil fields in Reagan, Crane and Pecos counties and it is expected that there will be much activity on the part of bidders when the lands go on the market.

The Legislature has placed the leasing of such lands under the jurisdiction of two members of the Board of Regents of the university in conjunction with the State Land Commissioner. This board has authority to reject any and all bids. Practically all of the 2,094,000 acres of land which the university owns are now under lease for oil and gas development.

NEW MINE VENTURE IN ARIZONA FIELD

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—The Coronado Gold Mine Company has been organized by C. E. McCool and C. E. Orem, veteran miners of this section, to operate a group of promising quartz claims eight miles south of Oracle. They have been developing the property for some time and declare they have enough ore developed to warrant the installation of a mill.

SOUTHLAND MINING TO FORE

Newly Organized Industry Gives Southern Counties Recognition in View of Possibilities

Restoration of California's mining industry to something of its former glory is promised as a result of the organization last week of the Mining Association of California, according to Robert L. Hanley, well-known Los Angeles attorney, who was elected temporary president of the association. Hanley returned to this city yesterday from Sacramento where the new organization formally was launched.

The mining association is to be incorporated as a nonprofit body under State laws with prominent mining men from each section as incorporators. It is said to be the first State-wide association of its kind in the West and is intended to encourage and protect the mining industry in much the same way as other great industries of the State now are protected.

Southern California is no less interested than are Northern and Central California in the new movement, Hanley said yesterday, pointing out that there are great mineral resources in Southern California that lack only organized effort for profitable development. That this is recognized in other parts of the State was shown, he said, by the designation of the thirteen southern counties as one of the four geographical districts of the new association and the election of two Los Angeles men and a San Diego man to the board of directors.

"Mining has played an important part in the upbuilding of California," Hanley said. "It is, in fact, one of our basic industries, but through lack of organization it has become decadent. Of late there has been a noticeable revival of the industry and this applies to Southern California as well as to the Mother Lode country.

"It is the intention of our association to give every encouragement to the mining industry as a whole; to combat any attempted restrictive legislation, and to improve mining conditions generally. This should result in an extensive rehabilitation of the mining business, providing increased employment in California and adding to the wealth of the State, which first was made famous by its wonderful mines of gold."

Mr. Hanley, the association's temporary president, was connected for a number of years with the City Attorney's office in Los Angeles and is lessee of hydraulic interests in Sierra county.

ENGINEER "BORROWED"

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—W. F. Webb, engineer in charge of concrete construction on the Hetch Hetchy project, who was "loaned" to the commonwealth of Australia four years ago for aqueduct work, will assist the Boston Water Supply Commission in a similar project. He has been given a year's leave of absence.

WILD PROJECT IN SPOTLIGHT

Elliott Well at Kettleman Still Untamed

Efforts to Check Activity Being Watched

Continental Rushes Tunnel to Make Cut-off

Attention of oil operators throughout Southern California is apparently centered upon the Continental Oil Company's Elliott No. 12-8 on Sec. 12, 22-17, north dome at Kettleman Hills. This well blew in ten days ago from a depth of 6875 feet.

Yielding approximately 3500 barrels of high gravity oil per day along with about 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas, this project may run wild until completion of a 100-foot tunnel now being bored about fifty feet underground by crews working three shifts a day in an endeavor to tap the casing to draw off a portion of the output.

It is believed by some that Continental's first producer in that area, which is a direct offset to Millham Exploration Company's Elliott No. 1 discovery well, may have tapped the pool in which the latter was completed. It is thought by operators that the drill may have drifted at least 1100 feet diagonally and to have penetrated the same oil-bearing formation from which Elliott No. 1 is producing.

YIELD HOLDS UP

Millham's discovery well, which was completed in October, 1928, when it suddenly blew in because of the tremendous gas pressure, has been yielding regularly from 2400 to 3000 barrels of oil per day from a depth of 7108 feet. Recently, however, the output of oil has declined to approximately 2900 barrels of oil per day, although slight difference is noted in the flow of gas.

The general situation at Kettleman Hills is not expected to show decided change before another two weeks at least, it is thought. The General Petroleum Corporation's Ochsner No. 2 on Sec. 26, which was tied up many weeks while fishing for three-inch drill pipe, successfully sidetracked past 110 feet of the fish and has drilled to 7154 feet. It now is milling ahead in oil sand with showings of gas, it is asserted. With the exception of Millham's discovery well, this undertaking is the deepest ever drilled in that area. It will not be completed because of an agreement to cap it just bfore it is actually brought in.

DRILLING AHEAD

The Shell Oil Company's Armstrong No. 1 on Sec. 8, 22-18, which blew in several months ago and put out 150 barrels of high-gravity oil per day from a depth of 6753 feet, is drilling ahead below 7063 feet.

The Standard Oil Company has seven projects below 6000 feet. The No. 81 on Sec. 11, 22-17, is yielding 1300 barrels of oil per day from a depth of 6873 feet along with 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas. It is a direct offset to Millham's discovery well.

The Petroleum Securities Company's Felix No. 1, Sec. 33, 21-17, is drilling below 6600 feet and Ladd No. 1 and Robinson No. 1 are both below 6000 feet.

Preparations are being made to set casing in the Pacific Western Oil Company's No. 27 on Sec. 34, 21-17, with bottom of the hole at 6448 feet.

The Ohio Oil Company's Smith No. 1 on Sec. 35, 24-19, is the most recent project and the only active one on the south dome to pick up oil sand. It is drilling ahead below 6980 feet.

DEEP WELL SPURS ACTIVITY

BIG LAKE (Tex.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Encouraged by the slow but steady increase of production of the 8252-foot well in the Big Lake field of Reagan county, both the Texon Oil and Land Company, owner of the well, and the Big Lake Oil Company are going after the deep sand on a large scale.

The Big Lake Oil Company has four tests drilling and all of them should reach the 8252-foot level in the next few weeks. One of these was drilling at 8196 feet in lime at the end of August; another had reached 5472 feet in lime; another was at 4748 feet in lime, and the fourth was drilling at 3714 feet in lime.

All these wells are on the same block of land, owned by the University of Texas, upon which the deep producing well is situated. Its total production since completion December 1, 1928, with an initial flow of forty barrels in twenty-four hours, was 504,921 barrels up to September 1.

The cost of drilling the first deep test was more than $200,000, but included in this sum was the expense of replacing a derrick which was burned. The cost of each of the four wells now drilling is expected to be approximately $175,000 if the depth of 8525 feet is reached. The fact that the oil from the deep zone is 53 deg. gravity makes it more valuable than oil from the shallow stratum in the same field.

ARIZONA COPPER MINES THRIVING

Estimate for Output in 1929 800,000,000 Pounds

Total Market Value Fixed at Near $140,000,000

About 19,000 Men on Pay Roll of Industry Now

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Eight hundred million pounds of copper! This will be Arizona's production for 1929, according to an estimate which William B. Goehring, secretary of the Arizona chapter of the American Mining Congress, has made after a careful survey.

The peace-time copper record that Arizona set in 1928 was 720,500,000 pounds. It is certain to be passed, says Mr. Goehring, who asserts that 19,000 men are employed in the producing mines and smelters of Arizona, as against 14,300 at this time last year.

According to the Arizona Industrial Congress, which co-operated with Mr. Goehring in the survey, 800,000,000 pounds of copper will represent a value of $140,000,000, provided there is no break in the price of the red metal between now and January 1.

Wage schedules are about 15 per cent higher than in 1928. The pay rolls of the productive mines and smelters are in the neighborhood of $7,000,000 a month.

Nonproductive mines in the prospect stage are employing 2600 men and paying them about $375,000 a month.

It is not indicated that Arizona will produce any more gold and silver than in 1928, and its lead output will be less. Figures for that year were: Gold, $2,930,000; silver, $4,062,000; lead, $901,000.

Big Butte Gold August Output Fixed at $5000

RANDSBURG, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Still holding its reputation as a good second to the Yellow Aster mine, on a leasing basis, the Big Butte of Randsburg, continues to make a gold brick shipment every two months. The August clean-up for L. L. Cooke, Ben Grusecion, Frederick Grundy and Bert Wegman, lessees, will go well up toward $5000, it is reported.

As the Big Butte lease calls for an agreement for the lessers to keep their advancement and prospecting well in with the old workings and laterals, in accordance with advanced mining, there must be a lot of dead work before any new values are brought in. At present the quartet has been working from the 300-foot level, in an endeavor to locate new ore. A winze was made in a drift on this level that resulted in their judgment holding good. Further exploitation resulted in the crew stoping into good grade of free-milling ore.

Six Wildcats Under Way in Belridge Area

BELRIDGE, Sept. 8. (Exclusive) Six different operators are drilling as many wildcat holes in the Belridge area. The Calkern Oil Company's No. 1 hole on Sec. 18, 28-22, is marking time with a location recorded; the Cymric No. 9, Sec. 36, 29-21, is down 3175 feet, standing with a plug at 1400 feet, and the casing at 1270 feet; the Elkhorn Oil Company's No. 1 on Sec. 20, 28-29, is drilling ahead in brown shale at 1240 feet.

The Osena Oil Company is down 1260 feet in its No. 2 hole on Sec. 27, 29-21, with the casing set at 650 feet. The hole is in the brown shale. The Ventura-Pacific has its No. 1 on Sec. 18, 29-22, down 3375 feet and is in the brown shale area with the casing set at 3115 feet.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on gold and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not advertise the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Seven Samples

WHITTIER, Aug. 22.—Question: It took me about half an hour to gather these specimens from Northeastern Nevada. I'll bet it takes you longer than that to determine their contents!

Geologists say that this region of Nevada was once a lake bed, was then covered by lava, then cut through by river, hence "rim rock" of lava. These specimens appear to be a reprecipitation in the mud of the lake. Nos. 1 and 2 are, I think, iron oxides. Nos. 3 and 4 are perhaps silver bromide, No. 5 is manganese dioxide, I believe, while Nos. 6 and 7 have me guessing; might be copper or nickel stain? No. 8 is some of the same as Nos. 3 and 4 with specks of green in it.

I wonder how close I've hit your analyses? I'm going to college and have been interested in minerals since I went to kindergarten—not very long though, is it? Well, good luck to you, and thank you for your splendid report of a couple of months ago on the rocks from back of Glendale. Remember? Copper and lead. X.

Answer: No. 1 is silica—hematite present. No. 2, red jasper-iron ore. Cinnabar absent from both specimens. No. 3 is a volcanic mud mixture giving slight reactions for sodium, magnesium, and sulphur anhydride. No. 4 is impure glauconite. No. 5, the dark matter, is limonite and the red is hematite—some glauconite present. No. 6 is probably rhyolitic rock with more or less glauconite. No. 7 is a greenish volcanic rock of fine texture. The manganese ore was found with No. 5 and is probably braunite. Kind words are always appreciated. May you win your diploma in the near fufure and then get down to the hard, grin-grad facts of this beautiful world.

Probably Tremolite

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Q.: Whilst prospecting near Tecopa I come across a big ledge of this white stuff—which looks to me like soapstone. Please analyse and classify the sample and oblige. S.

A.: The sample is altered. It is probably tremolite, (hornblende) and it carries a high percentage of calcite, (lime carbonate.) Commercial values problematical.

Tungsten Absent

PASADENA, Aug. 23.—Q.: Under separate cover please find five samples of ore found in the vicinity of Bakersfield. I would appreciate very much your assaying the samples and determining the per cent of tungsten found therein. R.

A.: Sample No. 1 is quartzite carrying coatings of iron oxides. No. 2 is low-grade ferruginous quartz. No. 3 is a mixture of sandstone, garnet and gneiss, (soft granite of the mining boys in the hills.) No. 4 is of quarts and limonite, and No. 5 is ferruginous quarts.

Six Specimens

GLOBE (Ariz.) Aug. 24.—Q.: Am sending you six samples for determination which come from a district south of Globe. What is the yellow mineral in the microscopical cavity of No. 1? No. 2 is from streaks of clay on hanging-wall side, and what is gangue matter attached? No. 3 looks like Mn. What are the white crystals? Does No. 5 contain barium? No. 6, besides iron, what? In appreciation will say, that The Times and the prospector are both to be congratulated on having the services of so skilful a department as In the Earth. X.

A.: Thank you! The lemon-yellow matter in No. 1 is too small for satisfactory tests. In the field of a high-power microscope it appears to be pseudomorph material after pyrite, and wet tests indicates a trace of gold. No. 2—gangue matter—is Ankerite, containing a little blende, (zinc sulphide) and copper absent. No. 3 is of chalcopyrite, galenite and pyrite. The white—not crystallized—is chalcedony. No. 5, baryte absent; lime carbonate, ankerite, traces of lead, (not analyzed for zinc) and iron present. No 6 is magnetite.

Nickel Absent

NEEDLES, Aug. 25.—Q.: Will you classify the sample and test it for nickel. It comes from section thirty miles south of Needles. H.

A.: The sample is glauconitic sandstone.

Tungsten Absent

BARSTOW, Aug. 25.—Q.: Inclosed find sample from forty-five miles southeast of Barstow. I think it belongs to the tungsten group. Oblige. H.

A.: The samples are low-grade baryte, (heavy spar,) containing iron and dendritic manganese. One of the samples carried traces of celestite, (strontium sulphate.)

Tremolite

GLENDALE, Aug. 26.—Q.: I am sending sample of ore from Western Idaho. Please let me know what minerals it contains, and if any of value worth having an assay. X.

A.: The rock is partly granitic with some blackish hornblende. Pyrite and arsenopyrite present, and limonitic stained. Flake platinum absent and cannot advise you further.

Sulphide Ores

SCOTT BAR, Aug. 26.—Q.: Some time ago sent a sample of ore for qualitative analysis. Come to think of it—did not send letter with same. Kindly give the matter attention. H.

A.: The samples are mixtures of quartz, calcite, and magnesium silicate containing pyrite chiefly. Galenite found in traces only. "Peacock iron" traces and the pyrite is probably auriferous, (gold bearing.)

Not Scheelite

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Q.: Inclosed please find a sample of rock which I wish you would test to ascertain approximately what mineral it contains—if any. Does it represent any commercial value? I judge it to be baryte or possibly a lead ore, with a chance of being scheelite. It was found about forty miles southerly of this city. F.

A.: The sample carries baryte and some limonite. It might be useful for low-grade paint mixtures.

"Bird's-Eye Porphyry"

INGLEWOOD, Aug. 27. — Q.: The inclosed samples are from San Bernardino county and I would like to know what the rock is? Does it carry any metals of value? M. B. D.

A.: The black stains in the rock are of limonite, (hydrous iron peroxide.) Values of such rock are problematical.

Olivine

CASTAIC, Aug. 28.—Q.: What mineral, if any, does this specimen contain, and what is it? It comes from Elizabeth Canyon, six miles northeast of Radium Hot Springs. Thanking you kindly for past favors. K.

A.: The sample is in imbedded grain form, of vitreous luster, and looks like green bottle glass. It is an iron silicate and the gemstone peridot, should occur in such formation.

Three Samples

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 29.—Q.: Please analyse inclosed samples Nos. 1, 2 and 3, of which No. 1 seems to be of fair quality Nevada silver ore. You will notice that they come from the Red Hill district (Silver Peak, Nev.) My water hole went dry and I had to hurry away—the first time in twenty-five years. The roads are something fierce. L.

A.: Sample No. 1 is garnetyte (garnet rock) and it carries traces of stephanite, (silver mulm.) No. 2 is a variety of iron silicate. No. 3 seems to be gouge matter somewhat on the order of Red Mountain altered rhyolite with traces of alum. It also contains a low percentage of available (water soluble) potash.

Pacific Western Drills Ahead on Poso Creek Hole

POSO CREEK, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—The Pacific Western Oil Company's activities in the Poso Creek field are forging ahead steadily with its Rench No. 4 on Sec. 22, 27-28, down 1653 feet in the sandy shale and drilling ahead. The depth represents a gain of more than 600 feet of hole in six drilling days.

The King No. 3 is still inactive at 1583 feet. The casing has been perforated for eighty-eight feet. Final plans for bringing the well in have not been completed.

Rig has been erected for King No. 4 and the crew is installing a rotary outfit. Rig is being built for Rench No. 9, and Rench No. 6 site is being graded for foundation work.

Strike of Lost Turquoise Vein Believed Made

TONOPAH (Nev.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—The Sewell-Keller lease on the Miller turquoise deposit at Royston, north of Tonopah, reports that the Tiffany vein has been found after a search extending over sixteen years. The ground forms part of the holdings of the Hudson Mining Company.

The lessers state they have exposed the royal blue matrix, which commands a price of $50 per pound, and that arrangements have been made to ship the first forty pounds to Berlin, Germany. The Miller turquoise is said to be among the finest ever mined in America, and equal in beauty and quality to gems imported from Persia.

MINE GROUP ACTIVE

Nevada Standard Busy Opening Up Cherry Creek Estates

ELY (Nev.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—The Nevada Standard Mining Corporation is working the Exchequer, Imperial, Star and other properties in the Cherry Creek district, near Ely, with about ninety men.

The old cyanide plant is being changed into a flotation mill, new equipment installed and arrangements made for steady production. The first unit, with a daily capacity of fifty tons, is scheduled to go into commission in thirty days. More units are to be installed as ore developments warrant. The mines were famous producers in the early years of the State.

WORKERS FORM CLUB

Copper Queen Smelter Men Plan Ore Treatment Body

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Employees of the Copper Queen smelter here have voluntarily formed a club for the purpose of studying the treatment of copper ores and the extraction thereof from mines.

Nearly fifty have joined. They meet every second Wednesday evening, hear lectures by metallurgists and other experts and discuss various phases of smelting. It is believed that ideas can be developed which will cut the cost of producing the red metal.

ANGELENO COMPANY TAKES MINE OPTION

The Banner Development Company of Los Angeles has taken an option on the Palisade silver-gold mine near Calistoga and started vigorous mining. The property is said to contain important ore bodies and is reported to be the only precious metal enterprise in Napa county.

MERGER BRINGS OIL PROMOTION

Continental Honors Former Marland Man

R. E. Collom Selected for State Manager

Appointment to Post Viewed as Logical Step

The recent merging of the Marland Oil Company of California with the Continental Oil Company of Denver, under the banner of the latter, has brought forth the announcement that Roy E. Collom, who had been with the Marland organization in Los Angeles for several years and was previously State Oil and Gas Supervisor in California, is to be general manager of the California division of Continental.

Selection of Mr. Collom was no surprise to many persons in the oil industry, as he had been associated with the Marland group in this State as vice-president and was regarded as the logical man to take over the new duties brought about by the merging of the two companies.

Consolidation of the two organizations has been discussed for some months. The Marland Oil Company, in so far as the merger is concerned, has lost its identity. The new set-up will be known as the Continental Oil Company.

Many changes are to take place because of the merger. Among the changes so far announced is that Olen Lane will be superintendent of land and scouting, and H. G. Thomson will be in charge of the auditing and personnel departments. A. H. Bell has been selected as production engineer and R. M. Barnes will be in charge of geology and research.

The Continental Oil Company's production in the State runs close to 25,000 barrels of oil per day. The principal producing properties are at Seal Beach, Signal Hill, Richfield and Kettleman Hills.

New Gold King Ore Discovery Holding Values

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—A drift has now been run in fifty feet on the ore shoot recently uncovered at the Gold King Mine, in the Maynard district. The ore continues to assay from $20 to $70 a ton in silver and lead.

Machinery is being installed at the collar of the main shaft, which is 210 feet deep. The shaft will not be deepened immediately, but the Comet vein will be further explored on the lower level. Ore carrying as much as seven ounces of gold to the ton has been exposed in this vein and it is believed that the average will prove to be of high milling grade.

DEEPENING SHAFT

Sugarman Company Starts Work on Sonora Mine Project

Sugarman Mines, Inc., reports that it now is sinking the main shaft an additional 100 feet at the property in Sonora, Tuolumne county. The shaft is down 250 feet and the ore uncovered justifies further development, it is asserted.

To date there have been over 1400 feet of tunnels, shoots and raises developed. Two shifts are now working and operations are to be carried on through the winter.

MINE LAYS PLANS FOR EXPANSION

California Mother Lode Increases Capital as Preliminary Step

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—The California Mother Lode Mining Company has raised its capitalization from $250,000 to $500,000, and announced plans for more comprehensive operations. The company owns gold claims near Placerville and in the Rock Springs and Sonora areas.

President J. E. Miller states that the group near Placerville shows two strong veins in the main tunnel, with high-grade ore exposed, and that installation of electrical equipment is proceeding. The management contemplates construction of a mill.

The Yellow Jacket Company, working claims adjacent to the Sixteen-to-One and other noted gold producers at Alleghany, is operating the mill with one shift on ore from No. 2 shoot. The main drift is in 1500 feet from the Yellow Jacket workings and is designed to open promising ore bodies in the Osceola claim. The group is among the largest in the district and is equipped with electrical machinery.

The old Allison Ranch mine below Grass Valley, a phenomenal producer in the early years of the district, is reported to have passed under control of the Ford-Allison Mining Company, said to be backed by British capital. The property is credited with a yield of $10,000,000, and has been opened to an incline depth of 1100 feet.

With 100 men on the pay roll the Engels Copper Company is rushing development of the Calaveras Copper group, at Copperopolis. The Discovery and North Keystone shafts are being deepened, preliminary to a drive for ore below the main workings. Production at the rate of 200 tons daily is scheduled to start this month.

Richfield Quits Redding Project at Buttonwillow

BUTTONWILLOW, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Final abandoning of activities on the Richfield Oil Company's Redding No. 1 hole on Sec. 36, 27-23, is the information contained in reports received here today. According to the information, the hole failed to develop production when the crew made a gas and oil test between 6100 and 6400 feet last week and drilling will cease.

The hole was down 7618 feet as a deep test. The tubing was pulled and the hole plugged to 7100 feet with the casing perforated for 300 feet.

Operations are still suspended in the Doheny-Stone Drilling Company's Salisbury No. 1 on Sec. 7, 29-24, in the Buttonwillow district. Hole was stopped at 4750 feet. Casing was lowered to 4513 feet before operations were suspended.

MEXICO CITY TO GET HUGE PARK

Recreation Center Primarily for Working Men

Dedication Set on Day of Revolt Fete

Accommodations Provided for 5000 People

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—The city is erecting primarily for the working man a recreation center which, it is believed here, will be the largest of its kind in the world.

This community center will be officially dedicated November 20, the twenty-first anniversary of the Mexican revolution against Porfirio Diaz. The center will be so large that 5000 people can be accommodated at a time. It covers thirty-seven acres and is being constructed at a total expenditure by the government of 1,500,000 pesos, or approximately $650,000.

ATTRACTIONS FREE

The park will contain athletic fields, swimming pools, modern gymnasiums, playgrounds for children, a public library, a movie theater, an open-air theater, a nursery for the children of working mothers, and dining quarters. No fees will be charged except for the use of the swimming pools and for refreshments which will be served in the dining quarters at co-operative prices.

The library, which will contain many Mexican and foreign books, magazines and newspapers, will be open day and night and an experienced librarian will be in charge. Special reading hours for children will be provided.

Additional playgrounds and gardens for small children are being provided in the center. Working mothers may leave their children during working hours, and may also receive advice on the upbringing of their children.

Centers for sports of many kinds are to be provided. There will be, besides the swimming pools, fronton courts, tennis courts, baseball diamonds, football fields, volley-ball courts, handball courts, basketball courts, soccer fields and gymnasium apparatus for personal exercise.

NATIVE FILMS TO BE SEEN

In the movie theater educational and instructive films will be shown, a majority of which will be native films. In the open-air theater, where amateur and professional companies will present dramas and concerts, Mexican products will be given preference. Lectures on subjects of national interest and of personal import will be provided at frequent intervals. Concerts will be held at intervals.

In the hurry of constructing the park ground for which was broken today, beauty is not being sacrificed. Palm, ash, eucalyptus, cypress and other trees will line the streets of "tepetate," or red volcanic rock in the park. A huge ornamental fountain will greet the visitor at the entrance. A profusion of colored flowers and shrubbery is being planted throughout the field. Several palms have not been disturbed in the construction of the buildings.

The construction of this huge recreation center engineering difficulties were encountered, as the site, which is in Balbuena, a suburb in the southeast end of Mexico City, is a marsh during the rainy season. Drainage channels had to be constructed, and an artificial subsoil of adobe had to be provided. Crushed rock was laid down, and on top of this lawn and vegetable earth. Sod was laid on the surface.

Mexico's Budget Lower This Year

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8. (AP)—Total appropriations of 280,000,000 pesos (about $135,880,000,) which is 15,000,000 pesos less than in the current year, was recommended today in the government budget commission for 1930.

Education in Industry Held Need in Alaska

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—The central purpose of education for the Alaskan native, Dr. William Johnson Cooper, commissioner of education, reports to the Department of the Interior upon his return from a trip of inspection to the big territory of the Northwest, should be his development into industrial competence. Alaska, he says, is in need of workers. Every year, for example, Filipinos and orientals are introduced for work in the fish canneries. Yet the efficiency of the natives in this sort of work is well demonstrated. At Klawock there are two canneries that are owned by Alaskan Indians all of the employees in which are Indians. The job is to tie up the native with the developing industries of Alaska.

Health and sanitation, Dr. Cooper believes, should be emphasized in the Alaska schools. A particular type of teacher who is half nurse should be secured for the service there. There is a good deal of tuberculosis which, it would seem, is largely brought on by the manner of life of the natives. Where twelve people live in one illy ventilated room tuberculosis is likely to develop and when one individual gets it there is a strong probability of its transmission to others.

MORE SHIPS FOR ORIENT TRADE

Several Companies in Rush to Enter Service

Total of Forty Vessels Soon Added to Lanes

Harbor Vehicular Ferryboat Will be Improved

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

The oft-heralded new trade era between the Pacific Coast and the Orient at last appears to be getting under way from the sudden rush of steamship companies into the trans-Pacific range.

No less than half a dozen such new services are starting or will become effective this autumn, employing a total of forty ships and touching regularly at Los Angeles for both fuel and freight.

The activity rivals that remarkable period just closed in which foreign lines placed no less than thirty new motorships in the European run to the Pacific Coast, and shipping men envision ever brighter prospects for the trans-Pacific movement.

Incidentally American services are participating in this new oriental conquest. Matson Navigation Company inaugurated the direct run to Manila a month ago. Dollar Steamship Company put on a special California-to-Manila passenger and freight service a week ago.

Foreign-flag competitors recently bursting into this trade are the Ibrandtsen-Moller Company, a Norwegian concern whose ships call from New York every two weeks bound for the Orient; the British-owned Blue Funnel Line; and the Barber Line, with British Castle-line and Norwegian ships, whose Tai Ping just reached Manila on its inaugural voyage twenty days out of Los Angeles. Added soon will be the Norwegian-owned fleet of fast Klaveness motor ships to be represented by McCormick Steamship Company. One such ship already has sailed from here, but the regular schedule yet is to be worked out.

Already firmly in this trade are the Dollar Line, Oceanic & Oriental Navigation Company; British-owned Kerr Line, the Dutch-owned Java Pacific Line and several Japanese services, including Mitsui, O.S.K. and N.Y.K.

Trade is increasing correspondingly, the item of rubber alone into Los Angeles rising from 3,750,000 pounds in July, 1928, to 10,500,000 pounds in July this year. Indications are that Los Angeles will be receiving several times this amount of the flexible product in the immediate future, possibly for ultimate transshipment.

In the face of an imminent decision by the Harbor Department in favor of an adquate municipal ferry between San Pedro and Terminal Island, Gerbutt and Walsh this week will begin installing a new engine in its T-P vehicular ferry, making it a double-ender, to quicken the service.

Installation will be made at night when the craft is not operating, and during the daytime for perhaps a week, the ferry will be towed between the two terminals.

The service is represented now to give a round trip every twenty minutes, which will be quickened perceptibly by the double-end operation which will eliminate the craft's need of turning around at one terminus.

Twenty years ago, when Los Angeles absorbed San Pedro, the latter was promised an adequate ferry system. It still is promised.

Pacific Steamship Company has bought the former Transmarine intercoastal freighter Sutransco for the coastwise trade, to replace the motorship Boobyalla, burned recently in the Puget Sound. The craft will be dry docked at Seattle fore entering the service between California, Puget Sound and British Columbia. She will be renamed the Admiral Chase, the first name identifying all vessels of the Admiral Line.

Staatsminister von Hentig of Germany and Frau von Hentig are due at Los Angeles on the Hamburg American motor liner Seattle the 11th inst., according to meager advices to William Montague, local manager of the steamship company. Except that they will visit their son who is Consul-General for Germany, in San Francisco, no word has been received about the distinguished politician's plans. The liner has forty passengers and several thousand tons of European freight and Panama bananas.

Juan E. Suarez of Monterey, Mexico, recently attached to the Mexican Fish and Game Commission offices at San Pedro, has been placed in charge of the offices, it was announced yesterday. J. A. Robles, who has held that post, will be transferred to Mexicali, following his return from Mazatlan in company with J. L. Sepulveda, chief of the commission, stationed at San Diego.

CHAMBER TO DISCUSS FORESTRY

Prosperity of West Held Dependent on Care of Timbered Areas

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Shall the West continue to prosper or be checked in its advance to a center of world importance by the denuding of the forestry lands? This is one question of great importance which the delegates to the western divisional meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Ogden, Utah, September 30 and October 1 will consider.

Walter Mulford, professor of forestry, University of California, who has said that the West shall rise or fall according to our management of our forested lands, will lead the discussion on this topic. Leaders of forestry thought, from every one of the eleven western States, as well as national authorities from Washington, D. C., will lend their thought to bringing about a plan to insure a preservation with intelligent utilization of western timber areas.

In making this announcement, Paul Shoup, western vice-president of the national chamber, further states that the subject of Mexican immigration is also scheduled for thorough discussion to clarify all phases of the question. "The national chamber," says Shoup, "considers this topic of such importance that it has directed its immigration committee to make an exhaustive study of the subject, and members of this committee from all parts of the United States will be in attendance at Ogden to find out what the West thinks about the matter."

Frederick J. Koster, vice-president of the California State Chamber of Commerce, will present the topic of western industrial development. Koster, it is said, will stress the matter of western unity and will bring out the potentialities of the opening up of foreign trade with particular reference to the Orient and South America, if a true spirit of unity and co-operation can be engendered among all groups of business men of the western empire.

Reclamation, of vital interest to every State of this western group, will also be a subject upon which national leaders will discuss at the Ogden conference.

Cherry Blossom Fete to be Held in Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—Plans for a national cherry blossom fete here next spring are being made by the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

The beauty of the Japanese cherry trees along the Potomac River when they burst into billows of pink blossoms in April or May is known from coast to coast.

The Washington chamber believes an elaborate annual festival with music, pageants and other appropriate exercises should be held. Gen. Anton Stephan, chairman of the committee to formulate plans, has outlined a tentative program.

They are expected to be ready for delivery October 31, 1930.

SHIP TELEPHONE WILL BE TESTED

Radio Hookup With Wires on Land Planned

Passengers May Talk With Friends Ashore

Technical Experts to Watch Novel Experiment

BY MARTIN CODEL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—American delegates now en route to the international technical radio conference to be held at The Hague will participate next week in tests of the steamship Leviathan's ship-to-shore telephone. Through a radio hook-up with the land telephone system they will be able to speak from ordinary telephones installed on the ship with their families and friends anywhere in the United States.

The reservation of wave lengths for ship-to-shore telephony, experiments with which were begun only recently by the Bell laboratories, is one of the problems that may come before The Hague conference. The tests on the Leviathan are pioneering this phase of communication, and applications have already been made to the Federal authorities for sufficient number of frequencies to provide for the future of this service.

CODE WIRELESS NOW USED

Practically all maritime communication is now done by code wireless. The adaptation of radio-telephony to ship uses is regarded as wholly practicable, but each telephone conversation requires at least ten times the number of radio channels that the code occupies. The problem The Hague delegates may be called upon to solve is whether this service warrants setting aside for it an appreciable proportion of the part of the radio spectrum known as the mobile band.

Three military men are leading the group of governmental and commercial radio experts, who sailed on the Leviathan at midnight, for the conference of what is formally known as the international technical consulting committee on radio communication. President Hoover appointed Maj.-Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, retired chief of the Army Signal Corps and now a member of the Federal Radio Commission, as chairman of the delegation.

OFFICIAL DELEGATES

Two other official delegates and five technical assistants were appointed by the President. The official delegates are Maj.-Gen. George S. Gibbs, chief of the Army Signal Corps, and Capt. E. C. Hooper, director of naval communications. The technicians are Dr. J. H. Dellinger, radio chief, Bureau of Standards; Dr. J. C. Jolliffe, radio engineer, Bureau of Standards; Lieutenant Commander T. A. M. Craven, naval expert; Gerald C. Gross, radio engineer of the Federal Radio Commission, and K. B. Warner, secretary of the American Radio Relay League.

In addition, about ten representatives of the leading American communications companies have been named by their companies to participate in the parley. Under the rules, private interests may also be represented.

The most important problem coming before the conference will be the question of frequency toierances, or the width of radio channels. Advances in the radio art have made it possible to narrow channels of communication to considerably less width than they formerly occupied, thus making more channels available. Standard practices must be determined and the use of the most modern equipment must be adopted among the nations of the world to make practicable this economy of wave lengths.

STATUS OF AMATEURS

Another problem coming before the conference—and one that led to the appointment of Mr. Warner as the representative of the amateurs—is the status of world amateurs. The Dutch government, host to the delegates, has proposed that uniform technical and operating conditions be imposed on amateur radio operators throughout the world and that the same kind of license be issued in each country. The American government, which has always been liberal toward its amateurs, will oppose such standardization and urge that each country handle its amateurs in its own way.

The conference will also consider problems of power, the ultra-short waves, interference and other such technical matters. Essentially it is intended for an exchange of views on technical subjects and no power to take final action rests in any of the delegations. Current practices may be recommended and agreed upon, but final authority to make them law must await the next treaty-making conference on radio. The last was held in Washington in 1927, and Madrid will be the scene of another in 1932.

One of the American technical experts, Gerald C. Gross, has been directed by the Federal Radio Commission to visit Templehof Field in Berlin, Le Bourget in Paris and Croydon in London after The Hague conference to make an engineering study of current European aviation radio practices. He will fly over a large portion of the European airways, observing the actual use of radio in flying.

Homicides in Chicago Show Large Decrease

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Homicides in Chicago decreased 24 per cent during the first eight months of this year compared with the corresponding period of last year, according to a report received by Commissioner of Police Russell from Deputy Commissioner Stege. The figure for 1928 was 343. For this year it' is 261, a decrease of eighty-two which Commissioner Russell attributed to the increased efficiency of the police department and the constant campaign against booze, crime and vice.

OLD FORT SAW GREAT EVENTS

Once Spain's Main Citadel in New World

Built on Tiny Island Off Vera Cruz Water Front

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (AP)—Word of the destruction of the ancient Spanish-built fortress, San Juan de Ulua, that has stood for centuries at the entrance of the harbor of Vera Cruz, Mex., recalls the part it has played as onlooker rather than participant in great events.

It was Spain's great citadel in the new world once. Over its moss-grown walls the royal flag of Spain flew for almost the last time on the mainland of the vast new possessions brought under Spanish rule by her adventurous sea captains.

And twice the old fort, useless for military purposes, has watched the landing of American troops on Mexican soil and echoed to the thunder of American guns.

TWO LANDINGS

The fort was built on a tiny island a few hundred yards off the water front of Vera Cruz. Eventually it was connected with the mainland by a narrow causeway, as the rock seawalls of the inclosed roadstead were built to fend off the fury of gulf northers that sweep down with chill menace now and then on the tropical shore line.

For the most part it has been a grim military prison where untold human suffering has been recorded.

San Juan de Ulua stood there, impotent to check the advance, when American troops moved in by that route toward Mexico City in the war with Mexico.

It stood there, also, with the Mexican flag proudly flying, but helpless under the threat of modern naval guns, when American bluejackets and marines were landed at Vera Cruz in 1914.

Among the already-yellowed records of those April days of fifteen years ago appears this bit in an Associated Press cablegram from Vera Cruz:

"In the fighting San Juan de Ulua flew the Mexican flag throughout the attack.

"The commandant and sixty armed men and 300 workers from the navy yard peered from the embrasures at the Prairie, lying 500 yards away, and with the other American ships shelling the naval academy. In the deep dungeons remain 500 prisoners, echoes of the guns reaching them faintly through sixteen-foot stone walls.

SAVE IF QUIET

"Capt. Stickney of the Prairie went through the fortress several days ago and found a few heavy guns, five torpedoes and a torpedo tube.

"When the landing of the Americans was ordered, Stickney sent word to the commandant of San Juan de Ulua that he would blow him to pieces with the Prairie's guns if he opened fire against the Americans, but that otherwise he would not be molested.

"The commandant replied that he would answer with his cannon if fired upon, but that he would not commence hostilities. When the engagement ashore began, the commandant hoisted a brilliant new Mexican flag, which flew all day long."

After the fighting in Vera Cruz, which cost the lives of a score of American bluejackets and marines, had ended, bodies of the dead were assembled aboard the Prairie in the inner harbor, then ferried out in small boats to a hospital ship, which bore them home. The cortege passed under the very shadow of the old fort. American and foreign war vessels set their colors at half-staff.

On the walls of San Juan de Ulua the garrison lined up to stand in statuesque silence. The big Mexican flag fluttered halfway down its staff and a bugle sounded a dirge-like call in last salute to enemy dead.

Dentists Seek Authority for Use of Whisky

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Thirty-five hundred dentists in California, members of the State Branch of the National Society of Dentists, are joining in a movement aimed at the Federal prohibition department to allow dentists the same right of prescribing whisky for patients who need it as now is enjoyed by physicians and surgeons, according to an announcement by Dr. J. Claude Perry, president of the national body.

Whisky, according to Dr. Perry's statement, is the only known antidote for for novaccaine and more than 90 per cent of dentists have found it equally effective following administration of nitrous oxide gas and in cases of syncope.

"In fact," the statement said, "we have more need for the use of this stimulant than have physicians."

UTILITY RATES CUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (AP)—Reduction in rates of gas and electric companies aggregating more than $2,000,000 a year were ordered by the State Railroad Commission during the fiscal year ending June 30. This saving to consumers is practically net as there were no appreciable increases in rates granted to that class of utilities during the fiscal period.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR E. GUERRERO
Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

Antes de dar por terminados nuestros comentarios al artículo festivo de Gabaldón que hemos venido repasando, y ya que en su última parte trata el escritor de los barberos y sus hazañas, no dejaremos este tema sin recordar algunos adagios castellanos en que se trae a cuento, ya al barbero, ya a los apéndices capilares de cuyo aliño se encarga ese modesto artista.

"Barbero, o loco o pariero" es refrán que pone de resalto la presunta locuacidad de los barberos, hasta el grado de sospechar locura en el rapabarbas que no sea pariero o charlatán. "De barbero a barbero no pasa dinero" es proverbio equivalente al que dice que "entre sastres no se pagan hechuras"; es a saber, que entre colegas que ejercen el mismo oficio o profesión, no se cobran los trabajos profesionales. "Ni barbero mudo, ni cantor sesudo" es aforismo que insiste en la tan motejada charlatanería barberil, y que, además, niega buen seso a los que se dedican a la música.

La expresión "se lo dije en sus barbas" quiere decir "se lo dije en su cara", "se lo dije frente a frente". "Cuando la barba de tu vecino vieres pelar, echa la tuya a remojar" es apotegma que nos hace ver que debemos escarmentar en cabeza ajena, y no seguir haciendo lo que a otros ha puesto en situación comprometida. A una persona que está cometiendo infracciones a la ley, por la que otra acaba de ser castigada, podemos prevenirla diciéndole: "Cuando la barba de tu vecino, etc." "Hacer la barba a alguno" es frase figurada que se usa en América en el sentido de adular u obsequiar a una persona con fines interesados. "Se me subió Fulano a las barbas", decimos de un chiquillo o un inferior nuestro que nos ha faltado al respeto.

"Al pelo" es un modo adverbial figurado que significa "a punto", "con toda exactitud", "a medida del deseo"; y así decimos que "tal o cual nombramiento o empleo nos ha venido (caído) al pelo, pues que ya teníamos larga cesantía." "Estar a medios pelos" es locución equivalente a la inglesa "to be, or have, a sheet in the wind". De una persona que lleva la cabeza descubierta se dice que "va (and) a pelo", y de una caballería sin silla ni aparejo, se dice que "está en pelo". "Fulano gusta de montar siempre en pelo". "Gente de medio pelo" llaman en Andalucía y América a personas de poco más o menos, de humilde condición social, y que por nada sobresalen entre las demás. De persona vigorosa, valiente y atrevida decimos que es "hombre, o mujer, de pelo en pecho". "Echar pelos (pellitos) a la mar" es olvidar antiguas desavenencias, reanudar la amistad haciendo a un lado asuntos enojosos; y así decimos a alguien con quien queremos hacer las paces: "Pellitos a la mar, y no se hable más de este asunto". Decimos que Fulano "lleva aún, o tiene, el pelo de la dehesa", cuando es muy tosco en sus modales, carece de trato social y atropella a cada paso las reglas de la urbanidad y la cortesía. "No tener uno pelos en la lengua" es decir sin reparo ni empacho lo que se piensa o siente; hablar claramente, sin el menor rebozo, con demasiada libertad o desembarazo. "Fulano no tiene un pelo de tonto" es como decir que es listo y avisado. "Ponérsele a uno los pelos de punta" es sentir gran pavor ante algún peligro real o imaginario. Para ponderar el número de las cosas—sobre todo las desfavorables—lo comparamos con el de los pelos de la cabeza; y así decimos que "Fulano tiene más trampas, más defectos, etc., que pelos en la cabeza". "Tomar el pelo a uno" es sumbarse con él; equivale al norteamericanismo "to kid someone". Con frecuencia exclamamos en la conversación familiar, cuando alguien trata de hacernos comulgar con ruedas de molino, o sea hacernos creer cosas inverosímiles: "No me tomes el pelo".

"Asirse, o cogerse, de un cabello" es aprovecharse de la menor circunstancia para conseguir alguna cosa; y "cortar, o hender, un cabello en el aire" es tener gran perspicacia o viveza para comprender las cosas, por difíciles que sean. "En cabellos" tiene el mismo valor que "a pelo"; es decir, con la cabeza descubierta y sin adornos. "Para que vaya Pedro al teatro hay que llevarle de (por) los cabellos". Queremos decir con ésto que Pedro se resiste a ir al teatro, y que tenemos que llevarle allí contra su voluntad, haciendo violencia. "Traer una cosa por los cabellos" es traer a colación razones, argumentos, principios o sentencias que no tienen relación ni conexión con la materia de que se habla o con el tema a discusión.

Para terminar con esta Pláticas diremos que "pelo" es término genérico que se aplica a todos los filamentos capilares que crecen en la epidermis del hombre, de los animales o de las plantas; en tanto que "cabello" es término específico, y denota el pelo que crece en la parte superior y posterior de la cabeza humana. El conjunto de cabellos se llama "cabellera".

Key Boy Tells Leads Arresting Party

Attempt to "Fix" Pringle Witnesses Charged

Dragnet in a web of handwriting, in which young women were arrested in a fashionable rooming-house yesterday and held in $20,000 bail each on charges of attempting to influence witnesses slated to testify for the state in the forthcoming trial of Alexander Pantages, millionaire theatrical magnate, under indictment for an asserted attack on Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, on the afternoon of August 9, last.

The women were booked as Nancy Lee, a sculptress, 28 years of age, and her half-sister, Janice Hill, 19, a stenographer, of 1172 North Kingsley Drive. They were taken in custody at the Kingsley-Drive [illegible] shortly before noon by Dist.-Atty. Fitts and Detective Lieutenants King, Regan and Dwight of the Hollywood division.

As a result of a demonstration it is said to have been made in the booking room pending their removal to the City Jail, the women are charged with suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and possession of alcoholic. In addition they were further held as material witnesses in the case.

WORK ON WITNESSES

They admit, according to Fitts, in the midst of repeated efforts they had been making for the past four days with a view of having the Pantages case witnesses in a discreditable light, and concerning which the District Attorney's office was fully aware.

The witnesses, the accused women are charged, with attempting to obtain, over the landlady of the North Kingsley Drive house and a fellow roomer, whose identities Fitts withheld, [illegible] and her half-sister became tenants in the house about a week ago, having been "planted" there, according to Fitts, for the express purpose of "working out" on the landlady and her roomer. A day or two after moving into the house, it is charged, the new roomers began to make overtures to Fitts. Their campaign, Fitts said, took the form of an attempt to induce the man for whom they promised to get a divorce. To the landlady, according to Fitts, the women made repeated invitations to have a drink with them, but she is repeatedly declined.

TELLS OF OFFER

Apprised of the women's actions, Fitts instructed his witnesses to "play it right" and await further developments.

The case on Saturday morning was, according to the District Attorney, the man roomer found a [illegible] that had been placed under the door. "If you will testify that the Pringle girl bruised herself," the girl said in substance, "there will be $20,000 in it for you."

Saturday morning, in conference with the landlady, the man exhibited the significant note, and the landlady decided to notify the District Attorney. Through Detective Lieutenant King, they located him; and the three officers the District Attorney went to the rooming-house.

Confronted by Fitts, both women indignantly denied they had been "planted" in the rooming-house by anyone connected with the defense in the case, or that they had had any ulterior motive toward the landlady and her male roomer in having applied for accommodation at the house.

The [illegible] produced the note the [illegible]

KOODOOS WIN HUNTER KUDOS

Californian Bags African Trophies

Exploits With Gun Richly Rewarded
Above is shown Charles C. Thompson, Paso Robles sportsman, and heads of koodo and impalla he shot in South Central Africa.

TROPHIES of a big game hunt in South Central Africa and Northern Rhodesia, which include specimens of the great koodoo and other rare animals, are being exhibited at the Tufts-Lyon Arms Company, 609 South Olive street. They are part of the bag of Charles C. Thompson of the Seven X ranch, near Paso Robles.

Mr. Thompson left in April, 1928, on his first big game hunt in Africa. By profession he is a mining and oil man who has turned to raising blooded cattle and polo ponies. Prior to his African trip he had done considerable hunting in America, and with that experience as a background determined to try his luck in the bush and veldt.

"The great koodoo runs in herds of thirty and forty, and in the dry season the bulls run together in herds of ten or a dozen," Mr. Thompson explained yesterday. "They are very wary and it is hard to follow their spoor. All of these animals depend more on scent than they do on sight and hearing.

"This specimen is considered one of the finest ever brought to the United States. He stood about five and a half feet from hoof to shoulder. The horns are spiral, probably five feet long with a spread at the tip of four feet."

The color is a tawny brown with lighter strips around the body, and the head on exhibition is graceful and beautifully proportioned.

Mr. Thompson brought back about sixty heads and hides. Several python skins are among the lot, one of which shows two small hooks, which scientists explain as the last of legs disappearing in the shape of claws. Among the heads are wildebeest, sabia, antelope, impalla, Cape buffalo, eland and sassaby antelope. They were mounted by Rett Brothers of Santa Barbara.

Traveling alone until he reached Livingston, Thompson was joined by W. S. Chadwick, a writer. The two started with a party of sixty native boys, but finally narrowed down to seven or eight because food supplies ran short.

"There is no twilight; no dawn. The sun bangs out in the morning and by 10 o'clock the temperature is around 110. When the sun is gone the night comes with strange abruptness," Thompson said. "The country is uneven, patches of bush, that is forest and heavy underbrush, and miles of open plain or veldt.

"We did our hunting in the morning, getting back to camp and remaining there from 11 to 4 o'clock, unless we were stalking game."

The exhibit will remain at the Tufts-Lyon Arms Company for about two weeks.

ADDITIONS TO JAIL WILL OPEN TODAY

Alterations Provide Space for More Than Hundred Additional Prisoners

New improvements in the County Jail costing the county $75,000 will be put into service today, making the prison an escape-proof institution, according to C. E. Peoples, jailer.

The alterations have provided space for 120 additional prisoners, bringing the total jail capacity to 1530 prisoners.

The extra space will permit the segregation of all prisoners in the County Jail suffering from social diseases who otherwise would be confined with prisoners in good health, it was pointed out.

The improvements also include the construction of six cells with accommodations for twelve men, on the roof of the Hall of Justice. These cells will be reserved for tubercular patients under the care of Dr. Benjamin Blank, jail physician.

New storerooms also have been provided on the fourteenth floor, reserving ample space for all supplies, some of which were stored in the basement of the building in the past.

ORDINANCE ADOPTED

The Council has adopted the ordinance of intention for the improvement of Park Heights Terrace at Alta street.

...NTAGES SURPRISE HINTED

...oman Who Saw Auto Crash Will Take Stand; Surgeon Will Testify First Tomorrow

A new eyewitness to the automobile accident which sent Joe Rokumoto, Japanese gardener, to the operating table, where he died, and landed Clay Pantages in Superior Judge Hardy's court on a murder charge, has been discovered and interviewed by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Costello and [illegible], who are prosecuting the case.

POOR PA
BY CLAUDE GALLAN
"He refers to our Junior as her child when I'm gonna punish him, but when she does punishin' him she speaks of him as bein' my child."

The witness is a woman and her identity is being guarded closely by the District Attorney's office with no hint as to the nature of her testimony. But according to Costello she will be one of the early witnesses to be called when court reconvenes tomorrow morning, following the week-end and Admission Day recess.

DR. WAGNER UP FIRST

From what could be learned yesterday from the prosecutors, the surprise witness probably will be called to the stand shortly after the completion of testimony by Dr. A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, who will be the first witness tomorrow.

Dr. Wagner is being called in an effort to clear up the somewhat confused accounts of Rokumoto's death. Friday afternoon other doctors testified that the Japanese died from shock due to his injuries resulting from the automobile accident, but under cross-examination by Max Steuer, New York attorney, who, with I. W. Gilbert and Joseph Ford, is acting for the defense, admitted that the operation, during which the Japanese died, was not an emergency one. They also stat-

New Telephone Directory Ready

The most complete and cosmopolitan "Who's Who" of Los Angeles city and county will appear today in more than 500,000 volumes, each volume with 1136 pages. The total books will carry listings of 160,175,000,000 names.

It is the fall issue of the Los Angeles telephone directory, which will be delivered before next Sunday to 375,000 Los Angeles telephone subscribers. The job of planning and supervising the distribution is under G. R. McCully, directory manager of the Southern California Telephone Company.

The city has been divided into 150 divisions, with each division covered by two or three men in trucks or cars. White uniforms and gloves and labeled trucks identify the men who are collecting the old books and distributing the new ones.

ADMISSION DAY EVENTS READY

Ceremony Begins at 10 a.m. Today at La Mesa

Native Sons and Daughters Provide Auspices

Spanish Fiesta Will Feature Long Program

The yearly observance of Admission Day, celebrating the seventy-ninth anniversary of California's admission to the Union, will start today at 10 a.m. with the arrival of a forty-niner stage coach at the site of the historic battle of La Mesa, where a special program sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West will be given.

The old-time fiesta is to take place at Vernon avenue and Downey Road, scene of the last stand of the California revolutionary forces, who were defeated in a skirmish by American forces commanded by Commodore Robert Stockton, on January 9, 1847.

LEGAL HOLIDAY

Official business of the city and county will be at a practical standstill during the day, as the legal holiday closes the official buildings, banks and many business houses. The only court operating is the night Municipal Court.

Events will include the planting and dedication of a "Sequoia Washingtoniana tree by Senator George J. Burns; welcoming address by J. A. McNaughton; "Admission Day, September 9, 1850," Burrell D. Neighbors; "The State of California," Lieut.-Gov. Carnahan, Earl Le Moine will cover interesting episodes in California history in a short talk. The speakers will be introduced by A. G. Rivera, master of ceremonies.

Picturesque scenes from early California days will be recalled, when dons, senoras, vaqueros and senoritas, resplendent in flaming colors, delicate finery and dazzling trappings, strutting, dancing and singing, make their way through a holiday of feasting, rodeo sports and merrymaking.

SPANISH FIESTA

The truly Spanish barbecue at noon, dancing during the afternoon, with games of long ago, greased-pole climbing as well as the pursuit of a greased pig, should be a lucrative source of amusement. In true fiesta style, the Spanish dancers will include in their repertoire two famous dances of the early California period, about 1830, "El Sombrero" and "La Jota."

Tex Condon's cowboys will be the main feature of the rodeo, going through various feats of hair-raising horsemanship. The entire day's celebration in commemoration of California's birthday as the thirty-first State of the Union is free and open to the public.

Mayor Denies Having News Vender Ousted

If any of the newsboys distributing copies of a newly-born political weekly were threatened by men carrying police badges and warned to keep out of the City Hall, it was not on orders of Mayor Porter, or with his sanction, the Mayor has declared.

Several weeks ago the first issue of Ye Towne Crier made its appearance in the City Hall, and created a sensation. Its editorial tenor was to the effect that Mayor Porter should be "saved" from the purposes of the satellites surrounding him.

According to R. G. Culber, manager of the Los Angeles Distributing Company, which disposed of copies of the publication, his foreman reported to him that when the boys appeared at the City Hall with the second issue they were met by men displaying police badges, and were forced, by threats and warnings, to discontinue their work.

This situation was explained to Mayor Porter.

"I'd like to know who the men are," said he, "because I disapprove of such actions. This is the first I have heard of it."

The third issue of the paper was on the streets last Friday.

CAMP HIGH SIERRA TO HAVE SNOW HOUSE

Construction of a snow house at Camp High Sierra, at a cost of $150, has been approved by the Playground and Recreation Commission for the purpose of providing a storage of ice for the summer. At present, according to Supt. Hjelte, a trip of four miles is necessary to obtain supplies of ice from an earth fault.

FIRE AREA LIMITED

An ordinance eliminating from Fire District No. 3, all property in Pico Boulevard from Daniel street westerly to the Santa Monica city limits has been adopted by council.

PATSY RUTH MILLER MARRIED

Film Actress Becomes Director's Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Tay Garnett at Wedding

PATSY RUTH MILLER, motion-picture actress, and Tay Garnett, director, were married yesterday at 4 p.m. at St. James's Episcopal Church, Wilshire Boulevard and St. Andrews Place. Scores of persons prominent in the film colonies of Hollywood and Beverly Hills were in attendance at the wedding and at the reception afterward at the home of the bride's father, Oscar W. Miller, 808 Crescent Drive, making the affair a brilliant one.

Rev. Ray O. Miller, rector of St. James Church, performed the ceremony. Mrs. William Russell was maid of honor and George Green was best man. Lila Lee and Lois Wilson were bridesmaids. Ushers were Tom Buckingham, Kenneth Thompson, Robert Armstrong, James Gleason, Paul Franklin, John Farrow and Winston Miller.

WOMAN NEAR NINETY WILL FLY TO IOWA

One Never Gets Too Old to Become Air Minded, Says ex-Resident of Waterloo

A person never gets too old to become air minded, according to Mrs. Cornelia Livingstone Bryant, 87 years of age, 5540 Franklin avenue, who will begin a 1900-mile airplane trip to her old home in Waterloo, Iowa, today.

Mrs. Bryant will fly to Kansas City on the Western Air Express 1417-mile "dawn-to-dusk" plane. Arriving there at 8 p.m. today she will spend the night in Kansas City and depart for Waterloo early tomorrow in the private plane of C. A. Morris, Waterloo motor car dealer.

"Airplane travel is the miracle of the age," said Mrs. Bryant. "I expect to return to Los Angeles from Kansas City by the Western Air Express route."

Mrs. Bryant explained that she was introduced to air travel several years ago when she made a flight from London to Brussels. Since that time she has made a number of short flights in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

She is the widow of W. A. Bryant, formerly a Waterloo paving contractor. She has been living in Hollywood with her son, James E. Bryant. She will visit her sons, Philip L. Bryant and LeRoy Bryant, who are managing the paving contracting business which her husband founded in the Iowa city many years ago.

COUNCIL DECLINES TO PERMIT STREET WORK

Due to many protests, council has declined to follow the request of the Board of Supervisors and grant permission for the opening, widening and extending of Palm street from Hawthorne avenue to the Inglewood-Redondo Road.

JUVENILES TOMORROW CHARGE IMMEMORIAL FOE

Ten thousand three hundred and seventy-five school teachers will tomorrow call vacation at an end for more than 215,000 Los Angeles pupils. The zero hour will be between 8 and 9 o'clock, when the first morning session will take up and the kids will come in over the top and take possession of their various classrooms.

Approximately there are 9000 more students this year than last, not counting the night-school pupils. School would have started today but for the fact that it was Admission Day.

Three new junior high schools and two new elementary school buildings have been completed since study closed last spring. These new buildings will be occupied for the first time today.

Enrollment will start in 296 elementary schools, twenty-three junior high schools and thirty-one high schools. Thirty-four evening high schools will be maintained during the year.

LOYALTY WEEK INDUCTED HERE

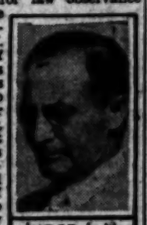
Westlake Park Throng Hears Observance Plea

Greater Respect for All Law Advocated

Judge Phillips Speaks for Citizens' Alliance

Loyalty Week, during which every American citizen is urged to make a special effort to obey all the laws of his country, was ushered in yesterday by the Citizens' Loyalty Alliance when former Judge L. H. Phillips gave a brief address at Westlake Park on "The Constitution of the United States and Observance of All Laws."

Approximately 2500 persons, who had gathered for the Sunday afternoon musical program, heard the speaker's plea for law observance and his message also was broadcast over KNX.



The object of Loyalty Week, as announced by its sponsors, is to create a greater respect for law, since President Hoover, in his inaugural address, asserted that "the duty of the citizens to enforce the law is coequal to their obedience." Without wholehearted obedience of all laws, Phillips said, there is grave danger that every law, or at least many of them, will cease to command respect.

DRY LAW NOT MENTIONED

The Eighteenth Amendment was not mentioned by name, but the inference in the minds of many was that the primary purpose of Loyalty Week is to create respect for, and obedience of, laws prohibiting the sale or consumption of liquor.

"We should praise our officers for enforcement of the law and condemn those who violate it," Phillips declared. "We should back Hoover's campaign for law enforcement—not for one law, but for all laws. We should not presume to choose which we will obey and disregard others, simply because they are not in accordance with our personal likes or dislikes. Our children should be taught to observe our laws and I hope it will be made compulsory in our public schools for children to commit the Constitution of the United States to memory. 'Don't do anything against the law' should be a byword because, after all, true reform must begin and end in the hearts of the people. Otherwise law is no good."

It was pointed out by Wilbur Le Gette, executive secretary of the alliance, that the organization is not sponsored by the churches, but by 100 civic, religious and patriotic bodies of Los Angeles, one of the foremost being the American Legion.

SPONSORS OF WEEK

Among the 100 organizations named as lending their support to the Loyalty Week movement are the following:

Southern California Convention of the Christian Church, California-Nevada Synod of the Presbyterian Church, Los Angeles Federation of the W.C.T.U., also the State and county W.C.T.U., the city and State United Church Brotherhoods, the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Co-operative Hotel and Apartment-House Association of Southern California, Greeters of America, Charter No 30 of Los Angeles, Auxiliary Greeters of America, American Legion, Department of California, United Veterans of the Republic, Department of California, Catholic Women's Club, Southern California Council of Religious Education, Federation of Jewish Welfare, Parent-Teachers' Association, Hollywood Women's Club, Los Angeles District California Federated Women's Club, Catholic Charities, Associated Patriotic Agencies, Advertising Club of Los Angeles, Boy Scouts, Citizens' and Taxpayers' Protective League, parent body.

During the week four-minute speakers will broadcast the alliance message in theaters, churches and other public gatherings and by means of the radio. The list of speakers includes Leslie Goddard, one of the champion debaters of the Pacific Coast on the Constitution; Capt. Roscoe Goodcell, L. H. Phillips, Rev. J. A. B. Fry, Clarence L. WHOLESALE COMPANY TO COME HERE

Chamber of Commerce's Effort to Get Branch of Eastern Concern Succeeds

Recognition of Los Angeles as the distribution center for the $1,000,000,000 market of eleven Western States is shown in the announcement made here last night that the New York Merchandising Company, the country's largest variety wholesalers serving an international clientele of department stores, shortly will establish a branch in this city.

President Shannon Crandall of the Chamber of Commerce states that he has been advised by Stanley M. Thatcher, western representative of the company, that a location has been obtained in the Cooper Building at Ninth and Los Angeles streets.

The company is listed among the largest importers in the United States and is also noted as a large manufacturing wholesaler. Mr. Thatcher said that a $250,000 stock will be placed in the loft here, shipments to be made from this city to the markets in Western States. The company also will engage in an importing trade through Los Angeles Harbor.

The lease in the Cooper Building comprises 25,000 square feet, the entire second floor. A large warehouse at Los Angeles Harbor also has been leased, according to Mr. Thatcher who also is assistant to Benjamin Hattenbach, company director who will head the local branch. The company will cater largely to chain and branch stores.

Mr. Crandall said that the chamber has been working for some time to bring the concern to this city. Learning that the company is serving a large clientele west of the Rockies, the chamber's industrial department concentrated on the concern. Recently, Mr. Thatcher was sent to the Chamber to obtain data. A series of surveys were prepared with the result that a decision was reached to locate here.

The branch will open here about January 1, 1930.

PANTAGES CASE FIXING CHARGED

Two Women in Hollywood Jailed by Fitts

Witness in Pringle Attack Makes Accusations

Offer of $25,000 Asserted Contained in Note man had found in his room, and requested Miss Lee to copy the contents in her natural handwriting. When she had complied, Fitts ordered both Miss Lee and Miss Hill placed under arrest. He said Miss Lee's handwriting was identical with that in the incriminating note.

It was then that the women staged the demonstration that resulted in their being held on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and possession of absinthe.

At the request of Fitts, the landlady accompanied the women to an adjoining room to keep them under observation while they dressed preparatory to their removal to the City Jail. No sooner had the door been closed behind them, Fitts said the landlady reported, than Miss Lee seized a butcher-knife and rushed at the witness while Miss Hill kicked her on the shins. As the landlady fled from the asserted attack, it is charged, one of the women grabbed up a bottle of absinthe and hurled it from the window. Informed of this the detectives scurried downstairs to the street and frantically snapped up the contents of the shattered bottle with their handkerchiefs.

At the City Jail, the two women were fingerprinted and then transferred to the County Jail. Under orders from Fitts their bond was fixed at $25,000 each.

While Fitts said he was not prepared to make a statement yesterday, he declared he felt convinced Miss Lee and Miss Hill had been enlisted as agents by other persons in their assorted attempt to coerce the witnesses. He intimated that today he may have evidence enabling him to disclose the names of those he believes are responsible for "planting" the women arrested in the Ringsley Drive house.

ed that death, while in their opinion, resulting from shock due to the accident, might have been caused by the anesthetic and operation.

MEDICAL TESTIMONY

Mrs. Pantages, who became involved in the automobile accident on June 16, last, went to trial one week ago tomorrow. The first three days of the trial were taken up with the selection of the five women and seven men who are now serving as the jury. All of last Friday went to medical testimony with the exception of William Rokumoto, 15-year-old son of the dead Japanese, who was called to identify the body.

According to the prosecution attorneys, witnesses will be produced to tell of Mrs. Pantages's physical condition just before the accident and also of the manner in which she was driving her automobile. Testimony also will be given, according to the authorities, relative to her remarks to several persons who attempted to assist her.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello, in his opening statement to the jury, declared that the State will attempt to prove that Mrs. Pantages was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

MUFFLER REPORT MADE

The Board of Mechanical Engineers has submitted to council a report on the plan for requiring steam shovels, pavement breaking machines and other similar engines to use mufflers, which calls for the repeal of an old ordinance and the substitution of a new one. The report was referred to the Public Works Committee.

SPEAKING OF SIZE, JUST LOOK AT THESE!

Our Poor Little City Hall Put in Shade by Graf Zeppelin

COMMUNITY BUILDING PLANS GET APPROVAL

The Art Commission has approved the preliminary drawings of the Playground and Recreation Department for the community building to be erected at the Stonehurst Playground and the working plans from the drawings are now being prepared for approval of the Playground and Recreation Commission. Bids on the Verdugo Playground community building will be received by the commission on the 17th inst.

THAT the Graf Zeppelin is a whopper, hundreds of thousands of Angelenos can testify after seeing the giant dirigible here. But just how big? Use the City Hall tower for a measuring standard. The Graf, if stood on its tail, lacks only 113 feet of being twice as tall as the tower!

Stand the Zeppelin and the flagship California on their respective and haughty noses, and they would make the lofty white City Hall tower look like a bungalow. Here are the figures: Graf Zeppelin, 771 feet; California, 600 feet; City Hall, 452 feet. The Graf cost approximately $5,000,000; the City Hall with land, $9,000,000, and the California, $35,000,000. The Graf carries forty men, twenty passengers and Commander Eckener. The California carries Rear-Admiral Bostick and 1421 officers and men. The City Hall houses regularly 2300 officeholders, and still has room left.

Just to show the comparative sizes, Duke Ledford, Times staff photographer, matched photographs of the three to scale.

Even the Washington monument, towering 555 feet, 5 1-8 inches into the air and second highest shaft in the world, still lacks approximately 215 feet of matching the Graf's stature.

MYSTERY TRIO IN POLICE QUIZ

Bootleggers May be Among Those to be Queried

Lid Will be Clamped Down on Publicity in Inquiry

They Will Face Questioning Today on Graft Case

Three mystery witnesses, two of whom are believed to be Los Angeles bootleggers, are to be questioned today by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hammon in charge of grand jury matters regarding the charges of Harry D. McDonald that certain members of the Los Angeles Police Department have sold confiscated liquor and extended protection to illicit liquor dealers.

It also is understood that other witnesses will be questioned regarding the asserted theft of criminal identification records of prisoners from the police department files.

Although the inquiry has been in progress less than two weeks, a mass of incriminating statements and corroborative evidence has been obtained by the grand jury, which will keep Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hammon and D. R. Clark, who is assisting him, busy until Wednesday in preparing it in summary form for review by the grand jury.

McDonald, who has been questioned constantly by officers, has appeared at the District Attorney's office daily to amplify his earlier statement and assist in obtaining evidence supporting his charges. He is expected to return again today to confer with the investigators.

Meanwhile, members of the grand jury and Dist.-Atty. Fitts have requested that all future proceedings be conducted in absolute secrecy. Nothing more will be given out, it is stated, until the grand jury has taken definite action.

POLICE CAN TEACH STUDENT AT TIMES

Police have the right to seize liquor which they find in an automobile, Hal N. Duckworth, 21-year-old student residing at the Y.M.C.A. learned when he was arrested on a possession charge. Duckworth told Officers Smith and Greetan that the eight quarts of gin which they say they found in his roadster parked at Third street and Berendo avenue at midnight on the 4th inst., was "my liquor and you have no right to take it," they reported after taking the youth and the liquor to Central Police Station. Before Municipal Judge Bogue, Duckworth pleaded not guilty and demanded jury trial, which the court set for October 3, next.

FURNITURE SALES ROOM FIRE SWEPT

Whittier Boulevard Has Early Morning Blaze of Undetermined Origin

Fire of undetermined origin early yesterday swept the George R. Schofield Furniture Company, Inc., 3550 Whittier Boulevard, at a loss, officials stated, which will exceed $10,000.

The blaze had eaten its way through the interior of the building before a passing motorist turned in the alarm and firemen were forced to turn in a second alarm before the blaze was quelled.

In addition to the two-story building at 3560 Whittier Boulevard the blaze spread to an unoccupied dwelling at 3554 Whittier Boulevard. Both structures are owned by the California Truck Company.

Arguments Due Today in Screen Trust Act Cases

Argument will be heard today by United States District Judge Henning on a motion of the West Coast Theaters, Inc., and several other producing and exhibiting companies, for an order for a bill of particulars in the case against the various corporations.

The motion picture producers and exhibitors are accused of violating the Sherman Antitrust Act by discriminating against small theaters, especially those having an admittance fee of less than 10 cents and giving more than two features in a program.

Mrs. Clewett to Be Buried Today

The funeral services for Mrs. Jeanette B. Clewett, widow of Lewis Clewett, former president of the Los Angeles Pump Supply Company, will be conducted at the Wheat-Halvorsen chapel in Huntington Park today at 10 a.m. Interment will take place in Inglewood Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Clewett died Friday at her residence at 6720 South Rita avenue, Huntington Park. She was a prominent member of the Ladies of Woodcraft, and of the Friends' Church. She was born in Indianapolis and lived in California the past forty years. She was well known locally. Mr. Clewett, whose death occurred in May, 1925, formerly was well known in the local business world.

She leaves three sons and three daughters, Frank, Gordon and Clyde Clewett, the Misses Lucy and Marion Clewett and Mrs. Mabel W. Hoffman, the latter of Alhambra.

TWO HELD IN MURDER PLOT

Asserted Conspiracy to Kill Mrs. Pearl Sutcliffe for Bonus Offered by Jailed Mate Asserted . . .

Patrick R. Mullen, a salesman, 38 years of age, of 2795 West Eighth street, and Orville T. Forrester of 7224 Waring avenue, were arrested yesterday by Detective Lieutenants Perry and Harper of the Wilshire police division and held in the City Jail on suspicion of conspiracy to commit murder.

They were taken in custody, the officers said, on information from San Francisco to the effect that the husband of Mrs. Pearl Sutcliffe of 364 South Orange Drive, had offered two or three men now in Los Angeles $10,000 to kill her, in order that he might obtain possession of her property. The husband, according to the detectives, is in the San Francisco County Jail, charged with having mutilated a man whom he, in company with several detectives, surprised in company with his wife in a hotel room there several months ago.

Sutcliffe's offer of the "murder-bonus," Perry and Harper said their information stated, was made through a cell-mate whose name they withheld. On completion of the Bay City sentence, this man came here and communicated the offer to local "gunmen." Then, however, he double-crossed Sutcliffe by revealing the plot to the intended victim, the detective said.

In a statement to the detectives last night, the officers said, Mrs. Sutcliffe declared her life had been threatened three times over the telephone since August 9, last. On these occasions, she declared, a voice informed her that unless she made a property settlement with her husband "pretty quick" she would be "bumped off." Moreover, referring to the days before Sutcliffe was jailed, she told the detectives her husband had threatened her with death a hundred times between March 27 and May 28, last.

Mullen was taken into custody at his home yesterday morning. Forrester was placed under arrest when he appeared at the Wilshire division police station later in the day in response to a call from the officers. Pending further investigation, the detectives withheld details of the asserted murder plot.

About Mullen the detectives said they knew of no past police record. The record of Forrester, however, showed, they reported, that there are listed against him seven other arrests since 1927. On July 13 of that year, according to the record, he was charged with assault to commit murder; on November 11 of the same year, with the same charge; on September 4, 1928, again with a similar charge; on December 12, 1928, with conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act; on February 28, 1929, with suspicion of burglary; on June 16, 1929 with several traffic violations, and on the 7th inst. with vagrancy, idleness. The report reveals he was released on all but the liquor and vagrancy charges, which are pending prosecution, the former in Federal court, the other in Municipal Court.

Fifth Building of New U.C.L.A. Opening Slated

The fifth major structure on the new campus of the University of California at Los Angeles will be open for the use of faculty and students about November 15, when the Education Building, housing the education department and teachers' college, and the home economics, art and music departments is scheduled to be completed.

The building, representing an expenditure of about $525,000, is three stories high and will provide approximately 68,814 square feet of floor space. It will be cut up into auditoriums, classrooms, art studios, galleries and offices. The art and music departments will be housed on the second floor and the home economics on the third.

COUNTERFEITING SUSPECTS UP

Accused of having attempted to pass counterfeit silver dollars on the Justice of the Peace at Camarillo, three men are scheduled to appear today for arraignment before United States District Judge Henning. They are Robert C. Tully, Theodore J. Miller and Maurice J. O'Connell. Officers charge that they found numerous fake coins on the ground near by when they arrested the trio.

LAWS DECLARED FUTILE TO REFORM MEN'S HEARTS

Salvation Army Speaker Says That Only Jesus Can Still National Storms of Discontent

"Laws, no matter how energetic, legislation, no matter how potent, and institutions, no matter how constructive, never can provide from the causes and effects of those evils which only can be healed from humanity through regeneration of the hearts of men," declared Adjt. Frank Howell in his sermon yesterday at the Salvation Army Temple.

"We may praise for the good accomplished by the Eighteenth Amendment, Adjt. Howell told his congregation, but this Amendment, or any other law, "can never bring about temperance or prohibition."

"No number of laws enacted can ever make good if they are depended on to do it," said the speaker. "It takes something deeper, something greater than legislation to move the heart of man. It takes a time of stress. There is stress in the political business world; there is tension in every home; there is dissatisfaction in the heart and mind, and the cure for all of our diseases is the application to thought and conduct of the principles of the gentle, the meek and the lowly Jesus. Even as He stilled the storm on the sea so can He still the storm in the hearts of human life, and He will do it."

MINISTER CALLS GOD A "SQUARE SHOOTER"

"We can be sure that back of every law upon which we can build a God who will shoot square, that we can bravely breast the storm of difficulty against which we must make our way," said Adjt. Howell, speaking in behalf of the White Church.

"I believe God is a square-shooter," said Dr. Shepard. "I am not talking about theological fairings or any of petty gravestones. I believe God is a square-shooter and that He is on the level with you, with everybody. Do you think God would give man intelligence and imagination, a conscience and a will, an upward reach, and punish him because his will led him away from seeing Him as the source of salvation? What kind of a God would He be? He is a square shooter, abiding to the truth, and appeals to him? Will He be on the square with him? Is He not a fatherly, paternal child, to have his own way, God is not a cruel old woman nursing that makes for the moral progress of the world, by the study of God's method with man as revealed in God's word, by cultivating the prayer habit, by steady co-operation in the regular activities of the church, by seeking and yielding to the guidance of the Holy Spirit of God we may sense and even create the right atmosphere," said Dr. Snape. "The right atmosphere, if lost, is recoverable."

BELIEF IN DEITY HELD REASONABLE

"Religion and Superstition" is the topic discussed yesterday by Rabbi E. F. Magnin at Temple B'nai B'rith. Excerpts from the sermon follow:

"Superstition and religion are not the same. It is true that early religions incorporated many superstitious beliefs and practices. These have been inherited by our own generation in a large measure, but liberal religion has freed itself from superstition in the same way that chemistry has emancipated itself from alchemy and astronomy from astrology. Religion is the belief in a Supreme Being who is perfect intelligence and absolute morality. While the existence of such a Being whom we call God cannot be demonstrated by science, it is not unreasonable to believe in Him because of the fact that, while our senses are limited, we feel His presence within our hearts."

LIFE PICTURED AS ETERNAL PROGRESS

"What Shall We Do in Heaven?" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. H. C. Culbertson at All Souls' Congregational Church. Dr. Culbertson said in part:

"Not only on this earth is God seeking to save us, but through all the ages of eternity, if need be, His angels will be toiling to win darkened souls out of their blindness into the ways of radiant light, where the luminance is not from physical ether vibrations such as mortal sunlight, but is the spiritual illumining of the character of the Christ of God. If we but understood the meaning of endless life, we should be nobler souls, greater than any vicissitudes or temptations that earth can bring to us, and we should look forward to life's fulfillment to that unseen realm with keener zest than any youth preparing for his first trip around the world. Eagerly we should anticipate the time, when, with the dawn of a billion centuries upon our brows, we shall go forth from earth's schooling to share in divine achievements."

GOD SAID TO HAVE NO USE FOR QUITTER

"The Test of Faith" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. J. George Dorn at Hollywood Lutheran Church. Dr. Dorn spoke in part as follows:

"The Bible is a great record of deliverance. Abraham was delivered from idolatry. Joseph was delivered from his brothers. David was delivered from Goliath. There are times when faith shows itself in taking, but the real test of faith is in refusing. The martyrs always could have had deliverance. They had only to blaspheme Christ, they had only to offer a few grains of incense to Diana. It was their faith that led them to the scaffold. The same thing is seen in our own small martyrdoms. Sometimes to choose drudgery and spare liberty is the sign of faith. We often labor with discouragements when suddenly a glittering chance of a change is offered to us if we only do not bother about a tender conscience. There are times when deliverance is a treachery, when a man's duty is to continue serving, even though his service may be a torture. If we trust God we will refuse relief and stick to the service we have put our hand on. God has no pleasure in the workers who are always threatening to send in their resignations."

COURAGE DECLARED PRICE OF SUCCESS

Declaring that the noblest adventure a man can undertake is "the adventure with reality," Bramacharee Nerode, in his sermon at Mt. Washington Center yesterday said that every great success in life presupposes the possession of a sportive genius that is ever ready to play with risk.

"In other words, risk is the price of abiding success," said the speaker. "No success is more successful than the one with reality, yet man in general risks his life for the transient things of the world and is sore afraid to do the same for his real self. Blinded by the narrow outlook of life, he does not see behind the veil the glorific vision of larger life and fuller joy that wait for him as his birthright the moment he meets his God. He does not risk his folly for the light of God. He is afraid to renounce the plaguing diseases of his mind lest he lose everything he has, knowing not the science of truth that the more he loses for God the more he gains. It is indifferent whether you believe it or not. Experiment with God. Unbounded courage is what you need. Every time you risk anything for the sake of reality, an unwonted power will come to you, almost unheralded. All truths, all joys, all laws, all wealth flow from the divine center of reality."

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS HEAR LESSON ON "MAN"

"God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth." This verse from Genesis constituted the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Man" Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist. Among the Scriptural citations in the Lesson-Sermon were these passages from Psalm VIII: "What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him? . . . Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet." The Lesson-Sermon contained also correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture," by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following: "Think less of the enactments of mortal mind, and you will sooner grasp man's God-given dominion . . . Let us banish sickness as an outlaw, and abide by the rule of perpetual harmony—God's law. It is man's moral right to annul an unjust sentence, a sentence never inflicted by divine authority."

BOY DETECTIVES TRAP PAPER THEFT SUSPECT

For asserted theft of morning newspapers from porches and street corners, Jesus M. Robles, 34 years of age, of 411 Clarence street, was taken into custody early yesterday at Vernon avenue and Figueroa streets.

Robles's arrest, it was stated, was the result of sleuthing by several newsboys after numerous complaints had been lodged with the police of the disappearance of newspapers in the southwestern district of the city.

Hughes Funeral to Be Conducted Here Tomorrow

Funeral arrangements for Lawrence Hughes, founder of the ice cream company which bears his name, who died Saturday, were announced yesterday, following the arrival of his brother, Marvin A. Hughes of Seattle. The services will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Pierce Brothers' funeral chapel, 720 West Washington street, and tentative plans provide for placing the body in Forest Lawn Mausoleum.

Mr. Hughes died at Good Samaritan Hospital following an operation for appendicitis which was performed last Monday. He was 47 years of age, and had made his home with his sister, Mrs. Oscar Nelson, 928 South Mansfield street, for ten years. He was unmarried.

Besides his brother and Mrs. Nelson, he leaves two other sisters, Mrs. Edward Sommers of Los Angeles and Mrs. Albert Pabst of Fresno.

TUNNEL CELEBRATION SET

Sepulveda Bore Construction Will Bring Ceremony Thursday in Honor of Project

The opening of construction work on the Sepulveda Canyon tunnel under the Santa Monica Mountains will be celebrated Thursday by ceremonies conducted under auspices of the Sepulveda Boulevard Association, which has promoted the building of the boulevard from San Fernando to San Pedro.

The road, which is twelve miles shorter than existing roads from San Fernando to the harbor, will permit trucks and pleasure cars to make the trip without delay in city traffic. The 600-foot tunnel under Mulholland High Way at the crest of the mountains, will permit a maximum grade of 4½ per cent, and elimination of all but three curves of less than a 300-foot radius.

Sepulveda Boulevard leaves the San Fernando road near the city of San Fernando, and connects with Arizona avenue, in Inglewood, and the State highway leading to San Diego.

The boulevard will permit four lines of traffic, and the tunnel will be forty-two feet wide, with a four-and-one-half-foot wall in the center to divide traffic.

She Champions New Male Garb

The movement to reform men's dress to the degree of comfort that marks women's attire was given impetus yesterday with the departure of Miss Ornella Rexford, social psychologist, for New York City, where she stated she will conduct a campaign to eliminate the idea that men must wear ten and one-half more pounds of clothing than women.

Miss Rexford departed on the Western Air Express plane for Kansas City where she will board a train.

Art Club Will Discuss Pach's Book 'Ananias'

The California Art Club's public forum tonight features a review and discussion of Walter Pach's book "Ananias," which has startled the art world. Mrs. Charles Joseph Ridder, librarian of San Pedro, will review, after which Albert Henry King, painter, will lead the discussion on the writer's statement of "What is wrong in contemporary art?"

Discussion begins at 8 p.m. in the lounge of the Barnsdall Park art center where foremost painters, sculptors, and creative craftsmen meet. The club has invited the public.

BUSSES TO HAVE INSIGNIA

Interurban motor stages are to be permitted to display identifying insignia on their windshields, the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation has ruled. Such stages are to be known as "I.U." vehicles. They are to display insignia approved by the board or else have three-inch letters "I.U." in aluminum paint.

Fifty Degrees Is the Danger Point in Food Preservation

THE DANGER POINT 50 50 THE DANGER POINT

Perishable foods, authorities agree, must be kept at an average temperature below 50 degrees to be fit for use and to prevent wastage.

Too High, Too Low —Both Bad

When the temperature is too high, foods spoil rapidly; when it is too low, foods lose their nourishment value.

The Only Way

Artificial refrigeration the year 'round is the only way that food can always be kept at a safe temperature. Back porch, window-sill, pantry, and cellar makeshifts are unsatisfactory and unsanitary refrigeration methods.

Safeguard Health—Prevent Waste

Modern refrigerators preserve food properly, insure your family's health and prevent costly food waste.

You can inspect many models at the Free Appliance Display at our Main Office, 810 So. Flower Street, Los Angeles. (We do not sell appliances.)

Today's Bible Text

"Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today and forever." Hebrews xiii:8.

NO SUCH ANIMAL

Where do they get that easy-payment stuff?

THE HOME BODY

The philosopher insinuates that it is the ugly duckling who is the greatest help to her mother.

MAKING SAFE

The grape growers can keep peace with the prohibition officers if they will send out a courier to watch the shipments to their destination and ask the purchasers to refrain from letting their grapes ferment. If they can do this much for their country all will be well. It isn't much to ask.

STREET-CAR MAJESTY

New street cars in Pittsburgh are built of aluminum and painted in ivory and ebony. They have form-fitting seats and the passenger can raise or lower his window by the mere turn of a little nickel wheel. We would ungrudgingly contribute a 7-cent fare for these alluring embellishments to city traffic.

SEEMS ROTTEN'

Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale says that the realistic novels of the day are both dull and dirty. So much of it is merely common and unimpressive. The opinion of the professor seems to be that our literary lights should be on the sewer committee instead of fussing with typewriters.

THE BIGGEST HOSPITAL

New York is to have another hospital and medical center to cost $16,000,000 and cover several blocks. The big city has some wonderful plants for patching up worn and torn bodies, but can use them all. There is a waiting line in front of most of them. But it is a fine thing to hitch science and humanity together for the general good.

MAKING OF BOOKS

Last year more than 230,000,000 books were printed in this country. That is about two volumes for every living soul and there is a suspicion that a lot of folks read more than their share. Don't know exactly how many murder and mystery tales are included in this total, but there must have been a raft of them.

N HOURS OF EASE

The convention of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is not to be as sedate as might be imagined. During the meeting there will be a beauty show, a banquet, a dance and a pageant of the naughty nineties. The latter, of course, will be Victorian, but with the lid and skirt both slightly elevated. In the beauty show the delegates themselves will appear and while they are not in competition with the Ziegfeld Follies they will still merit a second look.

NO TEMPTATIONS

Again the court holds that the trapping of miscreants into violations of the law is bad practice. For police officers to bribe or tempt the stranger into a breakage of the Eighteenth Amendment is not good business and must be frowned upon—even if it seems about the only way of obtaining evidence. Officers of the law should themselves come into court with clean hands. They ought not to commit one crime to prove another.

STEPS OF LINCOLN

On the seventy-first anniversary of the historic Lincoln-Douglas debate in the city of Freeport, Ill., a bronze statue of the martyr President was unveiled on the exact spot of the joust of the two orators. The memorial is the gift of a wealthy citizen of the town and Senator Norris delivered the principal speech at the unveiling. There were a number present who listened to the original debate and among them a venerable newspaper man who reported the intellectual tourney for his sheet at the time of its happening and supplied some valuable reminiscences. The seven debates between Lincoln and Douglas were all held in Illinois, but they carried beyond the border and gave to Lincoln that national repute which carried him into the White House two years later. It is a fine thing now to mark the steps of that immortal journey.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Vacation days are over. Another year of desk and blackboard, of lecture and recitation, opens for the teachers and students of 385 Los Angeles schools. Before this coming educational year closes some 380,000 boys and girls will have passed through the doors of our public schools, from kindergarten to junior college, in the many graded institutions provided by democracy for the moral, mental and physical training of its sons and daughters in the metropolis of Southern California.

For everyone connected with or interested in the educational progress of our city this September semester is full of hope and promise. We start with an estimated increase of 9000 pupils over last year's enrollment and with 302 additional instructors to attend to their needs. We have three new junior highs and two new elementary schools to house these recruits to the army of civilization. We have a Board of Education, both progressive and conservative, on which we can rely to administer this great system efficiently and economically. And we have a Superintendent of Schools, born and bred and versed in the educational traditions of the Southwest, who enjoys the confidence of teachers, parents, students and the community at large.

An interesting experiment is being tried out in the latest educational movement to establish a preparatory institution, as it were, between the high school and the university. This year the Los Angeles Junior College, on the old site of the University of California at Los Angeles, will be available for all high school graduates wishing to take this intermediary course. The response to the idea proves the ambition of Los Angeles youth to acquire knowledge has not been overestimated by the authorities. More than 1000 applications have been received. Supt. Bouelle's only anxiety as to the success of the college is the strain on the budget to meet the unexpected demand for its services.

Our school system is somewhat handicapped by the recent refusal of the voters to approve a bond issue to build more schoolhouses to keep pace with the population increase in the last year. In the more rapidly growing sections of the city many classrooms are overcrowded and there is still a general shortage of accommodation for the large numbers added to each succeeding school term. To this condition the Board of Education is devoting close attention and there is hope that when another call for school bonds is placed before the voters, they will see the urgency of the need and give our children facilities in proportion to their needs.

At the beginning of another semester it is natural to take stock of the caliber of our teaching staffs, the ability of school officials and superintendents, the effectiveness of school equipment, textbooks, general supplies, the condition of premises and school grounds, the provisions made for the health and safety of the children. By such a test Los Angeles is ready to stand comparison with the school standards of any city in the United States.

Yet it is not on these scores alone that Los Angeles faces the coming school year with so much faith and hope. It is the quality of the boyhood and the girlhood of the 300,000 enrolled students, their ambition for self-development, their general recognition of the fact that they are grasping an opportunity and not undertaking an unpleasant duty, that from the sowing of the seed in our educational fields promises a fruitful and abundant harvest.

There are many blessings for which Los Angeles has reason to return thanks to a kind providence. Among these none stands higher than the success of our educational institutions. And for this success the type of youth that has developed under western auspices and through Pacific Coast environments is the prime and outstanding factor.

ADMISSION DAY

It was on the ninth day of the ninth month of the year 1850, seventy-nine years ago today, that California was admitted to the sisterhood of States.

Today the tidings could have been flashed in a few seconds, but in 1850 it required forty days. Not until October 18, when the steamer Olympia entered the harbor of San Francisco with flying colors and booming guns, did California learn that her star had been added to the flag. There were only 40,000 people in this part of the public domain, ceded to the United States by the terms of the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo after the Mexican war, when President Polk signed the admission act. Few could have dreamed that in less than eighty years there would be 5,000,000.

California is one of the few States that annually celebrate their admission to the Union. Then the old Bear Flag waves and the Native Sons and Pioneers "rally 'round." Then the band plays "I Love You, California," and the orator of the day reminds his hearers of the fact that, like Minerva, who sprang full panoplied from the brow of Jove, California leaped into Statehood at a bound.

The pioneer now past 90, who as a youth saw the flag raised over the old pueblo of San Jose, then the capital of California, must thrill to think of what has happened here between September 9, 1850, and September 9, 1929. From the day of the stage coach to the day of the airplane, from the day of manana to the day of whirlwind activity—truly it has been a wonderful transition!

BOURBON DIFFICULTIES

That the troubles of the Democratic party would not be ended, but would rather be increased, by the appointment of Jouett Shouse as a sort of neutral arbiter between the two factions of the party, was predicted some months ago in these columns. The prediction is now being fulfilled. Mr. Shouse is being told to keep out of the Virginia campaign as being too friendly to John J. Raskob, who still retains his nominal chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee, and is also being objected to in Boston, where the Bourbons feel the fact that they carried Massachusetts for Smith last fall entitles them to a great deal of say in party affairs.

The tariff, that perennial difficulty-maker for the Democrats, is at the root of the Boston objections. It appears that the Democratic publicity bureau at Washington has been giving entirely too much attention, to suit Boston, to the outgiving of Senator Furnifold McLendel Simmons, who cares not what rate is imposed on Massachusetts products as long as those of North Carolina are well protected. The Boston Democrats, as is customary, are heartily in favor of free trade for such things as are produced in North Carolina but want a tariff on shoes and textiles. Senator Simmons happens to be the ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, but in referring to him the Boston Democrats omit the sign of the present participle and call him rank.

So the proposal to have Mr. Shouse deliver the principal address at a rally, the purpose of which is to select a Democrat to run for the seat now occupied by Senator Gillett, meets in Boston something more active than a cold shoulder. The Boston Post, admitting that he is able and personally likable, declares he has surrendered the national committee to the southern wing of the party, which delivered four States to Hoover while the New England Democrats were capturing two which normally belong in the Republican column.

Such are the difficulties of the would-be peacemaker. Shouse was to take the job and restore harmony, only to discover that the only middle ground in existence is known as purgatory.

Thus booze is not the only question on which the party of Jefferson, Jackson, Tilden, Cleveland and Wilson is split; indeed, in the latest fracas booze has almost been forgotten. Almost, but not quite; it is in the background, along with various other hates and prejudices that are ready to be brought out and paraded at the first favorable opportunity. It is customary to represent the Democracy as a donkey. A more fitting symbol would be two mules pulling in opposite directions with all the stubbornness of which these hybrids are capable.

KEEPING THE PEACE

Two of the warlike tribes of Pathans occupying rough and rugged lands in the neighborhood of Khyber Pass, beyond the eastern border of Afghanistan, recently had deep occasion to quarrel. Invariably in such cases it is a matter of raid and pillage on one side and ambush and slaughter on the other. These scrappy souls never heard of the Kellogg pact, but the world impulse for peace must have found an echo in their bronzed bosoms. At any rate instead of shouldering their ancient muskets and lying in wait for one another they called a jirgah, which is their name for a council of peace, and settled their difference without firing a shot or shedding a drop of blood. It is the first time this has happened within the memory of the oldest tribesman. They are not always fighting. They are frequently highly hospitable toward their neighbors, but when they have a quarrel it runs into knives and bayonets without a moment's hesitation. That they can now compose their differences without show of violence is nothing less than a miracle. This must be getting to be an amiable world after all.

THE LONG JOURNEY

Now an exploring scientist reports the discovery of evidences of a lost Phoenician civilization in the heart of the Brazilian jungle, near the head waters of the Amazon, but this sounds like a fairy tale. There was gossip that the venturesome Phoenician sailormen were able to pass the pillars of Hercules, but it is a safe bet that they never browsed their way a couple of thousand miles up the Amazon. They wouldn't do that even if they were looking for Figueroa street.

WHEN GOLFERS ARE GATHERED TOGETHER

By James J. Montague

Golf is played in beautiful surroundings—somebody or other always seems inspired to spoil the harmony of the scene, however.

Where golfers are gathered together
The grass is all velvety green
And buttercups, roses or heather
Lend their charm to the pastoral scene.
Gems of dew to the blossoms are clinging,
The trees spread their branches above
And the birds are ecstatically singing
Their musical carols of love.
But all that you hear, as you pause in the shade,
Is "Gosh what a terrible foozle I made."

In the distance the partridge is drumming
The quail tunes his pipe in the sedge,
And the brown bees are drowsily humming
As they drift through the blossoming hedge.
The leaves on the sycamores quiver
While under a neighboring hill
You can hear the low song of a river
Or the voice of a murmuring rill.
You also will hear, far more likely than not:
"Oh, H——! Can't I ever get off a good shot?"

When golfers are gathered together
The bright summer hours to while,
Though cloudy or fair be the weather,
Soft Nature wears always a smile.
Afar from the dust and the clamor
Of the towns, with their worry and toil,
One can feel all the soul-soothing glamour
That springs from the dew-sprinkled soil.
But the instant he happens to get off his game
The things that he says are a sin and a shame!

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.

By Lee Shippey

THOUSANDS of tourists come to Los Angeles every year who have never been at sea and want to know that experience. They cannot all go to Hawaii or take a long trip up the coast, but all can go to Catalina or down to San Diego. And as one is never out of sight of land on the Catalina trip it is the San Diego trip on which innumerable inlanders first try their sea wings.

They are such innocents, some of them, that the radio operator on the Harvard wasn't at all surprised the other day when a sweet young thing stuck her head into the radio room and said:

"I beg your pardon. But would you mind playing 'That's What I Call Sweet Music'?"

We Get Some Harvard Education

We took the San Diego trip on the Harvard and were surprised to find the ship so crowded. Every week-end, we were told, both the Harvard and its sister ship, the Yale, are filled to capacity, while on their midweek trips they usually carry between 300 and 400 passengers each. Only a few years ago one of those boats inaugurated service, as an experiment, for summer only. Soon both ships had to be put into the service and now they run all year. And they are by no means the only boats in coastwise trade. The Alexander, especially, is well known among the other boats.

Former Army Transports

The Harvard is more of a ship than we had expected, a good block and one-half long and as completely equipped with lifeboats, buoys and all safety devices as if it were engaged in trans-Atlantic service. It carries a crew of 175 men. The Harvard and the Yale were built for coastwise service between Boston and New York, but were taken over by the government during the World War and used as Army transports. They still fly Naval Reserve flags in token of that service and are required to have a certain per cent of Naval Reserve officers among their officers, so that in case the government needed them again they would immediately be ready for service. The Alexander also was an Army transport during the war. Somehow it gives you a good deal of confidence in a ship to know that Uncle Sam has confidence in it, too.

Much Seagoing Freight

We had luncheon with Mr. Bailey, the chief engineer, and were surprised to see how crowded the dining saloon was. On trans-Atlantic trips, the first day out, the number of vacant chairs and the sad story they told had impressed us. It often was rather dangerous to sit on the lower deck without holding an umbrella to windward. But in the quiet sea lanes these coasters travel one feels almost as if he were sailing up a river. "I'm all right," we heard one woman exclaim, exultantly. "I can do it! Next week we'll go to Honolulu!"

We asked Mr. Bailey how they could afford to carry passengers for less than railroads or stages could, and serve them good meals, when they had that crew of 175 to pay. "You forget the freight," he said. "On every trip we carry great quantities of freight. When we started this service we often had only a dozen passengers or so. Freight was the important thing. Now, with hundreds of passengers, freight still is the most important thing, so far as income is concerned."

San Diego Growing

San Diego has three notable hotels and half a dozen more which are not so famous, but are equally delightful in one way—they give you big-city service for little-city rates. It has, in fact, hotels to suit all tastes. But once every six months or so we like to go to the El Cortez and sit in a window from which the whole city can be seen and watch the town grow. San Diego has grown a lot in the last few years and still is at it. Comparatively speaking, we believe more important building activity is in progress in downtown San Diego right now than in any other city in California.

And yet San Diego still is sweet and simple. You can jaywalk on any corner of the El Cortez with little danger of being run down by a motor car. That, though, may be just because it is up on such a height that all the cars are about winded when they get there. "What genius selected this commanding site?" we heard one visitor exclaim. "No genius—just some taxicab driver," retorted another. "He knew nobody could walk up here and wanted the hotel where they'd all have to ride."

Not Mushroom, But Much Room

But San Diego isn't menaced by mushroom growth. Like Los Angeles, it is enjoying much-room growth, instead. Drive twelve miles out to La Jolla and you still are in San Diego, and then you drive eight miles farther over Torrey Pines before you come to the sign, "San Diego City Limits."

ADMIRAL DEWEY AT CLOSE RANGE

BY BAILEY MILLARD

This debate over what is to be done with Dewey's old flagship, the Olympia, brings before me again the bright, strong face and trim figure of the dapper little old admiral with whom I had some conversations about seven years before his death. I say "admiral," for that was what he still was and what he remained to the end of his life.

The hero of Manila Bay never was retired, being granted by the United States government the exceptional honor of remaining an active officer in the Navy. This was done by special act of Congress. When I had those talks with him he was enduring what must have been the boredom of a season at the fashionable summer resort of Richfield Springs, N. Y. He would rather have been enjoying the comradeship of the good fellows of the Army and Navy Club at Washington, but I was told that Mrs. Dewey had prevailed upon him to go to the springs.

Looking back through the years at the detached and somewhat aloof figure of George Dewey in that great hotel, swarming with guests and with gayety all about him, I am reminded of the admiral hero of the "rocking-chair fleet" in Earl Biggers's clever story of Baldpate Inn. At Richfield it was the same awed and fawning sort of lionizing of the admiral that one finds in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and oddly enough the fictional inn seems to have been located in the same countryside. Perhaps Biggers had Dewey in mind when he introduced his solitaire-playing admiral into his novel.

I went to the springs to induce Dewey to write his memoirs for our magazine, an invitation which he considered favorably, though he had some doubts as to his ability as an author and would make no promises. Such men are always the despair of the impatient editor. Dewey kept putting off the actual writing for a long time. Finally when he did sit down to his typewriter he proceeded as though he had a world of time on his hands. He consumed nearly three years in a task which a trained writer could have tapped off in as many months. Every man to his trade. It would have bothered most authors to undertake the job of sinking a Spanish fleet—that is, in reality; they could have done it readily enough on paper. That was where Dewey had the better of them, though; like Napoleon, he was a better fighter than writer.

At the time I met him the admiral was a little past 70, but erect, alert and fit to command the biggest warship in the Navy. In attire he was a regular fashion plate, though I observed that one neatly polished tan shoe was laced up only to the next-to-the top holes. But that was the only flaw in his make-up. His slightly gray mustache and hair were nicely trimmed and his nails neatly manicured.

What we talked about aside from the proposed memoirs escapes me at the present, but it was rather inconsequential, and of course, had little to do with his great naval feat in Manila Bay, for I knew he was too modest to let himself be drawn out on that subject.

Still he did make one significant remark, and that was that if ever he wrote his life story he would tell the world of one important factor of the Manila affair that had been rather neglected by historians. This "important factor" proved to be that part of his autobiography in which he told how he ordered a shot to be fired across the bow of one of the German ships then in the harbor to impress Admiral Von Diedrich with the fact that the American Navy had established a blockade and would permit no undue activity on the part of the Germans. Von Diedrich, in a vague sort of way, had conceived it his duty to butt in on the pretext of protecting German interests. But Dewey would have none of his interference.

This passage in the Dewey memoirs created a sensation in Germany, where naval writers published scathing articles, denouncing Dewey in hot terms. I can see the old admiral sitting in his rocking chair on the springs hotel veranda, chuckling over the possibility of how that "important factor" would be received in Germany should he conclude to put it into his story of the battle of Manila Bay, which he finally did, to the disgust of the haughty Junkers.

BACK TO THE FARM

The faculty of the New York State School of Agriculture sees a growing need for skilled farm workers and an increasing desire among young men to turn to modern agriculture as a life work. With this in view there has been a revision of the courses. Beginning September 18, the school will offer a two-year course of nine months each year, instead of a three-year course of six months each year.

The change is said to have been demanded by students and prospective students. It is said that the whole trend of agriculture has changed in the last few years. It is slowly recovering from the post-war depression—particularly in the eastern States.

"With the development of co-operative marketing and buying agriculture has become more profitable," according to one of the school authorities. "This, and the promise of even greater prosperity than is contained in the creation of the Federal Farm Board, has caused youth to turn again to agriculture as a life work. There is evidence that the movement of youth from the farm to the city is slowing up, and it is not improbable that a counter-movement may develop within a short time."

The President and the League

ALTADENA, Aug. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I thought it might be interesting to some of your thousands of readers to inquire, at this time when the activities of fifty nations of the world are being exerted for human welfare through the League of Nations, why our President, whom consensus of opinion declares to be the most far-sighted, deepest thinker and possessor of the best will-to-art of any of our Presidents since the Civil War, has refrained from urging our nation to join the said League. That our President has always favored such action is well known.

It is assuredly a fact that the people of the United States desire a membership in the League of Nations and the benefits to be derived therefrom in conjunction with all the other participants.

The world is waiting for this desirable entry of the United States into the League, for such entrance will signify the goodwill, desire for peace, and assured brotherhood of what may be said to be the greatest country of present-day civilization.

Seldom in the history of the United States has an opportunity arisen for a President to act and advise and, thereby, rise to the highest fame.

Doo Killing Denounced

LIGONIER (Pa.) Aug. 31.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Last year Pennsylvania had an open doe deer season. Buck deer hunting, the custom in about all States and Provinces closed. It was an idea of our game officials to pinch hit for nature in establishing a balance of deer sexes, too many does they said.

It was a failure. Confusion, sportsmen ranks split, thousands of fawns killed, etc. Now we return to normal in Pennsylvania, buck with two points to antlers only being legal game the coming season as in all other States. It is an acknowledgment of failure of the doe season.

This is of general interest because the facts may prevent other States from trying this Pennsylvania failure. It is of special interest to California because at the Portland, Or., meeting last summer (1928) the president of our game commission advised your game commission to get out of politics as a move to game efficiency.

Not Fair to Europe

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have followed Mr. Eugene J. Young's articles with a great deal of interest, not because I believe all the trash that he publishes under his signature, but because there are lots of people who do not believe what he says and are greatly troubled by his cynical viewpoint. I do not pretend to have any inside information on European affairs, aside from what I can glean from the newspapers and magazines. These sources are all that any American, unless he is a frequent visitor to Europe, can have. But I am convinced that Mr. Young is either hopelessly prejudiced against Europe as a whole or else he is a propagandist, in the employ of a sinister group, who hope through him to create a false and suspicious view of European affairs on this side of the Atlantic.

If I recall correctly Mr. Young could see no good in the Dawes Plan. He was sure it would break down at the very beginning. In this he proved himself a poor prophet. I am also certain, and a reference to your files will, I am sure, prove me correct, that almost immediately after that plan was put into effect Mr. Young gave us a lot of drivel, about on a par with what he says in his article of September 1.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

For the benefit of those who have some speech defect, such as stammering, stuttering, lisping, and the like, the Polytechnic Evening High School, 400 West Washington Boulevard, will open a class in speech correction on the evening of September 10, from 7 to 9 p.m. The class will meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and there is no charge for tuition. Neither are there any books to buy.

Mrs. Marie W. Lawton, the instructor, says that the chief aim of the work is to inspire confidence and poise in the students.

The school is reached by the "U," "W" and "J" cars; and there are excellent parking facilities adjoining the school. The school is open early for those who wish to come from work and study; and the school cafeteria furnishes wholesome food at a small charge to students only.

GRIEF OF THE GREAT

A famed comedian is here, in Punktown, resting for a year; long he's adorned our native stage, for years and years he's been the rage; with joyous personifiage and chaff he's made a million people laugh, and sung and danced in such a style as well might make a mummy smile. Now, growing old and tired and sad, he comes to loaf around our grad, and here regain the pep and vim he's lately feared were leaving him. And everywhere this great man wends he runs across admiring friends; they crowd around him where he stands, and pleasantly it is a lovely day, the threat of storm has passed away. They wait for him, score after score, before the bank and Blue Front store, and he responds to their salute, and says the morning is a beaut, and he's convinced by every sign, that all the crops are doing fine. He meets crowds on the public square, and gives them greetings round and fair, and says he thinks it good and nice that farm lands have increased in price. And so he smiles and goes his way, and wayfarers look sad and say, "He seems a common sort of wight; we thought he'd hand us something bright. We've heard about him all our lives as being sharp as butcher knives, a man as witty he can make his hearers laugh until they ache; and yet he talks about the crops, the worth of hay, the price of beans. He is a faker, we're afraid, and his renown is German-made." Such are the penalties of fame; celebrities must play their game and never take an hour's repose or all their hard-earned glory goes.

Mrs. Anson Beeman, in apricot chiffon, carrying Drew roses and orange sweet peas, was matron of honor. Shirley Beaudry of Huntington Park served as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, was lovely in white chiffon over satin, bouffant model. Her headdress was of orange blossoms, and she carried an arm shower of white Cecile Brunner and bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The house was beautifully decorated with palms and baskets of autumn flowers. Following the ceremony there were a reception and wedding supper, after which Mr. and Mrs. Eichorn left for a wedding-trip to Catalina Island and San Francisco. After their return they will make their home here.

Lovely Affair

Honoring their house guest, Miss Eleanor Nichols of Kansas City, Mo., Miss Mary Alice Parent and Miss Nancy Parent entertained Wednesday afternoon with a luncheon and bridge at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Parent, in Inglewood. The decorations carried out the early fall motif. Those included were Miss Eleanor Nichols, Miss Florida Craig, Miss Jane Rumbley, Miss Amelia Stroud, Miss Laura Payne, Miss Martha Burford, Miss Jeane Wadsworth, Miss Jane Ellis, Miss Margaret Hanna, Miss Jane Badenoch and the hostesses.

Miss Nichols and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Nichols, have been enjoying a delightful visit in the Southland, and are house guests at the Parent home.

Punching Bag Worn on the Head

The punching bag is highyl recommended as a means of exercise, but for use about the home it has been greatly restricted for it is not always convenient to find a suitable place for its accommodation, being hung, as it is, from a platform suspended from the ceiling. The newest thing in this line is said to be quite as efficient as the leather bag and represents a much smaller investment. It consists of a light bladder bag attached to a loop, which fits about the head. In this position it is possible to keep the ball moving back and forth by blows of the fist and the exercise may be as strenuous as theoperator desires.

There are primitive tribes existing today that have not developed beyond the use of crude stone weapons and that are literally men of the Stone Age.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

PINEAPPLE CHEESE SALAD

One cupful of cream cheese, one-half cupful of chopped nut meats, one tablespoonful of cream, one tablespoonful of pineapple juice, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, six slices of pineapple, one pimiento, three-fourths of a cupful of cooked salad dressing, place the cheese in a bowl add to it the cream, pineapple juice and sugar, mix well, add the nut meats, and mix again, cut the pineapple slices in half crosswise, spread a layer of the cheese mixture on half of a slice, add the other slices of pineapple to form a sandwich, cut diamonds or triangles on the pimientoes, and garnish the top of the pineapple with them. Place on crisp lettuce leaves and serve with a boiled salad dressing.

FRIED ONIONS AND APPLES

Four onions, three large tart apples, one-half a cupful of water, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, heat the butter, cook slowly until nearly tender, slice the apples without peeling, remove the core, and place them on top of the onions, add the water, cover and cook until the apples are soft, remove the cover and allow to cook down until the water has evaporated and the onions and apples are a light brown in color.

LAMB CECILES

Chop sufficient cold cooked lamb to make two cupfuls, add two tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, a seasoning of salt and paprika, a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley, mix all together and add one unbeaten egg, form into balls, about the size of a large walnut, dip in beaten egg, roll in bread crumbs and fry in deep hot shortening.

DUTCH PEACH CAKE

Separate two eggs, beat the yolks until creamy, add to them a cupful of milk, and three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, sifted with one and one-half cupfuls of flour, and three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, beat again, fold in the well-beaten whites of the eggs, pour into an oiled and floured shallow baking pan, cover the top with peeled and halved peaches, dust with half a cupful of sugar, and bake in a moderately hot oven for half an hour. Serve warm with cream.

ACTIVE CHILDREN NEED CAREFULLY REGULATED REST PERIODS

A Happy Young Mother writes: "I have read your column for some time and surely enjoy it. I am coming to you with a problem that seems small in comparison to some that you answer. I have a boy nearly 17 months old who weighs twenty-six pounds, and as he weighed only four and one-half pounds at birth I think this is pretty good. He has sixteen teeth and another is nearly through. I never know when a new one is coming as he is never cross. He goes to bed at 7:30 and sleeps straight through until 6 or 7. He eats anything and never has to be forced or coaxed. Now my problem is that in his sleep he twitches and jerks, and is awfully restless. Do you think it is nervousness, and how shall I correct it?"

ANSWER

Strong and active children of alert minds are very apt to play to the point of extreme fatigue. The whole world is so fascinating that their brains are constantly stimulated. Add to this the labor of running about all day and you can understand why the child will go to bed and be unable to relax and rest quietly.

Put the child to bed directly after lunch and manage a rest period, if not a nap, by giving him some nonexciting toy to play with, or keep him quiet by reading him some drowsy stories. If books stimulate him too much, do not let him look at them. If he uses his muscles more and his brain less he'll be better off for the time being, since mental activities excite him too much.

Be careful, too, about prebedtime romps. The child may laugh and scream with pleasure during the romp but afterward he is unable to settle down. His nerves are still jumping though he falls asleep.

Even tiny babies show this disposition to jump and jerk in their sleep. They need more rest and more placid handling. Holding a tiny baby is a stimulant to him. He needs some of this for his best development, but the more nervous he is, the less he needs to be handled and stimulated. Such babies need quiet and calm voices and much sleep. The mother of each baby and child who shows these nervous symptoms will know best what to eliminate in his day in order to bring about greater repose and more restful slumber.

GUIDING YOUR CHILD

OVERNIGHT HIKES

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

At this time of year the overnight hike is at its best. If the children have not yet been on such a trip, be sure to take them before the month is out. Now the days will be cooler. Mornings in the country will be fresh and beautiful; even the noon-day heat will not be too intense.

Then take out a road map and plan a hike to some spot away from the traveled roads. Take along provisions and blanket rolls; ponchos or slickers to keep out the moisture from the ground. Thus equipped, start off for the adventure of tramping through hills and valleys and of sleeping one night at least under the broad, starry sky.

The children will love to build the camp fire and cook their supper over it. Then tired and full fed, they will roll themselves up in their blankets and ponchos and go to sleep on the hard, but friendly earth.

To the child an overnight hike is an adventure. There is the uncertainty of reaching one's destination, the crude, but heavenly meal cooked in a fire which required labor and ingenuity to contrive, the possible factors of rain and storm, the going to sleep on the dewy ground to sound of chirping creatures and rustling leaves and grasses. Not only are these things thrilling, they are, too, of that simple joyousness which is the right of every child.

If as you start out your blanket roll and share of the food do not already constitute too heavy a load, be sure to take along a camera with which to take pictures of the trip which will serve as reminders to the children of a happy time.

If they are interested in birds or trees or flowers, slip into your pocket, too, one of the little guide books which you probably have on the library shelf.

Laundering Shirts

Dip the neckbands, cuffs and front pleats of men's negligee shirts into a weak starch water and you will find the shirts will launder better and stay clean longer.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Something to Look At

When you know the sick person is fond of a certain picture in the house hang it in the room in which he or she is convalescing. It might add a note of cheer.

Stains on Marble

A paste of Fuller's earth and water spread on the grease spots on marble and allowed to stand for a few days will entirely remove them. Wash off and polish.

A Preventive

Soft paper napkins may be used by the person suffering with a bad cold instead of handkerchiefs. They may be burned and no infection spread. This is a simple matter if one is around the house most of the time.

Instead of a Nail

If you wish to hang a calendar in the kitchen where there are only painted walls attach a tiny piece of adhesive tape to the calendar and the other end to the wall. This will save driving nails or screws into the plaster.

Don't put all your eggs in one basket or in one omelet

GIVE THE TOES ROOM

You have undoubtedly seen the cripple man in the circus who used his great toe for writing, brushing his hair, helping to dress, and picking up various objects. The toe is naturally prehensile, as are the fingers. However, the toes of most of us, after being cramped into the shoes and accustomed for years to little or no movement, are so stiffened and rigid that we find it hard to use them at all.

Some races develop their ability to use their toes almost as readily as their hands. We read about Chinese oarsmen who use their toes to work the oars, and of the native Australians who grasp trees while climbing with the great toe, and of the Hindoo tailors who ply their needles with the help of the toe. So accustomed are we to shoes, however, that when we, at the beach, see some individual who saves himself the trouble of stooping over, by picking up papers, socks, pencils, matches or clothing with his toes, we stop and wonder in awe and admiration.

When you are buying your shoes, you should be most particular to find the type of shoe which will allow the toes, all of them, enough room to move properly. Both the shoes and stockings should fit correctly, if real foot comfort is to be yours. When stockings are too long, they will cause blisters, while those too short will pull the toes painfully backward. The hose should be changed daily, and it is well to alternate with one pair of shoes one day and another the next. By placing the shoes in the closet with shoe-trees inside they will last longer, and this gives the odor of perspiration a chance to dry out of them.

In buying a shoe, be sure that it is broad enough to do away with the deplorable tendency of the big toe to push the others over and buckle them over in such a position that the underneath toenail sways away on the upper toe, and the joints are so stretched that bunions result. By allowing the big toe room to stretch out and push against the ground in walking, the arch is developed, and this assists in giving the body a good bearing.

The twenty-six bones of the remarkably sculptured foot structure, as well as the foot ligaments and the foot nerves are each one capable of hurting if they are cramped into a too-tight shoe. The familiar limp and walk of the one who tries to save the feet, while the face is screwed up in pain, is the universal sign of new shoes or of shoes not yet broken. There used to be a custom in England that the Prince never wore a new shoe until it had been broken in for several days by a substitute. This would be a good plan for all of us, but unfortunately it is not practicable and, to avoid the pain, it is better to buy a shoe which will really fit the foot.

The shoe should be as broad as the foot is while bearing the weight of the body, and as long as the foot is while the longitudinal arch is extended by the body's weight. In measuring the foot for fitting, place the ruler on the floor and measure the foot while you are stepping on it. You will then get the correct length. When the feet are at rest inside the shoe the toes do not come clear to the end. Besides fitting for length and breadth, the shoe should be fitted around the ankle, with no grabbing or stretching on the part of the leather.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Insomnia

Question: K. O. writes: "Sometime ago I saw advertised in the paper a new electrical device to cure sleeplessness. As I have been suffering from insomnia for quite a while, I would like to know what you think of this, and where I could find it."

Answer: Many experimental machines have been devised for use in attempting to induce sleep, but I do not know where any such apparatus is obtainable on the market. The main object is to produce a sort of hypnosis, but you can do this just as well, yourself, by completely relaxing, and mentally repeating the word "sleep" over and over again. As long as you have no physical irritation which keeps you awake, the repeated suggestion of the word "sleep" or "sleepy" will always get results and is a sure cure for insomnia.

Near-sightedness

Q.: W. R. S. writes: "I am a little near-sighted and look very funny in glasses. Could my eyes be cured any other way besides wearing glasses?"

A.: Near-sightedness can be helped to some degree by improving the general health, and by taking the eye exercises. These exercises will strengthen the muscles of the eyes sometimes enough so that you can go without glasses, even though your eye defect is not entirely corrected. It is advisable to wear glasses at least when reading as long as the near-sightedness continues.

Large Nose

Q.: 'G. H. asks: "Is there any way of making a large nose small by operation? If so, is it dangerous and where would you advise me to go for it, and what is the cost of such an operation?"

A.: I would not advise anyone to try to reduce the size of his nose by an operation unless, perhaps, he happens to be in the theatrical profession. This operation is dangerous, and always very expensive if performed by a skilled plastic surgeon. You should be proud of your large nose, as physiognomists and phrenologists tell us it is a sign of great mental powers.

ACCIDENT CASE DAMAGES GIVEN

Station Agent Hurt While Helping Truckman

Court Holds Employer of Latter Liable

Sum of $5000 Awarded to Plaintiff

If an employee of one company asks an employee of another company to help him with some work and the latter is injured through the negligence of the man who sought his aid, the first man's employers are liable for damages, in the opinion of Superior Judge Yankwich, who awarded $5000 damages to William S. Cropper at the close of the trial of his suit against the Atlas Scraper Company. The hearing of the action, which was a very unusual one, was held last week.

Cropper, who is a station agent of the Union Pacific Railway Company at Bell, sued the Atlas Scraper Company for injuries he received while helping the employees of the defendant company unload one of its scrapers on to the station platform from a delivery truck.

ACCIDENT DESCRIBED

The plaintiff testified that on the day of the accident he was in his office and saw the company's truck approaching. One of the men on the truck told him he had a scraper to unload and needed some help. Cropper volunteered to help him.

The truck, Cropper said, had been driven up and the company's employees began edging the scraper on to the platform. Cropper had a crowbar with which he helped remove it. Suddenly the truck moved and Cropper was thrown into the air, fell and suffered injuries which laid him up in a hospital. Medical testimony showed that he still is suffering from the effects of the injuries.

The defense of the Atlas Scraper Company was that their employees did not request Cropper to help them. They further contended that even if they did they were not liable because no negligence on their part was shown and anyway they were not authorized to request assistance, also that Cropper was merely a volunteer.

JUDGE'S RULING

"While the question is not without difficulty," said Judge Yankwich, in announcing his decision in favor of the plaintiff, "I am of the opinion that, while, under certain circumstances, no liability arises from the act of an employee in requesting a stranger to perform a part of his work or aid therein, a different rule should apply where the work requested to be performed is not menial and could not easily be performed without such aid. In such a case, where the employee is required to do certain work and the assistance is not a delegation to another of the work that the employee himself is required to do, but work in addition to that of the employee himself and without which the employer's task could not easily be performed, authority to ask for such assistance (in mechanical matters) will be implied.

"If, in the performance of such task, the stranger is injured through the negligence of the employees, the employer will be held liable."

DIVORCE TANGLE UNUSUAL

Mrs. Edith C. Barnes, who is mentally unbalanced and cannot realize she has been divorced, may have her divorce set aside, it is revealed by a record of proceedings in Probate Court, where Superior Judge Stephens appointed Mrs. Edith Slater guardian.

Mrs. Barnes has been living on county charity, although possessing real estate worth many thousands of dollars, because she could not realize any profits from her holdings.

An attempt will be made by the woman's husband, it is said, to have divorce proceedings set aside, so a new division of community property can be made.

CHARGES OF ATTACK FAIL TO AID PAIR

Couple Convicted on Rum Counts Despite Assertion Police Were Drunk

A plea by Thomas White, defense attorney, that his clients had been attacked by drunken police officers and had merely defended themselves failed to save John Meyers and Mrs. Hasel Meyers from conviction by a jury in Municipal Judge Sheldon's court. Mrs Meyers, found guilty of liquor possession, was acquitted on the charge of resisting an officer, but her husband, who is declared by Deputy City Prosecutor Kaufman to have served penitentiary sentences for felonies in five different States, was found guilty of sale and possession of liquor, of resisting an officer, and of battery. If his motion for a new trial is denied on the 13th inst., Meyers faces a possible sentence of six years and nine months in jail on all four charges.

Police Officers Belcher and Harlan, called as witnesses by Kaufman, testified that they purchased liquor from Meyers and from Ralph Hill, who changed his plea to guilty during the trial, at the Meyers apartment at 834 Stanford avenue. Following the sale, they declared, Officers Southard and Duncan entered the apartment and placed the trio under arrest. Officer Duncan was attacked and severely injured by Myers, he declared, while force was necessary to subdue Meyers and his wife before they would submit to arrest.

Hill, following his plea of guilty, was sentenced by Judge Sheldon to serve forty days in jail for selling liquor and to pay a fine of $500 with the option of spending forty days in jail on the possession charge. He had prior convictions on both charges, according to Kaufman.

SLAP TAKEN AT REDONDO BY HERMOSA

Smaller Town Organizes Committee and Denounces Proposed Annexation

The annexation war in Hermosa Beach has reached the committee-forming stage, it is indicated by communications to the County Board of Supervisors, which will be considered today.

The latest letter is from the Consolidated Committee of Hermosa Beach Opposed to Annexation with Redondo, and refers to the proposal to annex the smaller town to Redondo Beach as a "baseborn agitation," and an "assault on the dignity and peace of Hermosa Beach."

What might be referred to as a "dirty crack" at Redondo is suggested by reference to that city as an "amusement center" and its comparison with "Hermosa Beach, a city of the sixth class, the same as Beverly Hills, and one of the most wholesome seaside communities in America."

Business in Hermosa is "being unsettled and injured" by the agitation for annexation, it is stated.

Girl Arrested in Liquor Sale at Apartment

Asserted to have sold a police operative a soda pop bottle full of whisky for $2, a 18-year-old girl, Virginia Peres, was taken into custody early yesterday for suspected violation of the Wright Act.

The arrest was made at an apartment-house at 2039 East First street by Officers Bieger and Frey of the police vice squad. The officers report that the purchase was made with marked money, given to the operative. The girl denies that she made the sale or that she was in possession of any liquor. The officers said that the arrest was made as the result of several complaints that bootlegging was being carried on at the above address.

CAB COMPANY ORDERED TO RELOCATE STAND

On complaint of J. C. Riggin, operator of a pool hall at 912 West Second street, that California Cab Company drivers, with a stand opposite his premises, not only "smoke, and use language unbecoming cab drivers, but that they also use his wash room, towels and soap without paying for them," the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation has given the company thirty days in which to relocate the cab stand. Higgins stated that although he signed the petition for the company's cab stand he now wishes to withdraw his signature to further use of the stand in front of his property.

PAVING FUND REQUESTED

The City Engineer has filed with council a request for an allocation of $5550 toward the paving of Edna street between Dorchester and Farnsworth avenues. This was referred to the Finance Committee. The report states that the street is being placed in condition for motor bus traffic, and that the original estimate was so low that if paid by the assessment district it will increase the cost per lot from $10 to $24.

AIR MINSTRELS TAKING LAY-OFF

Programs of Week Reflect Radio Show Fatigue

No Changes Announced for Today's Schedules

San Francisco Jamboree to be KHJ Offering

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Local stations have announced no change in schedule today and it is assumed they will be on the air their usual number of hours despite the Admission Day holiday.

The Don Lee station, KHJ, will give its usual jamboree from 8 to 10 o'clock this evening from San Francisco. KEJK, Beverly Hills, announces the studio ensemble and Helen Fraser Macmillan at 9 p.m.

KFI's studio feature seems to be the 7 o'clock recital hour of Regina Kahl, dramatic soprano, while KMTR is to broadcast the Marimba Band during the same hour, directed by Paul Finstein.

During the 8 to 9 p.m. period KNX is to have some theatrical talent and KTM announces its instrumental quintet and dance band.

As a matter of fact, it looks as though the various broadcasters who did their best to entertain at the Radio Show last week are taking a little rest this week.

The outlook for the week in broadcast doesn't seem at all promising.

CALIFORNIA MAKERS FORM ASSOCIATION

The California Radio Manufacturers' Association has been formed by a group of radio manufacturers who believe their products, made in this State, have a special appeal for western fans because the sets are adapted especially for the conditions which are peculiar to this side of the Rockies.

The thirteen firms represented in the membership build their sets in California, balance them in local laboratories and employ radio engineers who are well versed in conditions here.

"Eleven hundred dealers now sell receivers made by factory members of the association," say members of the group. "Nearly 40,000 people are now supported by the radio industry in California. Many thousands of California-made radios are giving service in homes of the State, and the number is rapidly increasing each week."

Firms affiliated with the California Radio Manufacturers' Association use a gold and blue seal label with the wording, "A California-Made Radio," on each set.

Hospital Inmate Smothers Self

In the throes of an epileptic seizure Delbert Arnold, 20 years of age, smothered himself to death in a bundle of bed clothes in the State Hospital at Norwalk yesterday morning, according to a report at the Coroner's office.

The body was removed to the County Morgue where a post mortem examination will be made to determine if a police investigation is necessary.

Arnold lived in Santa Ana, it was stated, and was an inmate at the hospital.

FALL UNVEILING HOSTESS NAMED

Anita Page to Appear Wednesday Night

Film Actress Praises New Modes

MISS ANITA PAGE, M.-G.-M. player, has been named official hostess for the downtown stores which will unveil their windows for the fall fashions Wednesday night, in celebration of the "Modes of Autumn, 1929" pageant.

Miss Page will give the signal to the buglers from the Boy Scouts of America at the stroke of 7 o'clock, and as the boys sound their calls, the lights will flash on and curtains be drawn in hundreds of gaily decorated windows.

The official hostess will make a personal tour of inspection, and herself will wear one of the newest fall creations, and ensemble, featuring the new feminine trend of the mode, the longer skirts, uneven hem lines, and the new and attractive hats. Her wrap will be an imported swan-suede cloth coat, belted, and with luxurious fur collar and cuffs.

Many well-known cinema favorites will accompany Miss Page in her tour of inspection through the downtown streets, where they will join the thousands of other Los Angeles folk who will be scanning the latest from the designers of Los Angeles, New York and Paris.

According to announcements from the participating stores, the window decorations and displays will be more elaborate than anything yet unveiled for a season's changing. Everywhere there will be beautifully executed backgrounds, symbolic of autumn, and in the softly shaded lights will be grouped the tantalizing creations which will mark the mode of fall.

Miss Page issued a special invitation to Southern California girls to attend the unveiling ceremonies.

"I am sure there is no girl in Southern California who will not love the gorgeous new modes," said Miss Page. "I want every single one of them to come downtown Wednesday night and see the windows. I can say, because I have seen the advance models, that no city in the country can boast so many marvelous things and such attractive windows."

CITY WINS OIL ZONE LAWSUIT

Companies Estopped from Drilling Operations Near Hillcrest Country Club

The Los Angeles city zoning ordinance again is upheld in a decision just handed down by United States District Judge James. In the case of the Marblehead Land Company, a Ridge concern, and the Standard Oil Company of California against the City of Los Angeles, in a suit in equity, Judge James held that the city was exercising its proper police powers in prohibiting the plaintiff companies from drilling for or producing oil in a large acreage south of Pico Boulevard and east and south of the Hillcrest Country Club.

It was held by the plaintiffs that they had begun sinking wells for oil, but as yet had no producing wells. The court held that the operation of an oil well carried with it "noise and debris" and that the city, through its broad police powers, has a right to regulate the operations of the companies in any particular section, especially a residence district. The court ruled with the city and against the plaintiffs.

Record Class in Extension Work Expected

Provision is being made at the University of California at Los Angeles for the largest enrollment ever recorded in its extension division. More than 150 classes will be organized during the week of the 23rd inst., and many other classes will be organized the same week in other southern cities, including Fullerton, Glendale, Garden Grove, Hollywood, North Hollywood, Long Beach, Monrovia, Pasadena, Pomona, Redlands, Redondo, Riverside, San Diego, San Fernando, San Pedro, Santa Ana, Santa Barbara, Santa Monica, Santa Paula, Ventura and Whittier.

U.C.L.A. ARRANGES TO HOUSE STUDENTS

Housing facilities adequate to accommodate the anticipated enrollment of students at the University of California at Los Angeles, have been arranged, Dr. E. J. Miller, dean of men, and Dr. Helen M. Laughlin, dean of women, announced yesterday. Accommodations for both men and women have been found adjacent to the new campus, a large number of the houses being within walking distance, they said. More than a month ago Dr. Laughlin said she had arranged housing facilities for women students ample to take care of the expected enrollment. Dr. Miller has completed a survey and published a list of available accommodations for more than 500 men, exclusive of the fraternity and club groups.

POSTOFFICE OFFICIAL WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Announcement was made yesterday by Postmaster O'Brien that W. R. Spillman, deputy first assistant Postmaster-General, will arrive here today to make part of a survey of California postoffices. Mr. Spillman will inspect the offices at Long Beach, Terminal Island, Wilmington, San Pedro, Glendale and Pasadena. He will leave next week for Sacramento, where he will attend the national convention of postmasters. He will stay at the Alexandria while here.

COMEDY OF PROBLEMS PRESENTED

Edna Hibbard Heads Cast of Capable Players in "The Door Between"

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Be not deceived by "The Door Between." The title of this play may connote mystery and chills, or something akin thereto, but the mystery, if there be any about this comedy by Vincent Lawrence, is why he, the author, should have chosen the anemic subterfuge of a platonic marriage as his plot, and the chills will probably be merely those of embarrassment suffered by the critical showgoer who must listen to the hectic cavortings of the dialogue in a very bad final act.

"The Door Between" stars Edna Hibbard, who was lately seen here in "Let Us Be Gay," and it plays at the Belasco Theater. Richard Tucker and Kenneth Thomson afford the support. The characters of account are played by Miss Hibbard and the two men, the only other obtrusive figure being a butler enacted by Harry Stafford, with Jeannette Miller in a character bit of some small consequence. It is, all in all, a cast that does competent if uphill work.

Lawrence has authored better plays in constructing than "The Door Between." He has dealt valorously with very thin material as witness his "In Love With Love." However, his current adventure, which is new here, is well-nigh aerosaque. Its excuse, if it has one, for being, is that it provides a share of laughs for an audience that desires much to laugh, and who can put up with a degree of silliness in so doing.

I may say in extenuation that the surprise finish to the second act nearly saved the day, and would have compensated had there not been the let-down of the third. Epilogues, after much has been said and nearly all is done, are generally discouraging. However, it may be granted that the ultimate fling of permiffage in this play is at least brief.

In plot this piece has to do with the almost problem-like question of whether a doctor should wed and be happy with the woman he weds, if he has been so unfortunate as to minister to her prior husband on the occasion of his death. Also it deals indirectly of with whether a wholly platonic marriage between them will work out . . . and which way?

The doctor prevails upon the woman to accept him as his provider. The understanding is that she is to live under the same roof, but separately. Hence "the door between." The doctor, seriously attending to the bargain he has made, fails to recognize that the woman desires romantic attendance, until his best friend discovers the fact for him by making love to his wife-in-name-only.

So far, so natural. "The Door Between" is consistent . . . and incidentally light. There is good comedy in the lines, especially for those who crave comedy. The characters are very fairly drawn.

It is the surprise finish of the second act, which good as it may seem momentarily, really reacts to the play's defeat. There is nothing left to say after it is over and the third act is vacuously tacked on.

However, "The Door Between" is not lacking in entertainment, and discloses Miss Hibbard dually effective both emotionally and in comedy. She builds a character where there is little or no character at all, and she gives crisp animation to the lines she speaks. Of the three principal roles, however, hers really affords the least opportunity for making an obvious impression, the chances of both Tucker and Thomson being much greater.

Thomson imbues with a gay and rather roystering note his impersonation of a man-about-town. His comedy is genteel the while. Tucker is assigned the doctor, who remains in type for the better part of a prologue and two acts, and then becomes something closely related to a lunatic for the rest. It is during this part of the play that he is presumed to win the heart of the lady.

I think that Lawrence was stuck for a wind-up when he wrote this play. Whatever appeal it achieves will be due to the strenuous exertions of the company that essays to play it. That may go rather far in fooling one as to the piece's weaknesses at times, but will scarcely deceive the critical.

After all, though, "The Door Between" is fashioned only for those on entertainment bent. It may thrive fairly on that account.

Train Complex Harries Noted Variety Team

When Van and Schenck, the popular vaudeville song-comedy team, arrived in Hollywood to make their feature-talkie debut for M.-G.-M. studios, they welcomed the chance, as any trouper would, to settle down for a while. They took homes and proceeded to forget all about the years of travel, the packing and unpacking, the hotel life, catching trains, split-week stands, and other unpleasant features of a vaudeville star's life.

They reported for work in their baseball picture, "Take It Big," which Jack Conway is directing, and were conducted to the locale of their labors: the interior of a sleeping car!

ELINOR FLYNN MAY JOIN "SHOW GIRL"

Elinor Flynn, the little actress who plays the pathetic role of Cricket in George Scarborough's play "Bad Babies," now running at the Figueroa Playhouse, may return to New York after her contract expires to appear in Flo Ziegfeld's "Show Girl."

The noted producer wanted Miss Flynn for one of the numerous dance solos with which "Show Girl" abounds, but the actress and dancer was appearing as leading woman for Benny Rubin and Pat Rooney pictures at the time, and could not leave.

OLD STYLES REVIVED

Parisian styles of the thirteenth century are being revived for Paramount's all-color dialogue and song romance, "The Vagabond King," which stars Dennis King. The action of the story takes place in 1463.

Brilliant Premiere Planned

Lurene Tuttle

Is one of the featured players in "The Youngest," which will enjoy a gala first showing tonight at the Vine-street Theater. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is the star of the production, and many screen celebrities are expected to attend.

AUDIENCE IS WINNER AT ORPHEUM

Impromptu Battle of Wits by Comics Proves Treat; Other Acts Versatile

BY JOHN L. SCOTT

Crackling humor and dry wit from Jack Benny permeate the auditorium of the Orpheum Theater this week, and plus the heroic efforts of Bert Wheeler to "get laughs," as the latter repeats many times during the program, provide a very agreeable two hours of entertainment. Benny is himself, therefore making a review of his antics simple and yet intricate, for the "Cinemaster of Ceremonies" generates his observations on timely topics more or less on the spur of the moment.

The current R.K.O. effort takes on the aspect of a surprise bill, several features appearing without advance notice. One is the combined act of Benny and Wheeler, easily the principal offering. The two stellar comedians engage in a battle of wits, each trying to outdo the other. The result is to the benefit of the audience. Preconceived or not, it is great fun.

Benny's individual act is accomplished with the aid of Mann Brothers' Orchestra, a local troupe, and a tiny Japanese girl who is one of the "surprises." The little oriental Miss presents high-kicking of a caliber not seen on the local variety stage in many months. Her name is announced by Benny, who probably concocted it out of the air. No one yet knows what it is. The orchestra is fair, and as a violin player, Mr. Benny is a wonderful dancer.

Bert Wheeler, more widely known in the East than here, assisted by a combination foil and pianist, and a feminine partner, also lends an extemporaneous note. He and Benny are engaged in acting in talking pictures in Hollywood at present, and both comment on the short time they have to prepare an act. A carefully thought-out routine, however, would have added nothing. The two comics are the kind who project bright personalities over the footlights with no apparent effort.

Albert Carroll, who scored heavily in "The Grand Street Follies" in New York, gives his one-man revue, consisting of impersonations of noted stage and screen stars, namely Mary Nash in "The Command to Love;" Mrs. Fiske and Ethel Barrymore in "The Merry Wives of Windsor;" John Barrymore in a burlesque of "Hamlet;" Haidee Wright in "The Royal Family," and others. The last-named sketch, done in costume, is perhaps the best.

Danny Small and partner open the versatile bill with "Songs and Such," and Stanley, Owen and Howe present additional music.

RUDY VALLEE TO APPEAR AT R.K.O.

Bert Wheeler, Jack Benny Also Scheduled for Gala Theater Premiere

Rudy Vallee and his "Connecticut Yankees," probably the most sought after band in the world today, will make their first personal appearance on the Pacific Coast at the opening of the new R.K.O. Theater Wednesday night, when Radio Pictures' all-talking feature, "Street Girl," has its western premiere, according to announcement made last night by theater officials.

Vallee, who almost overnight has swept to the heights and a weekly salary of $3000, has been the toast of New York since his graduation from Yale a short time ago. He arrived in Hollywood about a week ago to make a talking picture for Radio Pictures.

Bert Wheeler, noted comedian who recently came to Hollywood to portray the same role in the screen version of "Rio Rita," which he essayed with success in the Ziegfeld production in New York, will also appear on the gigantic program which is to be presented. Jack Benny has been obtained by the theater to act as master of ceremonies on the opening night program.

Another feature of the premiere showing of "Street Girl" will be the presence of the Radio Pictures dancing chorus of fifty girls.

Cliff Edwards to Perform as Mayan Feature

The stars of "Marianne," the screen musical comedy starring Marion Davies now at the Mayan Theater, will appear on the stage as well as the screen during the next few days. Starting Tuesday evening, by special arrangement with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, one of the principals will make a personal appearance each night on the Mayan stage.

The first star to be seen and heard in person will be "Ukulele Ike," otherwise known as Cliff Edwards, who scores in "Marianne" as "Soapy," the laziest doughboy in the A.E.F. Naturally he will bring his ukulele for his stage appearance.

"Marianne" is said to be attracting crowds daily and proving to be one of the most entertaining pictures of the year.

Detailed Count of Attendance Made at Circle

Approximately 4,000,000 patrons have visited the Carthay Circle Theater since it opened, it is reported. The 224th person to buy a ticket to "Dynamite" at a recent performance happened to be the four-millionth patron to pass through the doors of the theater.

Carli Elinor, managing director of the theater, presented Patron No. 4,000,000 with a season pass as he entered. By a peculiar coincidence, the lucky patron happened to be Bernard Steele, stage director of Will Rogers's first all-talking comedy romance of youth, "They Had to See Paris," which has its gala world premiere at the Carthay Circle on the 18th inst.

The attendance at the Fox Carthay Circle averages about 1,100,000 persons a year, according to the detailed figures compiled by Spencer Love, house manager.

BROWN FILM AT RITZ

"Wonder of Women," directed by Clarence Brown, starring Lewis Stone, Leila Hyams and Peggy Wood, will be shown at the Ritz Theater today. A full program of talking and singing short subjects will be seen on the same program.

AUNT MARY SIPS ANEW OF YOUTH

Perennial Role Revived With Sentiment by May Robson

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

In the person of the handsome Jack Denham's stiff-laced old aunt wh lived down on the farm with her two hired folk, Lucinda and Joshua, May Robson traveled city-ward and sin-ward yesterday afternoon to accomplish once again, this time at the Hollywood Playhouse, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary."

Miss Robson brought this sprightly and favored Anne Warner comedy to life long ago. While today it is somewhat old-fashioned when reckoned in the same breath with sharp realism and swift plot motivation, the years have not dimmed the luster of its sentimental philosophy, nor lessened the gales of merriment it provokes.

A friendly audience, gathered at the Playhouse yesterday, took it and Miss Robson warmly to heart. She, responding to the affectionate greeting of approval, reminded all present that this was her forty-sixth year on the stage and furthermore "age was entirely a quality of mind."

It was an appropriate curtain speech for such a piece as "Aunt Mary." For in the play, Miss Robson demonstrates ably how a spinster lady of the country may, when occasion warrants, take on skittish city airs and thereby gain appreciation and enjoyment of the lively life led by a younger generation.

Such a warmly human, forthright performance as only Miss Robson can give in a role so cut to her measure as this, was seen yesterday. The show is May Robson. Other members of the cast seemed only incidental background assembled for the purpose of giving her greater opportunity to project a hugely sympathetic and graciously lovable personality.

For all of this feeling, however, James Bush and Emily Lowry were a properly romantic and brightly youthful pair of sweethearts. There was, too, an excellent scene, minus Miss Robson, in the beginning of the second act, when members of a male quartet, gathered about the piano, were heard tunefully in modern popular songs.

Miss Lillian Harmer as Lucinda, the hired girl, and Donald Campbell as Joshua, the hired man, gustily captured the old-time rural flavor. It is interesting to note that Miss Harmer and Fred Trowbridge, in the person of one of the "young folks," were seen in the last presentation in Los Angeles of "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." This was at the Mason in 1924.

Perhaps the sophisticated and philosophic "Aunt Mary" will continue her quest of perpetual youth and Los Angeles will see many more revivals of the old comedy. Be that as it may, the present offering is capital fun and should not be missed by followers of Miss Robson.

James Whale on Way to Direct 'Journey's End'

Making a sensational success since its opening at the Savoy Theater in London, R. C. Sherriff's "Journey's End," a stage play with a World War theme, will be made into a talking picture by Tiffany-Stahl-Gainsborough, it was announced yesterday. James Whale, one of the most spectacular figures in stage life, will direct the film, and is now en route to Hollywood to direct the dialogue for "Hells Angels," after which "Journey's End" will be started.

Before leaving New York, Whale announced that present plans were to have only male characters in the screen version. "It is my intention to follow the stage dialogue with faithfulness," he said. "I believe this play is so great that it will prove equally powerful if transferred to the screen practically as it is now seen on the stage."

Whale is 34 years old and unmarried. He served as lieutenant in the British army and was captured at Ypres. While in a German prison camp he devoted himself to studying stage technique and acting.

Date of "Fast Life" Advanced

Due to a change in bookings, "Fast Life," the story of jazz-mad youth which, is to be the next attraction at Warner Brothers' Theater in Hollywood, will start Thursday. The opening of the First National picture has been advanced from the date originally announced.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Loretta Young and Chester Morris are the featured players in the picture, which was adapted from the stage play of the same name by Samuel Shipman and John B. Hymer. Fairbanks and Miss Young make up the youngest screen team in Hollywood, it is said, and Morris is also a youthful actor, the trio heading an all-youth cast of a picture which deals with modern youth.

Lions Approve Radio Program

Numa, film star, and his supporting troupe of 130 African lions are enjoying their annual program of radio concerts this week at Gay's Lion Farm, El Monte. Once a year the lions are given their fill of music, but at all other times the farm is quiet save for the occasional roar of the jungle monarchs.

On current programs, the lions reacted most favorably to Paul Whiteman's Orchestra, on their selections broadcast from New York, while Aarnamson's Commanders, Earl Burtnett's Orchestra, and Moeby's Blue Blowers drew the most approval over local stations. Of the individual entertainers, June Purcell scored the biggest hit. Harold Isbel proved the favorite announcer.

NARCOTIC FARM RUMOR UNTRUE

Redlands Not to Be Location of Unwanted Institution

Report From Site Committee Member Dispels Fears

Civic Bodies Oppose Effort to Secure Hospital

REDLANDS, Sept. 8.—Leaders in the Chamber of Commerce, the Redlands Rotary Club and other civic organizations here opposing the location of a government narcotic farm near Redlands are rejoicing because the rumors were virtually dispelled yesterday in a report from Dr. Walter Treadway, a member of the site committee.

Effort had been made by private interests to bring the hospital to two sites near here, one near Mentone and the other in Yucaipa, but the committee has virtually decided that if the hospital is placed in the west, it will be near the Colorado River, according to the report of Dr. Treadway. Two sections are now being considered, a western section and an eastern section. The western section includes the southwestern portion of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. The eastern division is more general and includes West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Kentucky.

The report continues: "In making this selection of areas the committee took into account a number of factors, including geographical distribution of general population, geographic distribution of prospective inmates, railroad transportation facilities, climatic conditions with relation to outdoor activities and other considerations. Our committee then drew up in a broad way specifications desired for actual sites for these two narcotic farms, including the recommendation that an area of 1000 acres should be provided for each of the two institutions, that each should be accessible to towns of from 20,000 to 40,000 population, should be served by trunk line railroads, should have satisfactory water facilities and potential accommodations in each institution for a maximum of 1500 inmates, and agricultural adaptability."

After the recommendation had been made to James Wetmore, supervision architect of the Treasury, he was asked to make survey of the proposed sections. The possibility of purchasing or otherwise procuring private sources to furnish such locations has been suggested.

It is believed that much of the talk concerning the possible location of the farm was due to the offering of sites to the committee by local land holders.

Satan Finds Work for Idle Hands to Do

ONTARIO, Sept. 8.—Quell the instinct for crime in the juvenile mind by providing an interesting vocational work, Ray R. Delsaur, in charge of the pigeon station at Chaffey Union High School, urges in his annual report to Chaffey School Board. Since establishment of the pigeon station at Chaffey, Juvenile Officer Delsaur has become convinced that all juveniles have a desire to follow a "hobby" or vocation, and if that desire is fulfilled there will be no thought of disobeyance or law-breaking. A number of boys who apparently had no interest in school whatever, when brought into contact with pigeons and pigeon culture at the high school took up the work with enthusiasm, and now have pigeon lofts of their own and are doing well financially in squab raising. In his report Delsaur said prevention is much cheaper than cure, the cure always leaving a bad scar. If vocational training can be applied as a cure it should better serve as a preventative and a help in solving the problem of human conduct.

At Alcatraz Island, San Francisco, United States Disciplinary Barracks, pigeon raising is one of the outstanding and favored activities of the prisoners. According to Delsaur, records of the prisoners show that in many cases their criminal careers started with truancy from school because they were not interested in their studies. The problem of juvenile delinquency will be solved by proper vocational courses available for the juveniles who have a distaste for school.

PERMIT GIVEN TO STUDENT BUS LINE

VAN NUYS, Sept. 8.—The Board of Public Utilities and Transportation at Los Angeles has granted a franchise to the Santa Monica Bus Company for the operation of a bus line from Van Nuys to the university campus at Westwood, according to announcement here by Gordon McDonough, manager of the San Fernando Valley branch of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce at Van Nuys. Other towns in San Fernando Valley will make efforts to connect with the bus line at its Van Nuys terminus. The bus line will use the new highway that has been cut through Santa Monica Mountains south of here, and which leads direct to the university. But for this new road, students would be forced to use another route that would take them at least two hours to get to the school. The through-the-mountain trip will take about twenty minutes.

GIRL DIES IN FALL AT BEACH

Plunge From Roller Coaster Thought to Have Been Deliberate

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 8.—Either falling or leaping from a speeding car on the "High Boy" roller coaster, Ocean Park pier, Mrs. Imogene Weatherwax, 20 years of age, of 1011 Hammond street, Sherman, plunged to her death on the piling below at midnight last night. Police and officials of the coaster were investigating the tragedy today, following a statement by O. E. Hopson, Jr., of 1420 Ninth street, this city, that he had overheard a girl, said to have been seated beside Mrs. Weatherwax prior to the fatality, tell other members of the party which had visited the beach that Mrs. Weatherwax "jumped out as she said she was going to do, and we couldn't hold her."

Another member of the party, according to Hopson 's signed statement, cautioned this girl against talking.

The body was taken to the Kirkalie undertaking establishment in Ocean Park, where a Coroner's inquest will be held early in the week. Among the probable witnesses, according to the police list, will be Earl Clark, 1622 Santee street, Los Angeles, who stated he saw Mrs. Weatherwax stand up in the car; A. J. Detemple, address not given, who told Officer Hoffman he had advised the girl to sit down; E. C. Davis, 11824 Goshen avenue, Los Angeles; Roland Ogar, 1234 Havenhurst Drive; Francis and Lucile Baker, 1151 Orange Grove avenue; Virginia Rogers, 1443 3-4 Barry avenue; Buss Andrews, 1885 Manchester avenue; R. Wethersop, Laurel Canyon, and Marion Weaver, 431 Vesta street, Beverly Hills.

The inquest is expected to bring out any motive the girl might have had for jumping, if her action was deliberate.

Mexican Murder Still a Mystery

MONROVIA, Sept. 8.—No additional clews to the identity of the murder of Secundino Rodriguez, leader in local Mexican affairs, who was killed last night with a single blow from an iron spike in the course of a drunken fight at 510 Almond street, have been discovered, police announce tonight.

According to the story told Deputy Sheriff Frank Gompert and Chief of Police Frank Scott, five Mexicans, including Pedro Contreras and his brother, Tranquillo Contreras, engaged in a battle royal in the yard of the Almond - street house, which attracted 300 spectators and was climaxed when Rodriguez was felled.

There were no lights about the premises, so that the scores who were watching the fight were unable to determine who struck the death blow.

An eighteen-inch iron spike, to which three hairs clung, was discovered near the victim's body by Deputy Constable J. Ross Woodland. The hairs will be examined to determine whether they belonged to Rodriguez, according to Deputy Sheriff Gompert.

Pedro Contreras is being held in the City Jail as a material witness.

Ray Rodriguez, son of the dead man, asserted that his father had no known enemies and that robbery could not have been the motive of the crime.

Chief Scott reported that the murder was the first to occur in this city in the last three years.

If the suggestions of the planning body are approved by the city commission it is expected the county organization will soon begin plans for the connection of major arteries with Alhambra streets.

The Alhambra Planning Commission recommended that Fremont avenue be made an eighty-foot thoroughfare. It did not agree with the regional body's recommendation that Garfield avenue be widened to 100 feet, holding that an eighty-foot width is sufficient.

MORE FOLKS RIDE THAN EAT

Statistics Expert Shows More is Spent Annually for Autos Than for Groceries in Pantry

VAN NUYS, Sept. 8.—E. H. Slocum, San Fernando Valley expert accountant, with headquarters here, in a statement issued here today shows that folks are now riding more than they eat. In other words, more is being spent for autos than for groceries. Slocum bases his figures on per-capita buying factors on the Pacific Coast.

"For automobiles," he says, "the average per - capita expenditure each year is, $53.13, while for groceries and delicatessen only $48 is spent. This figure is not for the upkeep of automobiles, but only for purchase of cars. It is estimated that a motorist driving about an average distance, spends around $30 per month for up-keep, which has nothing to do with the figure of $48 in the data.

"And here is one that husbands will view with alarm. Women spend almost as much for clothing as for food. The average per-capita expenditure for women's clothing amounts to $36.95 a year, and that is only about $11 less than the grocery bill for each man, woman and child, old enough to make purchases.

MEN CHEAPER DRESSERS

"Men are slightly more conservative when it comes to dressing, the figures will show. They spend on an average of $32.37 a year, or $4.68 less than women.

"For meat and poultry, $22.02 is the average expenditure per capita, proving that the claim made by certain eastern intellectuals that everyone in California has lumbago and is on a vegetable diet, is so much baloney. Gasoline and oil cost each person on an average of $19.34 a year. For furniture, only $16.77 is spent in a year's time by the 'average' man or woman. And for candy, chewing gum and other such knicknacks, every citizen disposes of $13.32 a year, according to figures on record."

WEDDING PRESENTS

Slocum maintains that most persons spend about as much for milk, butter and eggs as for dry goods and notions. His figures show an annual expenditure of $15.41 for dry goods and $15.60 for dairy products. Jewelry and silverware only costs the average person $11.77 per year, which, of course, includes all the wedding presents that it is the custom to pass about in June and the rest of the eleven months.

THEATER IS PROPOSED IN SAN DIEGO

Los Angeles Man to Erect $1,000,000 Building in Southern City

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 8.—Construction of a $1,000,000 theater on the block bounded by A, B, Sixth and Seventh streets became a probability today with receipt of a telegram from New York by Jesse H. Shreve, president of Southwest Union Securities Company. The message was received from J. Toplitsky of Los Angeles, who holds an option on the block, given by Shreve a month ago. Toplitsky, just returned from Europe, telegraphed Shreve that he will leave at once for the Pacific Coast and expects to reach Los Angels the 11th inst. His option expires the 14th inst., and he is hastening home, it is believed, to close the deal.

Paramount and Warner Brothers motion-picture organizations are behind the movement for a new playhouse, it is said. These interests plan a $1,000,000 theater on the block and will present the Publix Theater circuit of vaudeville and pictures, it is believed. Construction of the new Fox Theater one block east of the proposed location and purchase by the Radio-Keith-Orpheum circuit of the Pantages Theater, one block west, makes the site under option particularly desirable for the opposition circuit, veteran showmen say.

Information received by Shreve indicated that the Warner Brothers and Paramount interests are anxious to have an adequate playhouse here for their releases. Competition between that combination and the Fox interests is keen, it is known, and this strengthens the belief that San Diego is to have another movie palace.

PUBLIC ROAD CASE TO BE CONTINUED

Further Arguments Will be Heard in Attempt to Secure Elwood Easement

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 8.—After intimating to attorneys for the oil companies and interests with tideland oil permits other than the Barnsdall and Rio Grande Oil Companies that he was going to rule against the complaint to secure a public road through the Elwood coastal field, Judge Collier yesterday morning granted a continuance in the case until the 14th inst., to permit further arguments.

Judge Collier heard the case in extra sessions of Superior Court here several weeks ago and has had it under advisement. The case was brought by the Attorney - General for the State, claiming that a public road through the oil field was needed by the oil companies holding State tideland oil permits there.

In announcing his decision to rule against the State, Judge Collier said he was of the opinion that the Attorney-General was without authority in bringing the suit. The judge indicated he believed the suit was instigated primarily for the interest of the oil companies.

Attorney W. G. Griffith of the firm of Griffith & Thornburgh, spent a part of yesterday morning in conference with the judge, at which time the announcement was made.

The suit brought by the State is the second attempt of the oil companies to obtain a road through the Barnsdall and Rio Grande holdings. A few weeks ago, another Superior Court judge ruled against the plaintiff in a suit brought by the county to open an extension of Elwood Road to the beach.

Motorist Faces Serious Charge After Accident

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 8.—A charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated was filed against Paul Thomas, 32 years of age, an electrician of 1427 Tenth street, this city, following a week-end accident on Seventh street, near Georgina avenue, in which his two small children and another child, riding with him, and three young high school boys, in another car, were injured.

According to the police report Thomas was intoxicated, and the boys in the other car declared they had no chance to avoid a collision, Thomas steering his car directly into them as they were about to pass. Police found Thomas's car over the curb on the opposite side of the road where, witnesses said, he had backed it following the crash.

The high school boys were Robert Cotton, 926 Lincoln Boulevard; Tony Cockins, 425 Palisades avenue, and Don Fowler. All were cut, and the Cockins boy had his knee and nose badly injured. Of the three children riding with the assertedly drunk driver, Catherine Thomas, 8 years of age, his daughter, sustained a possible skull fracture. Ralph, a son, 6, had both forearms fractured. Hazel Sparks, 6, a companion, sustained severe cuts. All three children were taken to the County Welfare Hospital.

"MISS CANADA" BADLY HURT

Miss Zedna May Farley's Skull Fractured in Freak Mishap; Stepping From Car, Struck by Another

Zedna May Farley

Miss Farley had won prizes at recent beauty contests at Exposition Park, Los Angeles, and at San Diego, and her father, Harry Farley, of 38 North Greenwood avenue, had planned to enter his daughter in national beauty contests this year.

As the beauty was stepping from an automobile at the intersection of Colorado street and Greenwood avenue, this afternoon, she was struck and thrown ten feet in the air by another machine driven by Edward B. Hankins of 1717 La Fayette Drive, Altadena, police reported.

Miss Farley is asserted to have been driving with Reginald Vestey, 15 years of age, of 2565 Mollville avenue, San Marino. She had been learning to drive, and just before the Vestey automobile was sideswiped, she had stepped out of the car to change places with her companion, Detective Lieutenants Kaighin and Cropsey reported.

At the Pasadena Emergency Hospital, the victim was given first aid for probable fractures of her skull, shoulder, and ribs, and for a deep pavement burn on her cheek, which physicians assert may leave a scar.

Hankins was released after being questioned at police headquarters.

He told detectives that he "must have had his mind on something else," when he collided with the parked car.

CHIEF OF POLICE TO BE NAMED TUESDAY

ALHAMBRA, Sept. 8.—The City Commission is expected Tuesday to announce its choice of a police chief to succeed M. R. Spencer, who resigned in a recent shake-up of the department. There are George Houser, former member of the City Commission and Commissioner of Public Safety; George Contreras, former chief of detectives in the District Attorney's office under Asa Keyes, and Ray Adams, former Chief of Police of Oxnard.

The resignation of Spencer is effective Tuesday as is also the abolishment of the detective bureau. Unless the commission changes its stand, Detective Lieutenants Muhrl Boone and Joe Vigneau will be without jobs after that day. Spencer is expected to be named captain, his rank under civil service.

Superior Judge Hartley Shaw a few days ago rendered a decision upholding the conviction. The writ will seek to reverse his opinion.

Last April, Ross is said to have been in charge of distribution of an advertising publication for a Los Angeles concern having a branch in this city. A complaint was filed against him. He was found guilty when the case was heard. Benjamin & Benjamin are the attorneys for Ross.

BAY CITY BUNKO SUSPECT SEIZED

Victim of $15,000 Swindle Said to Be Mellon Kin

Oil Man Arrested Here in Spectacular Manner

Capture Believed to Have Foiled Mexican Trip

On the eve, it is believed, of his contemplated departure for Mexico, Walter F. Rusk, 43 years of age, self-styled oil man, was taken into custody yesterday on a charge of having bunkoed a wealthy retired business man and supposed relative of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon out of $15,000 in a money-making swindle in San Francisco.

The arrest was made by Chief Investigator O'Brien of the District Attorney's office and Captain of Detectives Hawtrey at 508 McCadden Place, where Rusk is said to have been residing temporarily since his reported arrival from San Francisco.

Details of the asserted swindle were not available here, but it is understood that the victim's name is Sears. Investigation of the case had been made by San Francisco officers who, after learning that Rusk fled here, dispatched a telegram asking warrant for his arrest to Los Angeles. Bail in the warrant is set at $50,000.

Rusk's arrest was somewhat spectacular, Hawtrey reported. His request to allow the detective captain and Officer O'Brien admittance until the prisoner had been identified by uniformed officers whom he called from the Hollywood Police Station, the latter said, and then not until Rusk threatened to shoot the officers out of the front door.

Rusk hotly denied the charges when in possession the officers stated they found $2463 and two tickets to Mexico City, which are held as evidence.

It is expected that San Francisco officers will arrive this morning to take the suspect to the northern city.

WARRANTS IN WARRANT AVAILABLE IN NORTH

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8. (Exclusive)—Details contained in the arrest resulting in the arrest in Los Angeles today of Walter F. Rusk, self-styled oil man, were unavailable here tonight, efforts to locate Police Judge O'Brien, who issued it, being futile. Investigation of the case here is in the hands of members of the police bunko squad, and they, too, were off duty and could not be reached for a statement. It was learned, however, that the man is named in the warrant as John Doe Burke, alias Wallace.

CALIFORNIA TEMPLARS END SESSION

Dr. Peterson of This City Retained as Chief of Official Staff

Dr. Albin Peterson of this city was re-elected Grand Chief Templar of the California Grand Lodge, International Order of Good Templars, which closed its annual session yesterday. This was the seventieth annual convention and was declared to have been one of the most important in recent years. The delegates selected Oakland as the convention city for the 1930 session. N. H. Keklason of San Francisco was chosen Grand Secretary; E. F. Jackson, Grand Counselor; Rose Burness, superintendent of educational work, and L. A. Swan, superintendent of legislative work.

In his annual message to the lodge, Grand Chief Templar Peterson said: "There is still much to be done by the Good Templars of this nation. The fight is not over. Since prohibition went into effect there are many people and some of our members who believe the battle is won. This is, of course, a dangerous attitude. We must impress the people we contact with the fact that our watchword is 'Persistent education to create and sustain a profound public opinion on the subject of temperance.

"Our lodges can be made mighty factors for good in this State by the cultivation of the world - wide idea of the brotherhood of man. I also want to emphasize the necessity for electing the right men to office and keeping them there. Mayor Porter, I believe, will help us maintain our high ideals. Dist.-Atty. Fitts seems disposed to enforce the laws. A man who is not in sympathy with the existing laws cannot be expected to enforce them."

The Grand Chief Templar will visit the lodges in the larger cities. The officials and others of the Grand Lodge are planning a trip to Stockholm, Sweden, in 1930, when the Grand Supreme Lodge of Good Templars meets in July.

Stars' Premiere in Court Today

Numerous motion-picture luminaries are scheduled to appear in the three departments of the United States District Court today to have charges of making asserted fraudulent income tax returns set for trial.

Among them are King Vidor and Raymond Griffith. J. Marjorie Berger, income tax adviser, is billed and Tom Mix, though scheduled to appear, probably will not be in court.

MILKMAIDS WILL COMPETE AT FAIR

Battle Royal Will Be Featured at Pomona Exposition

Coaxing Bossy

Marie McGough, last-year winner, practicing up to defend title, while Dorothy Marshall plays soothing music.

A BATTLE royal is to be waged among the fair milkmaids up to 18 years of age at Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona. Two or three healthy advocates of the old-fashioned method are out after the crown now worn by Miss Marie McGough, Chaffey Union High School girl, who won the contest last year.

However, Miss McGough is practicing daily with the intention of holding her laurels or at least giving the other contenders a run for their money.

The milkmaid contest is one of the many interesting features each year at the fair. It is conducted under the supervision of Jay Dutter, southern representative of the California Dairy Council, and the winner is sent to the Pacific Slope Dairy Show in Oakland to compete for the Coast title.

Los Angeles County Fair opens on Tuesday, the 17th inst. and continues through the following Sunday. The milking contest is to be held on Friday afternoon. According to Dutter, whose offices are in the Chamber of Commerce Building in Los Angeles, the entry list will be larger than ever this year.

Wide notoriety was gained last year when motion pictures of the event were taken by several of the large news-reel outfits. The only conditions are that the entrant be a resident of California not over 18 years of age. Entries can be made at the fair offices in Pomona any time up to Wednesday evening, the 18th inst.

BAND MUSIC FROM PLANE TO BE BROADCAST TODAY

Band music will be broadcast today between 12:30 and 12:45 p.m. and 2:30 and 2:45 p.m. from an airplane 3000 feet in the air. The music is to be provided by ten members of the Montmartre Cafe band in a Western Air Express passenger liner. The broadcast is to be made over station KFWB, which will catch the music as it comes out of the air. The musical number to be featured is "Big Boy Jess," George Whiting's recent aviation song.

Writing of the song was featured by a nation-wide contest for the selection of the title. The nine winners of the contest, coming from nine leading cities in the nation, now are in Los Angeles at the Roosevelt Hotel and as a reward for their efforts are making a 5180-mile aerial tour over Western Air Express lines. They spent yesterday as the guests of the Howard Automobile Company with an automobile tour through the southern section of the State. They enjoyed dinner at the Mission Inn at Riverside and then returned to this city.

Today they will go by airplane to Catalina Island and tonight they are to be guests at Grauman's Egyptian Theater. Tomorrow they will go by airplane to Agua Caliente.

New Shoe Shop Handling Kahler Line Open Today

BY OLIVE GRAY

The new shoe shop, opening today at No. 624 South Olive street, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greenberg, carries a full line of Dr. Kahler shoes.

Dr. Kahler, who, in 1883, produced a shoe constructed along lines produced after long study of the scientific needs of the human foot, declared that five features are essential to foot health and foot comfort. These features are said to be embodied in the shoes which, none the less, make concessions to style, excelled by none—it is declared.

The Dr. Kahler dealer asserts that "footwear has a direct bearing on health," and that "unsuitable footwear can put more lines in a woman's face than any other single piece of improperly fitted apparel." He adds, "Nor can the assertion be disputed that folks' feet differ as much as their faces." Further, this student of feet says that "foot comfort is essential to happiness, beauty and success."

The shop wherein Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greenberg dispense these health shoes is furnished attractively and conveniently located, and the opening, today, should prove notable. Mr. and Mrs. Greenberg are equal partners in the business.

Names of persons nationally famous, from President Lincoln to President Coolidge and including many others prominent in diplomacy and society, are proudly numbered among patrons of the Dr. Peter Kahler shoes.

Henderson to Again Lead in Charity Drive

Community Chest campaign organizers announce Harry F. Henderson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., chairman of the Business Districts Divisions, a position he held last year. The area comprises nine divisions covering the territory from Sunset Boulevard to Pico, and from Figueroa street to Los Angeles River. The city, county and Federal employees divisions are included. Last year a volunteer army of 3000 business men and women obtained a total of $443,000 from 106,500 subscribers in the divisions.

HARRY F. HENDERSON

Henderson has appointed Mrs. Ruth Sherman and George W. Dryer as colonels of Divisions 1 and 4 respectively. Divisional secretaries appointed to date include: Division 1, Miss Alice Streckwald of the Children's Protective Association; Division 2, Mrs. Edna Jones of the Salvation Army; Division 3, J. Gustave White and E. C. Russell of the Y.M.C.A.; Division 4, P. A. McCormack of the Volunteers of America; Division 5, Miss Margaret Barnard and Miss Martha Stone of the American Red Cross; Division 6, E. B. DeGroot of the Boy Scouts of America; Division 7, I. Irving Lipsitch of the Jewish Welfare Federation; and Division 8, H. A. R. Carlton of the Community Industries.

MILITARY MEN PROMOTED

Capt. E. R. Collins of 266 South Normandie avenue has been promoted to major in the Specialist Reserve, and First Lieutenant Martin G. De Shazo of 632 North La Jolla avenue, Hollywood, was promoted a captain of infantry reserve, according to information received from Maj.-Gen. Hines's headquarters at the Presidio yesterday.

Bennett to Give Ideas on Saving Gas

Urgent need for action on the part of oil field operators to conserve the natural gas resources of the State will be discussed at a meeting and banquet of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by James S. Bennett, counsel for direction of national resources of California, Wednesday night. The banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. at the Engineers' Club, 833 South Spring street.

Attorney Bennett has filed injunction suits against operators in four oil fields to force them to take measures in conserving the natural gas that is blown into the air from the wells. The appalling wastage of gas will soon deplete the supply of the cheap fuel unless proper steps are taking at once, Bennett recently asserted when he filed the suits.

The court actions were directed against operators in the fields at Long Beach, Seal Beach, Ventura and Huntington Beach.

CITY PLANT HELD NUISANCE

Removal of Asphalt Works on McPherson Street Asked by Health Department

On the ground that the city is operating an asphalt plant at 2501 McPherson street under conditions which would not be tolerated if so operated by a private concern, the Board of Health Commissioners has requested the City Council to make some provision for its removal to a more suitable location as early as possible as it will be necessary to abate it as a public menace.

The action of the board was taken on recommendation of Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, who stated that numerous complaints had been made to the department by firms and residents in the vicinity of the plant because of the dust and noise.

The volume of fine dust, in particular, Parrish stated, is a menace to the health of the community.

The communication drawn up for transmission to the Council stated that the commission did not desire to embarrass that body, but urged that corrective action be initiated at an early date.

George J. Galloway, of the Bureau of Housing and Sanitation, informed the commission that the "delapidated plant has stood since 1915 and is in a deplorable condition with antiquated buildings in very bad repair and absence of means to control smoke and dust."

R. W. Stewart, assistant city engineer, stated that options have been obtained for the site of a new plant that would cost $50,000 and that he has conferred with the City Council Finance Committee regarding necessary appropriations.

SKYSCRAPER APARTMENT PROJECT DRAWS PROTEST

Plans to erect a thirty-story hotel - apartment building in the West Hollywood district, near Fairfax and Santa Monica, just outside of the city limits, have drawn fire from city planners in a series of letters to the County Board of Supervisors, which will be acted on today.

Los Angeles ordinances against buildings more than 150 feet high would be "flouted" if it were possible to erect tall buildings in "islands" surrounded by city territory, it was pointed out in a letter from Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Realty Board, who quotes a report from G. Gordon Whitnall, director of City Planning.

To permit such buildings in county territory would be to allow an unfair advantage to be taken of the owners of city property, it was pointed out.

The only buildings in Los Angeles taller than the height limit are one fourteen-story office building erected before the ordinance was passed, and the City Hall, which was authorized by a referendum vote of the people.

Hit-Run Driver Given Sentence Under New Law

Found guilty of hit-and-run driving, Jose Estrada, Jr., of 535½ North Main street, is serving a twenty-day jail sentence imposed by Traffic Judge Northrup.

Evidence introduced by Deputy City Prosecutor Reynolds showed that Estrada, in an effort to cross Broadway on Sunset Boulevard at 4:30 a.m. on August 25, last, crashed into a car driven by Winfred Carter of Duarte, in which Edwin Hall, 5804 York Boulevard, was a passenger. Carter's machine was badly damaged, but Hall, although hurled ten feet through the air by the impact, escaped without serious injury.

The case is the first in which a conviction has been obtained under the new Section 141-B of the California Vehicle Act. Previously hit-and-run driving, whether or not anyone was injured, was a felony. The new section, making it a misdemeanor where damage is confined to a machine, was inserted in the act when it was found impossible to obtain a conviction before a jury on the felony charge where no personal damage was inflicted.

MAPS APPROVED

Council has approved the assessment district map for the installation of lighting appliances in Slauson avenue between Angeles Mesa Drive and Hillcrest Drive.

Entertainment features have been arranged.

SETBACK LINES ORDERED

The ordinance calling for fifteen-foot setback lines in Harvard Boulevard between Beverly Boulevard and First street has been adopted by council.

TRACK PERMIT GRANTED

BOOKWORMS GET HOT TIPS OFF THE ICE

Radioed List of Byrd's Library Starts Run on Titles in Los Angeles

Los Angeles book readers follow radio tips from the South Pole, it was revealed yesterday by Mary Alice Boyd, readers' adviser of the Los Angeles Public Library. Following publication in The Times of Russell Owen's radioed report on what Commander Byrd and his men read to while away the six months' night in Little America, Antarctica, there was a rush of requests at the local library for Hudson's "Green Mansions," Galsworthy's "Forsythe Saga," Dunn Byrne's "Messer Marco Polo" and Stephen's "Crock of Gold." Books on polar adventure also were in heavy demand here.

During August's heat 107 new readers enrolled for the "Reading With a Purpose" course offered by the library. Subjects leading in popularity were "Frontiers of Knowledge," "Twentieth Century American Novels," "Good English," "Stars" and "Journalism and Advertising."

The list of books recommended may be borrowed at the library readers' adviser's desk. Miss Boyd says the lure of these courses is the encouragement they offer to keep on learning, the horizons they widen, and the unlimited possibilities they offer for enjoyment to all who are able to read.

MRS. BELL'S RITES TODAY

REQUEST TRANSMITTED
